SMALL BOAT MISSING; SEARCHERS FIND DEBRIS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Search and rescue officials reported today the finding of debris in an area where a search was under way for a 16-foot pleasure boat with one man aboard.

The boat was reported missing Friday on a trip to Call Inlet from Minstrel Island, near the north end of Vancouver Island.

The name of the missing man was withheld.

PM Turns Down Provinces On Plea for Housing Funds

WINNING REEVES show their victory smiles after Saturday's municipal elections. Reeve Hugh Curtis (centre) easily defeated his opponent in Vancouver Island's biggest municipality, Saanich. Reeve Ray Bryant (right) of Esquimalt defeated two opponents for a second term. Oak Bay councillor Fred Hawes beat a single opponent. Former Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox did not contest this election. Federal Cutback Next Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal - provincial housing conference zeroed in quickly on the subject of money at its opening session today.

Prime Minister Pearson said less, not more, will be available from the federal government for housing and urban development in 1968.

The conference was attended by all provincial premiers except Bennett of B.C. and Thatcher of Saskatchewan. B.C. was represented by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

Most premiers said Ottawa must give housing programs utmost priority and provide even more direct lending through Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

Mr. Pearson also said that long-range financing of urban development should properly come from provincial and municipal tax revenues, not federal coffers.

FAIL TO SEE LOGIC

Massive financing by the federal government is the only way to meet urban needs, Mr. Robarts said.

Mr. Smith failed to see the logic of the prime minister's statement that there is "more justification for using provincial taxing power" in housing and urban environment matters.

Premier Johnson of Quebec stressed Quebec's concern over federal "intervention" in housing matters, which he said began in 1919 and has continued since.

Quebec and Ottawa now were in agreement on existing federal programs and he did not want to see more federal initiatives. Quebec would exercise full powers in urban affairs and demand no-strings cash if federal funds are extended in future for specific programs.

There was little enthusiasm for a proposal by Mr. Pearson to set up a new national council that would define targets for

LOOSE MONEY CAR BRINGS POLICE ON RUN

LONDON (UPI)—A freight car loaded with $48 million worth of banknotes broke loose from a Liverpool-bound train today, bringing police on the run.

A security alert to Scotland Yard brought police cars pouring to Willesden Junction in northwest London to surround the freight car until a spare engine was brought and the money and wagon were towed away.

The car, with three guards locked inside, came uncoupled from the train not long after leaving Euston Station.

FIFTH PEDESTRIAN

Man Killed Crossing Road In Saanich

An 81-year-old pedestrian died in St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday night one hour after he was hit by a car on the Trans-Canada Highway at Tillicum Road.

Joseph Adlington, 581 Dumeresq Street, is the fourth octogenarian killed on Greater Victoria streets in the past three weeks.

Saanich police said Adlington was crossing the highway from north to south when he was hit by an eastbound car driven by Roy Twan of 1644 Northfield St. in Nanaimo.

Adlington was rushed to hospital by Saanich ambulance. The driver was also taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. He was treated for face cuts and released.

DARK CLOTHING

Police said Adlington was wearing dark clothing. The heavy Sunday rains had stopped, but the roads were still wet.

Mr. Adlington was born in England and emigrated to Winnipeg where he was a postman for many years.

He moved to Victoria on his retirement 18 years ago. His wife died last February.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said an inquest will be held, but the time and place are still to be determined.

Sunday's traffic death is the fifth pedestrian killed in three weeks.

On Nov. 21, Alfred Kneen, 85, of 1345 Stanley, died three hours after being struck by a car at Pandora and Stanley.

Twelve hours later, on Nov. 22, Miss Winnifred Tucker, 82, of 340 Linden, died shortly after being hit by a car in the 1100 block Fairfield.

On Nov. 28, six-year-old Lenore Harkin was killed when struck by a car as she crossed Douglas St. south of Tolmie.

Dec. 5, Mrs. W. W. Patterson, 81, of 1333 Fort, died one hour and 20 minutes after she was knocked down by a car at Fort and Fernwood.

There have been 22 traffic fatalities in Greater Victoria this year.

Maneater Kills Six in a Week

NEW DELHI (UPI) — A man-eating tiger has killed six persons in less than a week in the village of Kurundi in dense jungle in central India, district officials said.

Many of the inhabitants of the remote area, called "The Paradise of Tigers," believe that man-eaters are not beasts but restless human souls which have entered the bodies of tigers.

Local authorities were reported to have offered rewards for the destruction of the marauder and asked professional hunters to try to kill it.

GUILD SETTLES

Pacific Press Strike Ended

VANCOUVER (CP)—Members of the Vancouver-New Westminster Newspaper Guild today approved a 28-month wage contract, ending a three-day strike against Pacific Press, Ltd.

An estimated 400 union members at an 8 a.m. meeting in a temporary strike hall approved the agreement in a voice vote.

Pacific Press prints The Sun and Province daily newspapers.

The agreement, which provides for an increase of 16 per cent for senior reporters and advertising salesmen, was reached at 3 a.m. after 15 hours of bargaining.

A company spokesman said the agreement provides for an increase of 16 per cent on all salaries over $140 a week. Minimum rate for senior reporters and advertising salesmen will go to $177.50 during the last month of the agreement from the present $147.75 a week.

A spokesman for the union said it was difficult to describe increases in terms of percentages because the guild had bargained for various dollar increases in a wide range of classifications.

For example senior reporters, whose minimum rate now is $147.75 will receive $161.05 retroactive to July 1—an increase of nine per cent; $172.35 Sept. 1, 1968—an increase of seven per cent; plus an additional $5.15 in the final month of the contract.

This works out to about 20 per cent over the life of the contract.

The company's final offer before the strike began last Friday was for a 16-per-cent increase over 28 months with a

Indian Quake Kills 100

(Times News Services)

BOMBAY—A violent earthquake hit mountainous southwest India today, levelled a town at the epicentre and left 100 dead, more than 1,000 injured and more than 5,000 homeless, Maharashtra State officials said.

The town was Koynanagar, 150 miles southeast of Bombay in the Ghats Mountains. The United News of India said 80 per cent of the houses and buildings in the town were destroyed.

The town sits atop a 3,000-foot mountain and is the site of a major hydroelectric dam serving Bombay. The dam was reported undamaged, but power was shut down, blacking out Bombay.

Home Minister Y. B. Chavan went to the scene. All available state transport, buses and ambulances with doctors and nurses was sent from Bombay.

The quake struck as most people slept.

Reds Lose 1,200 In Week's Fighting

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong troops were badly mauled in a suicide assault Sunday on a fortified U.S. artillery post 50 miles north of Saigon while other guerrilla units made three sharp attacks on outposts within 25 miles of the capital.

The Communist death toll in major actions during the last week climbed past 1,200, by U.S. and South Vietnamese calculations.

An estimated 400 Viet Cong charged out of the pre-dawn darkness toward bunkers in the American artillery post but were caught in a heavy crossfire of machine-guns, grenade launchers, cannon and howitzers level for point-blank fire.

U.S. soldiers found 124 Viet Cong bodies on the battlefield and said many were only teen-agers. One American was killed and 31 wounded in the two-hour battle for the 120-man post.

Snow, Cold Weather Grips Most of Europe

LONDON (UPI) — A storm system chilled Europe today with some of the coldest weather in 28 years, piling up six-foot snowdrifts on Yugoslavia's usually mild Adriatic coast and spreading snow to the Italian boot and southern Spain.

Temperatures in the Alps fell to the lowest level in years. It was 13 below zero at one northern Italian ski resort and temperatures in the Dolomites were the coldest since December 1939.

Snow closed all mountain passes from Spain through the Pyrenees into France. More than a foot of snow was reported at Pamplona in Northern Spain.

Bologna, Florence and the Italian Riviera were blanketed with snow and most of Germany, Poland and Russia already had snow.

TOT LURED TO DEATH IN WOODS

Boy, 15, Confesses Kidnap-Killing

VERSAILLES, France (AP) — A 15-year-old boy admitted Sunday he kidnapped and killed the seven-year-old son of a French government official and collected $12,000 in ransom money, police said Sunday. They reported the money had been recovered.

The police report said the boy, who could not be identified in accordance with French law on juvenile crimes, lured Emmanuel Maillairt to his death as they returned home for lunch from school last Monday.

On the pretext of playing a game called "junk man," the 15-year-old got Emmanuel to climb into a packing case on a baby carriage chasis and rushed him to the death scene in the woods, police said. Emmanuel was bludgeoned to death.

The two boys lived next door to each other. Neighbors described the older of the two as "a weird boy with wild eyes." He was arrested at the luxurious home of his grandparents. His parents are divorced. Police questioned his mother and a male adquaintance at length about the case.

Police Commissioner Rene Camard told a press conference the 15-year-old had conceived the kidnapping, executed it, and skillfully used a Roman Catholic priest as the intermediary to boost a ransom demand from the original $4,000 to the $12,000 that was paid, and also to make a request for $8,000 additional.

The ransom was handed over when the boy gave the priest, a family friend, the boy's sweater and a sock, Camard said.

Camard gave this as the 15-year-old boy's story:

He placed the packing case on the baby carriage chassis and rolled it near the school. He asked the boy if he wanted to play "junk man," which meant riding inside the case which the older boy pushed along the sidewalk.

The 15-year-old, shouting "junk man" the way scrap-iron buyers do, pushed the carriage to the boy's home, a luxurious villa. He ran to the door and slipped a prepared ransom note under it, then resumed pushing the carriage without the victim's knowing what he had done.

He pushed the cart—the victim inside—into the woods nearby. The older boy had built a hut of scrap lumber where, neighbors said, he sometimes sat all day with a toy gun trying to scare children playing nearby. There he clubbed Emmanuel to death with a piece of wood and dragged his body into a thicket. He kept several articles of clothing to prove his possession of the boy.

The boy was dead 15

Skim Milk From USC Saves Thousands of Young Lives

By KATHRINE THOMAS

Malnutrition is responsible for 70 per cent of all diseases in India.

Little Azari Khatoon in a Salvation Army Clinic in Calcutta weighed five pounds at the age of one.

After 13 months of intensive feeding with Canadian-bought milk, she weighed 17.2 pounds.

In the same city, a three-and-a-half-year-old child was brought to the clinic weighing 13 pounds—another four-year-old had never walked, due to lack of food.

One woman carried her three-year-old boy 175 miles on her back to see the doctor in Calcutta.

It was easy, the child weighed 14 pounds.

According to the director of the Bala Mandir Foundlings Home in Madras, abandoned babies are delivered at their threshold weighing three pounds.

Only once last year did she have one weighing the normal six pounds.

"But out of 80 babies admitted in 1964," she said, "only 10 had died."

The others she has been able to save through Unitarian Service Committee skim milk.

More than 70 per cent of the children also have worms.

Often the worms crawl out of the children's noses and mouths.

Often whole families in India have taken poison rather than face such starvation.

The Indian government is doing its best—through food rationing to distribute wheat more fairly.

But India needs Canadian milk. In 1966 six carloads of milk (216,000 lbs.) were shipped to 11 different USC distribution areas in India.

One six-ounce cup costs slightly over one cent.

Since the Indian diet is more devoid of proteins than ever before, this precious milk, bought with funds contributed during the Times Christmas Appeal, is desperately needed.

Malnutrition is definitely on the increase in India and yet one cent buys a cup of milk.

Once cent for a cup of milk. Contributions to the Children of Asia Fund may be left at the main branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, or mailed in care of the Victoria Daily Times.

Dictionary of Canada Traces Origins of Everyday Expression

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

During the last 300 years there have been many theories advanced about the origin of the name Canada.

One is that it comes from "Aca nada," Spanish for "Here is nothing," a statement supposedly uttered in disappointment by Spaniards who found no gold when they landed on the shore of Bay of Chaleurs.

Another is that it is a variation of Canara or Canarta, names of places in southern India, and that it was chosen because the explorers perhaps thought they had landed in India.

Still another is that it arose from "Kanatats!"—They are strangers—shouted by aboriginals when the first Europeans came up the St. Lawrence River.

These possibilities are among a few listed in A Dictionary of Canadianisms on Historical Principles, a new work produced for the W. J. Gage publishing company by a team of lexicographers.

NOT PURELY CANADIAN

But while conceding that the etymology of the name Canada is by no means clearly established, the authors describe most theories as fanciful and pretty well conclude that it was borrowed by the French from the Iroquoian word "kanata," meaning village or community.

Editors of the new dictionary, the first to provide a comprehensive collection of Canadian words and expressions, fortunately have encountered fewer problems in pinning down the origin or development of most others of the 10,000 entries.

For example, there's "high muckamuck" or "big muckymuck," slang for a big shot or the leading person in a group. It's said to be derived from "hyiu muckamuck," Chinook jargon for "lots to eat" or "a good big meal."

And mukluk, the warm knee-high boot worn by Eskimos and Indians of the Northwest Territories and Yukon, from "muklok"—a large or bearded seal.

The 875 pages are not devoted exclusively to pure Canadianism—words that originated in Canada. It includes North Americanisms shared with the United States, words that originated in France and were borrowed by the English from French settlers in Canada, and words brought from England and given different shades of meaning here.

An indication of the great care taken since the idea of such a book was born in 1954 at a meeting of the Canadian Linguistics Association at the University of Manitoba is the precise definitions of terms used in hockey and Canadian football.

For example, "ice" as a verb is defined as to put a team on the ice, equipped and ready to play, or to shoot a puck from behind one's own blueline past the red line at the opposing team's end of the rink.

The original work on the dictionary was done by C. J. Lovell, the American researcher and lexicographer who worked as an editorial assistant on the Dictionary of Americanisms.

Lovell died in 1960 and the Canadian publishers bought from the estate his entire lexicographical collection.

Walter S. Avis, professor of English at Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., and Mathew Scargill, head of the linguistics department at the University of Victoria, agreed to carry on the work.

From 1960 to 1964 editing was centred at the Calgary campus of the University of Alberta, then was moved to Victoria where the two editors were joined by Douglas Leechman, a research assistant at the lexicographical centre; Charles Crate, a teacher at Quesnel secondary school, Quesnel, B.C.; Patrick Drysdale, senior editor with Gage, and Joan Hall, an editorial assistant.

Publication deadline was originally 1970 but this was later advanced to Centennial Year.

Voters Veto $7 Million School Projects

VANCOUVER (CP) — Apprehensive British Columbia voters vetoed one dollar of every six proposed for school construction in province-wide municipal elections Saturday.

Voters rejected almost $7,200,000 worth of educational projects offered for approval in 32 different referendums.

Many of the defeated projects were deemed essential by school board officials. However, another $35,000,000 had been approved for school construction.

Officials in areas where school referendums were lost expressed concern about the future of education in their municipalities and overcrowding of existing facilities.

The setback for the school trustees in some areas follows Premier Bennett's call last month for voluntary restraints on spending, wages and prices to counter inflation.

Later in the month, Education Minister Leslie Peterson warned trustees the government would not necessarily provide funds for all projects—even if they received approval from voters.

He said the governments would finance only essential projects, though he left the door open for municipalities to finance their own new schools locally.

Camard said the youth had received the money Friday, but the sum, in unmarked bills, was found intact in the 16-year-old boy's home. Also found there was the magazine from which the letters of his original paste-up ransom note were cut, Camard said.

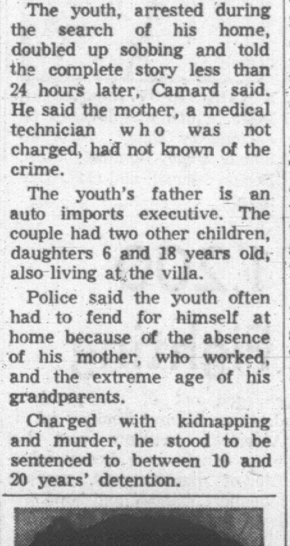
Police undertook a villa-by-villa search of the entire upper-class neighborhood Saturday.

The youth, arrested during the search of his home, doubled up sobbing and told the complete story less than 24 hours later, Camard said. He said the mother, a medical technician who was not charged, had not known of the crime.

The youth's father is an auto imports executive. The couple had two other children, daughters 6 and 18 years old, also living at the villa.

Police said the youth often had to fend for himself at home because of the absence of his mother, who worked, and the extreme age of his grandparents.

Charged with kidnapping and murder, he stood to be sentenced to between 10 and 20 years' detention.



SPEEDUP of blacktopping program, beautification of the city and creation of a friendly climate for business are early aims of Frank Ney, newly-elected mayor of Nanaimo, who beat aldermen E. E. Barsby and Jack Parker for the chief magistrate's post.

public action in housing and urban development.

It looked like a federal intervention to Premier Johnson and Premier Manning of Alberta said it might result in new top-heavy and overlapping administration.

Mr. Pearson said a joint federal-provincial mandate would instruct the council to examine "the total design of urban Canada.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland, in an eloquent portrayal of the coastal style of life in his province, said Ottawa must continue to help moving people out of tiny settlements and into modern, serviced communities.

Premier Manning countered the prime minister's argument that it is far too late to "tell people to go back to the farm."

Mr. Manning suggested people be dissuaded from moving to large cities by publicizing the problems of city living.

"We perhaps would be rendering a real service to our people," he said.

The proposed Council on Housing and Urban Development would have a joint federal-provincial mandate to examine "the total design of urban Canada," Mr. Pearson said.

It would be the council's job to publish comprehensive, objective assessments of housing and urban development needs and plans to meet them.

The body should have expert fulltime staff, a central office and perhaps regional offices, he suggested.

The message of the prime minister's kickoff statement, which was nationally televised, was that urbanization is the dominant social and economic condition of Canadian life, and all levels of government must join hands to tackle its problems.

He offered federal co-operation—and a long-range four-point program—but no immediate increase in grants, subsidies or loans.

"Current and temporary" financial difficulties would, in fact, prevent next year's direct lending by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. from reaching this year's mark of $950,000,000.

He said Ottawa does not want to encroach on the recognized primary jurisdiction of the provinces and municipalities over urban affairs.

The junior levels of government also had the primary financial responsibility.

"There is no more magic for solving our housing and other urban environment problems in the use of the federal tax mechanism than in the use of provincial taxing powers.

MORE JUSTIFICATION

"Indeed, it can be argued that there is more justification for using provincial taxing power for this purpose than for using the federal taxing power.

"The use of the federal tax mechanism would inevitably mean that residents of the less urbanized areas, such as the Atlantic provinces and the Prairies, would be contributing money to help the metropolitan areas—from which the bulk of our national income comes."

The prime minister said Canada needs more homes, and a higher standard of homes. It must beat traffic and transportation problems, pollution of city air and water, and the jumble of conflicting uses of land.

Land costs too much and municipal organization is confused.

He repeated the four changes Ottawa is considering in its housing policy:

—Participation in comprehensive urban planning and purchase of land for transportation corridors and recreation space.

—Support for land assembly and development of new suburban communities.

—Subsidy programs in anti-poverty measures for low-growth areas.

—Assistance to families of moderate income in buying and renting accommodation.

Centre Opens For Donation To Vietnamese

The Victoria branch of the Canadian Aid for Vietnam Civilians today opened a centre for donations in the old Woodward building, Douglas and Courtney.

The group sends medical supplies and woollen clothing to both North and South Vietnam civilians.

The new centre will be open from noon to 2 p.m., for anyone wishing to contribute. Donations may also be mailed to P.O. Box 43, Victoria.

Volunteers are also needed to assist in manning the centre and to sell art, crafts and jewellry displayed in the building.

The newly-elected executive includes Mrs. Mira Yarwood, acting president and Rev. Laura Butler, vice-president.

The guild's original request was for a minimum salary of $200 a week for senior reporters. It scaled down this demand to $180 when it struck last Friday. The Pacific Press offer at that time was $172.

All normal shifts were resumed after the union vote but The Sun said it planned only one edition of more than 100 pages today compared with a normal three. A company spokesman said there wasn't time to produce all editions.

A 16-page edition of The Province was printed for street sale. The company said there was insufficient time to arrange home delivery.

AMALGAMATION TALK 'RECOGNIZED AS FALSE ALARM'

Curtis Romps to Impressive 2-1 Win

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Saanich voters solidly backed present and projected policies Saturday when they returned Reeve Hugh Curtis and three incumbent councillors to office.

Capping a campaign in which reeveship challenger Gordon Campbell opposed the regional sewerage plan, voters gave Reeve Curtis a better than 2-to-1 margin over his opponent.

Also re-elected were Couns. Edith Gunning, William Campbell and William Noel who, with the rest of council, support the area sewerage scheme.

ANOTHER LAWYER

Newcomer to council is lawyer Foster Isherwood. He fills the vacancy left by Coun. Digby Kier, also a lawyer, who has moved to Vancouver.

Mr. Isherwood, who lives in Oak Bay but owns property in Saanich, was an unsuccessful candidate in the 1962 and 1963 federal elections in Victoria constituency.

Once again, the majority of Saanich voters paid no attention to the election despite a keen campaign and resulting publicity.

Turnout was 32 per cent, better than last year's 18 per cent but below the recent record of 38 per cent set in 1965. There were 29,009 eligible voters.

FEW DAYS' REST

Reeve Curtis took the results as public confidence in what Saanich is doing and planning.

He plans to "take it easy for a few days," working on 1968 committees and priorities which will be disclosed at the first council meeting in January.

"Saanich was the testing ground for regionalization of certain services and functions and the alarm that this was amalgamation was recognized as a false alarm," he said.

"I will continue to strike for and stress autonomy in purely Saanich affairs. But where we have to recognize we are one community from Sooke to Sidney I will encourage and participate in the regional approach."

He also said the fact that regional sewerage was not an issue in other municipalities indicates public endorsation. In Saanich, where it was an issue, the opponents of the plan lost.

"If the McRae Estate was an issue, voters recognized the importance of the acquisition and I would like to pay tribute to all members of council who stuck to this thing and saw it through successfully," he said.

REDUCE COST

"One of the interesting jobs in 1968 will be planning future use of the property and sale of small portions to reduce the cost."

Reeveship loser Gordon Campbell said it was "unfortunate" that the reeveship campaign and the issue of sewage disposal were combined.

"I feel the vast majority favor land disposal of sewage," he said.

"I have no intention of quitting. The issue of disposal of sewage is of such vital importance we must maintain our interest."

He indicated he will be a Saanich council candidate at the elections one year from now.

'It was a short campaign and I feel we did remarkably well," he said.

"On the question of sewage disposal, there must be a vote or plebiscite on the issue. There must be an alternative to disposal at sea. Perhaps some group will consider petitions."

'Persuade People Against Cities'

OTTAWA (CP) — A suggestion that governments seek to dissuade people from moving to the large cities by publicizing the problems of city living was advanced today by Premier Manning of Alberta.

"We perhaps would be rendering a real service to our people," he said in an opening statement to the federal-provincial conference on housing and urban problems.

The growing movement from rural to urban life was creating great social problems in the major centres. It was up to provincial governments to decide whether this trend should be restrained.

Mr. Manning agreed with an earlier remark by Prime Minister Pearson that higher incomes in the cities are the main attraction. But often people were not aware of the disadvantages—"the pretty severe price to pay"—in city living.

He mentioned traffic congestion, the lack of privacy, inadequate housing and crime.

Mr. Manning agreed that housing has become the most urgent problem in the large cities. Alberta's housing construction was running 20 per cent behind what was needed each year, not counting the loss of housing through obsolescence.

Federal housing loans were financing 55 per cent of all new construction, highest rate of any province. Any cutback in National Housing Act money, such as suggested by Finance Minister Sharp in his recent budget, would have a serious impact on Alberta.

Large amounts of federal capital would also be needed to tackle the problem of high land costs. There also was a need to reduce interest rates which had reached self-defeating levels.

PROPOSAL ACCEPTABLE

Mr. Manning said any new approach to housing should emphasize the greatest possible degree of owner participation.

The suggestion by Mr. Pearson of a federal-provincial council on housing and urban problems was acceptable, but it should be kept as simple as possible. There was a danger that such a body could grow into "a major administrative machine."

Mr. Pearson replied that Ottawa does not intend to create any complicated administrative machinery.

"As usual, the federal government wants to assist without interfering," the prime minister added with a grin and a nod towards Premier Johnson of Quebec who had referred to the danger of federal intervention in a provincial field.

Seven Killed In Vancouver At Weekend

VANCOUVER (CP) — Traffic accidents claimed seven lives in the Greater Vancouver area during the weekend.

The worst occurred in a car-bus collision Saturday which killed three persons—Warren Kusch, 25; Carol McLennan, 21, and an unidentified woman.

Kenneth Jack Churchill, 20, was killed Saturday when he was struck by a car while walking. Dean Longacre, about 20, was charged with criminal negligence and leaving the scene of an accident.

Harry Jan Fox, 19, died Saturday when his car hit a pole in east end Vancouver.

Wendy Scott-Jackson of Burnaby was killed Sunday when struck by a transport truck.

Joan Doris Peterson was killed late Friday when her car collided with an RCMP vehicle which was chasing another car in Burnaby.

'Happy Gang' Death

TORONTO (CP)—Blain Mathe, a member of the CBC's popular Happy Gang radio show of the 1930s and 1940s, died in hospital Saturday. Mr. Mathe, born in 1907, joined the Happy Gang as its violinist in 1937. The show went off the air in 1959.

ROYALISTS DRIVEN OFF?

SANA (UPI) — Yemini Republican forces using Soviet tanks and artillery declared today they have driven off Royalist troops that tried to capture the capital city's two airports.

Republican radio broadcasts also confirmed that Royalists had surrounded "some parts" of the city and announced that almost every man in Sana had been armed with an automatic weapon.

Royalist accounts of the fighting differed sharply.

In Beirut, Royalist spokesman Hashem Ben Hashem said both the airports had been taken but later Prince Abdel Rahman Ben Yahya, vice-premier of the Royalist "government," disputed Hashem's claims.

CLASHES SPREADING BETWEEN CHINA FOES

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Clashes between supporters and foes of Mao Tse-tung are spreading throughout Fukien, the seaboard province facing Fomosa, Chinese Nationalist intelligence sources reported Sunday.

The report, distributed by Nationalist China's official Central news agency, said five officials sent by the Chinese Communist party from Peking to Fukien to calm the situation had been detained by anti-Maoists.

The report quoted a poster put up in Peking on Friday as the source for this information.

QUEBEC ON HOUSING:

'Money Fine, No Intervention'

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson told the federal-provincial housing conference today that Quebec will not tolerate any intervention in its housing matters but is willing to co-operate where necessary in studying urban problems.

"Quebec has its own housing and urban development policies and intends to exercise its full powers in these areas," he said in a brief opening statement.

"In these fields, Quebec will not tolerate any federal intervention direct or indirect; should federal funds or credits become available for these purposes, it will demand equivalent advantages for itself."

Mr. Johnson said he has reservations about Mr. Pearson's opening statement and the prime minister—speaking in French—urged the Quebec premier to say what was bothering him.

Mr. Johnson noted that the prime minister's statement had said local problems of urban environment "collectively present a national problem which clearly concerns the federal government."

OPENS THE DOOR

This was one of the ways Ottawa opens the door to interference in areas recognized as being under provincial jurisdiction.

"At face value, it means that the health of citizens as an individual matter is the responsibility of provincial governments but if you look at the problem generally it becomes a matter of federal jurisdiction."

It was a 'hardly tenable view" and if Canada gets a new constitution, which he hoped would be soon, such matters should be made much clearer.

He was also concerned about the prime minister's proposal for a new national council set up by both levels of government to study housing and urban problems.

Mr. Pearson suggested that the council should have regional offices and Mr. Johnson said this would be unnecessary duplication of already existing services in Quebec.

Chosen for the Job

THE GENERAL THEME OF last Saturday's elections—with one or two exceptions—was that the people of Greater Victoria are satisfied with the service they have been receiving from their elected representatives. In Victoria, more than two-thirds of the eligible voters indicated this by not bothering to vote; and they stayed away from five polling places instead of the usual one. The voting citizens in most cases gave incumbents large majorities over newcomers.

Voting turnouts were better in the other municipalities but still far from satisfactory for a democracy in our era. It is apparent that interest in the grass-roots government of the municipal level is deficient. There is a serious defect in the working of the democratic system here which should be made a high-priority matter for consideration by both local and senior governments, and possibly school authorities.

Mayor Stephen, returned by acclamation, Reeves Curtis and Bryant, returned with very decisive majorities, and Mr. Hawes, Oak Bay's veteran councillor who will replace the retiring Reeve Cox, may lead their councils with a knowledge of clear public endorsement. The incumbents' regimes have been hard-working and fruitful, and a number of important problems facing each municipality have been tackled with energy and considerable success.

The pronounced support for the three women candidates: Mrs. Gunning, Mrs. Elford and Mrs. Wilson, of Saanich, Oak Bay and Victoria respectively, testifies to public approval of their outstanding contributions to health, welfare and related fields, and their victories were well merited. In Saanich, where spirited reeveship competition from Mr. Gordon Campbell made sewage and pollution a major campaign issue, the voters approved Mr. Curtis' position on this, but obviously were also motivated by his excellent record in the general leadership of the municipality in the past three years. Mr. Bryant, in Esquimalt, similarly survived with little trouble from opposition which was thrown up in recent weeks in relation to the police and fire department report.

The very narrow defeat of Alderman Edgelow, after 14 consecutive years on city council, was a major upset. Whether or not he returns to the civic arena in the future, he may take full satisfaction from his many years of service to the public during which he saw action in every sector of the city's business. His wide experience will be missed.

Central Saanich and North Saanich largely stayed with their incumbents. In the northern municipality Reeve Cumming fought off a heavy threat by Dr. A. B. Nash which roused some public heat, and he was given strong support for his policies.

School board incumbents were generally successful. However, some new and promising persons have been added both to councils and board and their activities in various fields of the public's affairs will be watched with interest.

Encouraging Report on India

FROM THE VANTAGE POINT OF his second tour as American Ambassador to India—a return to the post after an absence of several years—Mr. Chester Bowles has presented an encouraging report on improvements made in a decade and a half on the subcontinent.

His views provide grounds for optimism among Westerners who see in India the direction sign which could determine which road—democracy or communism — developing countries may take in Asia and Africa. Mastery of their problems by the leaders of India could counterbalance the undoubted effects of progress in Red China.

The ambassador cites a number of areas where impressive advances have been made. Because of progress in agriculture he sees the possibility of India becoming self-sufficient in food production by 1971. A major factor in any such self-sufficiency would, however, be a significant advance in birth control. In that field he believes a good start has been made. Family planning ranks second only to agriculture in India's list of priorities and a very able group in the ministry concerned has set the goal of a 1985 population stabilized at 670 million. This is an objective demanding tremendous efforts but, as the ambassador points out, Japan has almost stabilized its population by reducing the growth rate from 3 per cent to 1 per cent.

Mr. Bowles does not minimize the seriousness of India's current business recession. Anticipated large crops this year, however, could prove a counterbalancing influence — and provided sufficient foreign aid is forthcoming, a significant forward movement may be expected next year.

These are the views of a man with the background to speak with authority on India — a man who knew it in its more difficult days and who offers cheer to those who hope that a democratic India could be the example for other undetermined Asian and African states.

Success Is the Pay-Off

CROWN ZELLERBACH NEWS, house organ of the important forest industries concern, has taken to heart advice from Resources Minister Ray Williston pointing to the necessity on the part of government and industry to take a lead "by educating the public about pollution."

It offers the conclusion that the ministerial warning means: "It isn't enough today for industry to be responsible, spend millions of dollars on pollution control, and conduct research to expand knowledge in this field, if these efforts aren't demonstrated to the public."

The conclusion is a valid recognition of what a company should do to make known its efforts to cure an undesirable situation. The knowledge that can be provided should counteract some popular misconceptions and should refute any suggestions that a company is indifferent to a serious problem.

The public, however, is concerned with a more direct question: Is the pollution due to the operations of the company? If it is, and if it assumes intolerable proportions, the public will not be greatly impressed by accounts of time, energy, research and money spent by a company to control pollution unless they are accompanied by proofs of success.

Red Plus Red Equals . . .

THE CURRENT ISSUE OF THE news bulletin to parent auxiliaries of schools issued by the Greater Victoria School Board states that no complaints have officially reached the director of instruction in charge of the new form of report cards for primary grades. The item in the bulletin advances the idea that "the report cards have apparently become established as successful media through which teachers can inform parents of the progress being made by their children."

This strikes a peculiarly responsive chord in relation to some of the comments made on the progress of the very young pupils in arithmetic at Level 1. Parents of a child in one school district using the form are no doubt enlightened by the reporting teacher's statement that their child "is beginning to read equations such as 'red plus red equals crimson'."

Informative as this may be, we can only hazard a guess at the meaning of the equation. Could it be a rephrasing of Gertrude Stein's: "A rose is a rose is a rose?"

CHAOTIC MIRACLE

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Only a Plan Can Rectify a No-Plan

THE basic cause of Canada's current economic disease seems to be lost in the superficial symptoms. It is simply that the whole concept of state planning has miscarried.

Hutchison

When a nation can suffer from rising taxes, interest rates, prices and unemployment at the same time, it has achieved an economic miracle in four contradictory dimensions. It has magically combined inflation with deflation. It has mixed oil and water. It has defied every economist from Adam Smith to Kenneth Galbraith. Canada has even managed to add a fifth dimension by debasing its political system along with its currency.

Yet we have lived for years on the assumption that we had a plan, invisible to the naked eye but reliable, that our affairs were in the cunning hands of experts, that the old risks had been forestalled by Keynesian economics and all-wise governments.

If this was planning, it was planning for disaster. You might as well say that a man is operating on a plan when he slips over a banana peel and falls flat on his face.

Does all this mean that there is no virtue and validity in national planning? Of course not. It means that the nation has failed to frame and carry through any workable plan, as a contractor, hired to build a modest house, ignores the architect's blueprint and ends by building a Tower of Babel. There was nothing wrong with Keynes's grand design, everything wrong with the politicians who embraced and spoiled it.

Retrospective Evidence

Concerning which we now have a remarkable piece of retrospective evidence. Rebuking Robert Stanfield for his ignorance of finance, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp said that "I have been the one in this country who has recognized the problem more quickly than the leader of the opposition, and more quickly than anybody in this House."

This may be correct but, if so, is a pretty savage commentary on the intelligence of Parliament. It implies that the House of Commons is either illiterate or half-witted.

If our parliamentarians are reasonably bright and can read English they would have recognized the "problem," as Mr. Sharp calls it, in many documents and figures, even in many newspapers, including this one, on June 2, 1967. And if they didn't begin to understand it then they should have gone back to kindergarten.

On June 1 Mr. Sharp may have partially understood it when he delivered his calamitous budget speech. But he did nothing to solve it. Instead, with his unbearable deficits, he worsened it. Not until the end of summer was any serious attempt made to put the government's finances and the economic affairs of Canada in order, and then not much. By minibudget night, Nov. 30, all pretences of earlier planning had collapsed and the government was desperately trying to put the pieces of a broken edifice together.

It is easy to blame Mr. Sharp and the blame now heaped on him may have ruined already his chance to become the next prime minister. It is only fair to add that very late, perhaps too late and too little, he is now doing various unpopular things knowing that they may destroy his personal ambitions.

It is fair also to say that the two opposition parties, on the whole, have behaved worse than the government. The Conservatives, denouncing the government's extravagance, continually urged higher spending and, still more extraordinary, less taxes, at least until Mr. Stanfield arrived. The New Democrats, by a kind of automatic, Pavlovian reflex, denounced inflation and proposed every conceivable program that would turn a steady price rise into a break-neck gallop.

Not Fully Recognized

We must assume, anyway, that Mr. Sharp, as a man of unquestionable integrity, had not fully recognized the problem on June 1 or he would have framed a very different budget. Why had recognition within the government been delayed so long?

For many previous months the Economic Council, most private economists and businessmen, even ignorant newspapermen, had realized that the government was riding for a fall, that its deficits ensured a financial crisis and that all its policies in combination ensured a dangerous inflation.

Why did the government and the opposition refuse to heed any warnings? Not because they were dishonest but mainly because they thought the nation had a plan when it hadn't; not because they were stupid but because they were frightened to look the facts in the face.

On behalf of the politicians it will be said, and rightly, that they were no more mistaken than the nation. For several years the nation has been living in an advanced state of euphoria, like a man with three martinis under his belt. Prosperity went to its head and it demanded of the state far more than the state could possibly deliver, as the ministate could possibly deliver, as the minibudget admits at last.

No Excuse for Parliament

But the mood of an inebriated nation cannot excuse a sober Parliament. If the government had not grasped the entire problem on June 1 it knew, or should have known, the underlying facts. And if it knew them it was bound to disclose them, act on them and take the consequences. It failed to do so until Nov. 30, and even then it failed to do enough.

Once more we must ask why. Because in Canada politics is regarded, by governments and oppositions alike, as primarily the pursuit of power, beside which all other considerations are incidental. Or as Viscount Bryce once said in a celebrated dictum, the Canadian party "seems to exist for its own sake . . . ideas are not needed to make parties, for these can live on heredity and, like the Guelfs and Ghibellines of medieval Italy, by memories of past combats."

I don't suggest that the pursuit of power is unique to Canadian politics. It has been the engine and driving force of politics in all ages, places and systems. But there are times when politicians worth their salt are required to put their beliefs, and the policies built on them ahead of power; when power, on any other terms, is a poisoned chalice.

Clearly this is such a time in Canada — a time for real planning even if it means temporary political defeat for one party or another, a time when we must see that with all the gaudy trappings of a plan there actually has been no plan worthy of the name. A time, in short, to accept the truth and start over again.

A Future Up for Grabs

THE reception the B and B Report has received in Quebec only adds to an already substantial body of evidence that, in the minds of its people, Quebec's future is still up for grabs.

McDowell

Although dozens of people inside the province and elsewhere in Canada are freely saying that the people of Quebec want independence, or that they don't want it, or that they want it under another name, or that they want it on the installment plan, there is no conclusive evidence that the majority of the population is ready yet to cast its vote either way.

The meeting of the Estates General of French Canada in late November was almost unanimously in favor of independence.

But the Congress of the Quebec Liberal Federation in mid-October was equally united in rejecting "separatism in all its forms."

Same People?

It would be hard to prove that one gathering was any more representative of Quebec's population than the other. And one experienced observer of Quebec politics who attended both displays of unanimity admits that "I have a horrible feeling they were the same people."

One of the best-founded separatist complaints so far is that French-Canadians have been subjected to a sort of apartheid, walled up within the borders of Quebec by the lack of language rights outside it.

Other grievances are still left unanswered. A major one is the predominant role the English language still keeps in the industrial and commercial life of Quebec, especially at the higher levels.

Few observers in Quebec would be willing to bet heavily on the future of Confederation unless it can be adjusted to provide the rights of a majority to the French-speaking in Quebec as well as minority rights for the French-speaking in the other provinces.

Last Chance

The question here now is whether the first volume of the commission report, if acted on promptly and effectively, can do away with part at least of the climate of mistrust that hampers solution of the remaining problems.

Manpower Minister Jean Marchand, calling himself an optimist, said that he believed the report was Canada's last chance.

It would be hard to find anyone in Quebec to accuse him of taking an unnecessarily gloomy view.

Special efforts to divert immigrants to British Columbia will shortly be undertaken by the Dominion government.

"Pump in the whites," the policy which was advocated by Rudyard Kipling with the object of counteracting the influx from the Orient, will be adopted in real earnest.

The co-operation of the B.C. government will be sought, J. Obed Smith, Dominion commissioner of immigration, announced.

Problem of Art Frauds

By JOSEPH ALSOP
From Washington

ANY news that offers a change of daily diet is a wonderful relief nowadays. So it was downright delightful to read that the most admired single object in the superb classical Greek collection of New York's Metropolitan Museum has now turned out to be a particularly clever early 20th century fake. Yet the grave problem that may be defined as "now you see it, now you don't," is raised in starkest form by this little bronze horse's abrupt descent from the highest pinnacle of expert admiration to the deepest chasm of public condemnation for fraudulence. The same problem can also be phrased another way, as a grimly blunt question:

Alsop

"Why do we like what we like?"

It is a question that has been hanging about, always unanswered, for a great many centuries. Take the male half of the so-called Ludovisi throne, in the Boston Museum. The female half in Rome, with its incomparable bas relief of Venus rising from the sea, is certainly among the greatest surviving works of Greek sculpture. But is the male half really contemporary with the female half, or is it only a pseudo-archaic work of Roman date?

Another Suspect

The experts have been arguing that problem for a great many decades. The majority hold the first of the two views set forth above. But if the minority is right, the wonderful piece in the Boston Museum is an ancient but scandalous and intentional fraud; for the male half of the throne much too exactly echoes the female half to be the kind of free exercise in an older style that is sometimes found among Greco-Roman sculptures.

If the Metropolitan's little bronze horse could only be placed in the latter category, one must add, the experts would still be admiring it as "the finest surviving object in the well-known Greco-Roman archaizing style." And if that only inflames the problem, what then are we to say about the "Christ Healing a Cripple," which was sold to a contemporary collector by the late Renaissance Italian artist, Luca Giordano, as a work by Albrecht Durer?

Doubts were raised. The collector took the case to court. Luca Giordano thereupon proudly revealed his own signature, hidden on the supposed Durer. And on that occasion the judge perhaps sensibly ruled in favor of the faker, on the ground that Luca Giordano deserved to go scot free if he could really paint as well as Durer.

Or think of the more recent case of the European millionaire who paid a huge sum for a Picasso, and then heard its authenticity challenged. That time, the remedy seemed simple. The picture was shipped off to be inspected by Picasso himself. He examined it carefully and sympathetically. He asked what had been paid for it, and was told.

Price Right

"The price was right," said Picasso shortly; and there the matter ended.

In the field of painting alone, one could go on for pages in this manner. Yet the field is actually less fertile in examples of this kind than many another area, in all of which countless collectors range hungrily about, chequebooks at the ready.

Consider, here, the supreme case of the so-called "furniture of gods."

This magnificent set of chairs and sofas of the time of Louis XV was universally acclaimed as the finest in the whole world, as soon as it first attracted general attention in the mid-19th century collection of the Baron Leopold Double. At the Double sale, the set actually went for 100,000 gold francs, which would be close to $200,000 in modern money.

It was then left to the Louvre, where it remained, always drenched in awe and adulation, until a dark moment in the mid-'30s, when the great scholar, Pierre Verlet, happened to take a suspicious second look at it. The second look led to research and analysis. And the research analysis led to over half the pieces in the "furniture of the gods" being condemned to the Louvre's cellars as 19th century copies. And in the cellars, these still-quite-wonderful pieces remain to this day.

English Examples

The same thing has more recently happened to several famous pieces in the celebrated collection of French furniture in the Victoria and Albert Museum in London. And these, too, had been drenched in awe and adulation for close on to a century, when an able young curator, Peter Thornton, belatedly began the task of making a proper catalogue of his museum's French treasures, with many a surprising result.

Such, then, are a few illustrations of the problem of "now you see it, now you don't." At one moment, a picture, a sculpture or an object is quasi-religiously venerated as one of the highest products of one of the highest moments of artistic creation. And at the next moment, it is hustled off to dusty oblivion — though still unchanged in any smallest detail except its attribution.

Maybe the best thing would be to give such pieces heroic burial. When the early temple at Delphi burned, and King Alyattes of Lydia's gold and ivory dedicatory statues of Apollo were sadly charred, they were granted heroes' tombs in Delphi's sacred way. So there is a good precedent for the suggestion.

Fortunes of War

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

SINGAPORE — "With their usual impatience," as President Johnson remarked at a recent press conference, the American people want the war in Vietnam to be won quickly. But "that's not the kind of war we are fighting."

And many must have been comforted by the implicit promise that these profitable hostilities would continue indefinitely. For nothing boosts business like bloodshed.

A current economic survey predicts that by the end of this year the Pentagon and its soldiers on the spot will between them have spent the record sum of $150 million in the Philippines on everything from bases to bourbon-on-the-rocks, extending further a rapidly-rising graph of expenditure that began when the U.S. combat troops were first sent to Vietnam.

On past showing this money should provide jobs for more than 500,000 people, and ease Manila's balance of payments problems by at least $80 million.

More Thais

The Philippine government is unlikely to send more men to Vietnam than the 2,000-odd already there, whereas it is reported from Bangkok that the Thais are to boost their contingent by an additional 10,000.

However, in exchange for this contribution, Washington will raise its military subvention to Thailand from $60 million to $100 million in the coming year, and meanwhile the number of free-spending American servicemen in the Land of the Emerald Buddha has improved to nearly 40,000, many of them manning airfields from which jet aircraft strike against the Viet Cong almost daily.

The Chinese Nationalists have despatchel no troops to Saigon, and U.S. military assistance to Taipeh is tailing off. But last year Saigon was Formosa's third biggest customer, taking $90 million worth of iron, steel, cement and building materials to meet the exigencies of the fighting in South Vietnam, and the figure has fallen this year only because the Americans have cut deeper into the market themselves.

Big Spenders

Americans on leave from the war zone are arriving on the Chinese Nationalist island at the rate of 6,000 a month, and can be expected to spend nearly $20 million there in the next year. Nor are they the only visiting prodigals, for the newly-built air base in Central Formosa has been extended to take 4,000 U.S. Servicemen and ships of the Seventh Fleet are making more than 500 calls a year at Nationalist ports.

It is not necessary to be an ally of the Americans in Vietnam to make an honest penny out of the conflict. Canada, member of the three-nation neutral International Control Commission, appointed to supervise the "peace" in Indo-China, has been accused this month by Hanoi of contracting to sell more than $270 million worth of war material to the United States — and this Communist smoke is not without confirmatory capitalist fire.

Increased Trade

Last year Hong Kong's exports to America rose by nearly 20 per cent to more than $360 million, while the colony's direct trade with South Vietnam was worth three times the 1965 figure.

This trend continues everywhere. Caught in the crossfire of her two neighbors, Singapore was badly hit, both by discriminatory tariffs imposed by an unfriendly Malaysian Federation when the island left it under a cloud, and also by the dislocation ot trade with Indonesia following President Sukarno's armed "confrontation" of these territories.

From the giant corporations which derive huge profits from armaments down to the canny small merchant, there is always money to be made when men take to war. Even in Saigon the street sellers with their black market goods (above) get their share.

For Singapore, therefore, the war trade with South Vietnam has been a crutch at a crucial moment. In the first half of this year alone it was worth $50 million in sales of steel, cement, prefabricated building, batteries and boots. Last year these exports were valued at $85 million — and the pocket republic only imported $10 million-worth of Vietnamese goods in exchange.

Meanwhile, 100 yards from my house here there is a particularly hideous block of flats has been converted into a hotel for Americans on "R and R" (Rest and Recreation) from Vietnam.

Hope for More

Quiet of manner and open-handed with their cash, these men from the Mekong Delta spread fiscal sunshine wherever they shop — in Singapore, Seoul, Bangkok, Taipeh and Hong Kong ("Yankee go home? I hope more will come," as a Malaysian State Minister put it fervently.) And sometimes there is a move in the opposite direction; thousands of eager Koreans under contract in Vietnam, for example, are earning from five to 10 times as much as they could make at home.

Officials in Seoul have just disclosed that the salaries of 47,000 fighting men, and more than 12,000 workers in South Vietnam have largely accounted for South Korea's earnings of $100 million in the first 10 months of this year, compared with $60 million for all of 1966.

Business Boom

Nor must the Americans themselves be forgotten. This war has brought roaring business to the big industries of the United States, where stockholders and steelworkers alike are reaping the respectable profits of escalation. Solicitous of her own, America has protected her producers against competition in the scramble to supply, and it is for this reason that Formosa has now lost nearly 40 per cent of her much-prized sales of iron and steel to the Vietnamese customer.

The Soviet newspaper Izvestia claims that even the Chinese Communists are cashing in by allowing Hong Kong firms covertly controlled by Peking to build barges for the Seventh Fleets. But this may be a spiteful rejoinder to China's apparent decision to stop selling tungsten to the Russians because Moscow in turn sells this vital and rare requirement of the modern war machine to the United States for a satisfying price.

Foreign trade knows no frontlines, of course, the paradoxes like this are common. An Australian government that proudly puts 6,000 men into Vietnam — and is sometimes quietly caustic about Britain's receding chin in Asia — nevertheless ships wheat to China which goes straight from the quayside into sacks stamped "North Vietnam" — and the only protest is registered by British seamen, who find themselves conveying it there.

The uncommitted naturally trade on both sides of no-mans-land, and none more assiduously than the Japanese, who have learned the hard way that it is more agreeable to feed war than to fight it.

In the past year, Japan has not only valiantly nurtured — often in adverse circumstances — her profitable commerce with China, but has done sturdy business with North Vietnam in machinery and chemicals, on occasion also selling the Vietnamese Communists cables and wire manufactured with American copper, which is notoriously scarce everywhere.

Displeased U.S.

This has displeased the Americans, perhaps because at the same time Japan makes the biggest killing of all third parties involved in the struggle for Vietnam. It has been estimated that Japan earned $1,000 million out of the Vietnam conflict in 1966, nearly half of it through American war procurement operations, whose value soared nearly 40 per cent that year.

The rest came from additional exports to the United States to meet American war needs, from increased American military spending in Japan (which went up sharply after dropping steadily for 10 years), and from the boosted orders from Japan placed by Formosa, South Korea and other countries in the Far East and prompted by U.S. military contracts that had in turn set their own industries humming.

Were hostilities to cease, Japan's economy would be severely winded, and so would that of half-a-dozen countries in East Asia alone.

Stick It Out

But President Johnson has emphasized that the U.S. war in Vietnam was to protect the security of the United States, and that the Americans must therefore stick it out to the bitter-sweet end.

This has proved very reassuring. For it is widely agreed among the affluent of Asia that while the war may be long and hard, the peace that followed it could be much longer and harder.

Voice of Conscience Cannot Be Stilled In Affluent Society

By EVA FIGES
The Manchester Guardian

Living in an affluent society is a fact that does not usually keep me awake at nights. I take it for granted that I should have electric light, running water and a telephone, and I tend to feel aggrieved when I cannot afford a holiday abroad like my more prosperous friends.

I remember the days when I walked to save bus fares and stared at the tip left under the previous customer's coffee cup with envy and a sneaking desire to steal, and feel that I have done my stint at being poor and know what it is like.

I look at Oxfam (Oxford Committee for Famine Relief) advertisements with some unease, it is true, but then I tell myself that the children need new shoes for the winter, and my taxes are not paid, and there are so many rich individuals and organizations only too anxious to find a worthy outlet for surplus funds.

On With Life

So I turn away and get on with the business of living my own life, which does after all have its attendant problems, and too much money is not one of them.

It is when it comes to spending money on non-essentials that I find myself asking questions which I cannot really answer. The pleasure of buying a new dress is almost invariably spoiled by the knowledge that I am buying it not to keep out the cold but to make myself attractive, an attractiveness, moreover, which is not really intrinsic but only my private reflection of a public mood.

Caught Up

Fashion changes to keep the money rolling, and I am caught up in the game, so that I have a cupboard full of clothes and nothing to wear.

If I "need" the new dress it is to bolster my flagging spirits, face the anonymous outer world with more assurance.

If I need anything to tell me that I am just as much part of the rat race as some of my more ratty neighbors it is the sight of perfectly "good," durable clothes hanging unworn in the cupboard because they are out of date. I push them to the back of the cupboard like the dumb reproach they are, hoping they will be back in next year. It is only when I find myself thinking vaguely about getting a larger wardrobe that I have the honesty to throw them out.

Little Help

It does not help much to tell myself that I am not as extravagant as other people, or that I work harder. On the whole I regard possessions as more of a nuisance and an encumbrance than anything else, and there is no particular virtue in resisting a temptation one does not feel—not buying antiques for instance.

Man does not live by bread alone: It is nice to have cake too, and books, and music, and wine. These, we acknowledge, are the things that make life worth living, that raise us slightly above mere animal existence. It is also pleasant to be frivolous now and again, to feel oneself absurdly renewed in a new color or crazy boots, ready for adventure, a new love affair perhaps, or just a completely new morning with the sun shining.

Perhaps, though, these things can only be accepted and appreciated if we are honest about them and about ourselves—if we say: I am selfish, I am an island, I will eat and enjoy myself while other people not so different from myself are crawling half-starved through parched and burned out villages, and if I say I am sorry it is true but only partly true, because the fact is I am glad, glad that it is not me starving. I know I am lucky to have been born into this patch of the world but that's just the luck of the draw, isn't it?

More Human

And then, of course, you might go on to say, if the little voices were allowed to speak, being born here does make us different, because we had a chance to enjoy those finer things of life—books and music and civilized conversation in pleasant surroundings—make us a little more human, a little more complete than those poor half-starved peasants who cannot read or write.

It is an uncomfortable line of reasoning, made more uncomfortable by the sneaking suspicion that there might be some truth in it. And it does not make it any easier to live with one's conscience.

Not Enough

Send a cheque to Oxfam? But the new dress still lies spread out on the bed and won't go away. Nor will the feeling that the cheque would never, could never be enough.

And it would be dishonest not to admit that we enjoy the dress just as much as the books and music we were taught we might enjoy without feeling guilty.

So we are left with the usual old argument that it is a matter for governments, the United Nations, or the industrial millionaires trying to buy a peerage. And we expend ink and words on Vietnam because ink and words are cheap and we know there is not the slightest danger of any of us having to do anything real about it.

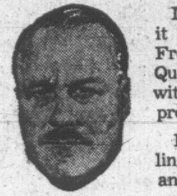
Stress on Bilingualism Tailored to Sauve's Use

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

(Mr. Crowe is associate professor of history at Atkinson College, York University. Mr. Fisher, a former NDP MP, lectures in Canadian government at Carleton University.

Fisher

What will the Pearson government do with the report of the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism? Although we have become accustomed in Canada to a quite modified version of the British principle of cabinet unity and solidarity, perhaps some idea of the thinking of the federal government may be gleaned from a set of recent speeches by Forestry and Rural Development Minister Maurice Sauve.



Crowe

At least it would seem to us to be a generally defensible proposition that if one wished to become familiar with the policies and attitudes of Her Majesty's Government one should read the speeches of ministers of the Crown.

As one reads the texts of these speeches, delivered in Ontario and in Quebec, some observations practically spring to the typewriter. The first is that Maurice Sauve says the same things, and in much the same way, whether he is addressing a French-speaking or an English-speaking audience.

The second is that he accords a much higher priority to the whole range of linguistic and cultural problems related to drawing French Canadians into the upper levels of Canadian society than he accords to constitutional or Ottawa-Quebec problems. And of course it is a much higher priority than has been the rule in most recent declarations within the provincial field in Quebec.

The third observation is he seems to feel that constitutional discussion of any consequence may largely be put to one side because of the impending constitutional conference which the federal government has called for the spring of 1968. And to the extent it cannot be brushed aside, reference to Mr. Trudeau's proposed Bill of Rights will serve the purposes of the moment.

●

This latter is rather curious and more than a little confusing, because the proposal to incorporate a Bill of Rights with a section on French language rights, in the Constitution, a proposal which may be found in the first program issued by the New Democratic Party, has no relationship to any of the constitutional demands issuing forth from the province of Quebec.

It may be a good idea, but it is an aspect of English-French relations outside of Quebec, and has nothing to do with Ottawa-Quebec or federal-provincial relations.

But let us come back to linguistic and cultural matters and Mr. Sauve. Here he is anxious to move: "To me the fundamental concern is whether we are going to make this country one in which French Canada is a genuine equal partner in economic, social and cultural life.

●

"The question is whether there will be a real, and not symbolic, sharing of power in business, in government, in the civil service—in all aspects of our country's life—between English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians."

Mr. Sauve speaks of a French Canadian remembering his heritage and being "brushed with pride." Standing before a none too comprehending English-speaking audience in Toronto (perhaps not comprehending even of their own heritage) it would seem that Mr. Sauve himself was "bristling" with pride.

Listen to this account of the "tangled roots" of Frenchmen on this continent. (It brings to mind the youthful Winston Churchill.):

"They arrived unwanted. They fought a wilderness. They built a society. They were conquered. And yet they endured. For them French Canada is not a problem. It is a glorious fact.

"In spite of centuries of tribulation and oppression French Canada survives. That survival is a miracle, an epic, a triumph in the face of hostility. No French Canadian can forget that history."

But alas, for more than 100 years, French Canadians have become more and more conscious that the whole of Canada is not their country. They are conscious that their language, their culture, that they, themselves, are not at home from one end of the country to the other.

●

Mr. Sauve believes that the "concrete measures" which will reflect a change of view are fairly clear. The most important lie in education and culture. Until a French Canadian can move throughout Canada and still educate his children in French and have access to the French culture, he will never feel that the whole of Canada is his home."

Allied with this is the broad sharing of the prerogatives of power in government and industry with French-speaking Canadians. Whenever you look at some of these statistics they shock you all over again. Only 13.3 per cent of senior federal civil servants are French Canadians. Only one of the top 100 Canadian companies is headed by a French Canadian.

●

Mr. Sauve still believes it is of the greatest importance to extend the French language TV and radio networks across Canada. He urges the establishment of a federal capital district which is officially bilingual. There are many more details.

Let us go back to where we started this. What will the Pearson government do with the B and B Report? It is clear what one of his ministers would do. Has he been speaking for the government, or merely for himself?

EVEN THE CANS WON'T RUST AWAY

By DAVID SPURGEON
Globe and Mail Magazine

There is a challenge for science in the nagging day-to-day social and environmental ills of society — problems that in many cases science itself has helped create.

Dr. Albert V. Crewe, of the Argonne National Laboratory in Lamont, Illinois, comes to grips with the issue in Physics Today, a publication of the American Physical Society. He puts it squarely to the scientists:

●

" . . . Society is faced with a large number of problems or varying degrees of importance and urgency. Each has some technological or scientific content if we are willing to look for it. The new science and the new technology that are involved can be as exciting and interesting as many of the projects in which we are not employed. It certainly could be a more rewarding form of endeavor."

Specifically, Dr. Crewe thinks science could help to clear up air and water pollution, and aid crime prevention and detection.

Air pollution is in many ways analogous to radioactive fallout, he says. "From the earliest days of the use of radioactive materials we were aware of the dangers. Thousands of mice and guinea pigs have been used to study the effect of small amounts of radioactivity on living systems. Networks of information and decision-making bodies now exist on a national and international scale to set standards. Similar things could be done in the area of pollution."

Extremely sensitive devices have been made for measuring extremely small amounts of radioactivity, but there are few instruments to measure pollution.

"Each one of us is suffering from lead poisoning from inhalation of gasoline fumes. It is nonsense to protest that it is harmless; we just don't know and it is a difficult scientific problem to find out.

"In only a few years no human being will be free from lead poisoning; that is, we will no longer have a standard of reference. In addition, oil companies are now experimenting with nickel and other additives. What damage, if any, these new additives will do no one knows. We can be sure, however, that the Food and Drug Administration would not allow such additives in food without some evidence as to their effect on life.

●

"Water pollution is an almost universal phenomenon," Dr. Crewe says. "Industrial pollution may be a necessary consequence of an industrial economy, and sewage is certainly a natural consequence of civilization, but there is no reason why we should be content with the amount of contamination. To take the example of sewage, we are using a system of treatment that is centuries old and consists, basically, of doing nothing at all."

●

He suggests there may be ways of treating sewage without using huge amounts of water — for example, distillation using nuclear heat. The size of the plant would be about the same as that projected for desalinating sea water; various groups are already considering an enormous nulcear desalination plant. Perhaps collaboration would be possible. "After all, the problem of taking sewage out of water is not more difficult, and may be much easier, than that of taking salt out of sea water."

Then there are beer cans. "The old steel beer cans were bad enough. But even they are not as bad as the aluminum ones, because the aluminum ones do not rust and have a lifetime that is virtually infinite. One obviously needs a beer can that disintegrates when the beer is poured out."

At 50,000 miles, you may begin to wonder if your Mercedes-Benz 230S will ever rattle.

The Mercedes-Benz 230S rewards your investment with engineering advances, meticulous construction—and performance that puts most cars in its class to shame.

Its heavy-gauge steel "unit" body is welded at 10,000 points to squelch squeaks and rattles; hand-sanded and filed to smooth burrs and bumps away; coated top to bottom with primer, and slathered with 24 pounds of undercoating.

Instead of fads and gadgets, Mercedes-Benz engineers concentrated on technical advances—such as a fully independent suspension and husky front disc brakes. The 230S handles—and stops—more like a sports car than most family sedans. Rough road or smooth, you're always in precise control; it's a relaxing car to drive.

And the 230S is a pleasing car to own. No shabby workmanship, inside or out. And no infuriating nickel-and-dime repairs to keep it running right.

It makes sense to drive the Mercedes-Benz 230S instead of a status symbol. Come in and test-drive the 230S—and see for yourself.

COWICHAN VALLEY REJECTS GOVERNMENT-APPOINTEES

DUNCAN — Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell's regional district concept suffered a setback here Saturday.

Government - appointed interim directors of Cowichan Valley Regional District, including the chairman, were defeated in election contests by rebels.

Dave Laverock, who defeated pro tem incumbent Frank Martin, at Shawnigan Lake, said: "We asked the minister for a plebiscite on whether or not people wanted a regional district.

"We canvassed the area and sent a petition with a lot of names to Mr. Campbell but decided we had better run as candidates at the same time."

Another rebel winner was H. A. (Slim) Warner, at Mill Bay, who defeated John Bateson, chairman of the regional board.

"I'm very happy with the returns," he said. "We were against the way in which a regional district was imposed on us and a majority of the people in the unorganized territory have shown they are against it."

In a veiled threat to the regional setup here, Mr. Warner said: "We will do what has to be done."

He would not enlarge on this comment.

YOUNGEST MAYOR

Quaife Makes the Leap Teen Town to Big Town

DUNCAN — Jim Quaife is mayor of Duncan today—the youngest ever at age 33.

And it's his first public office.

The young businessman and adult adviser to the Duncan Teen Town posted a solid margin over veteran alderman Hamish Mutter in Saturday's election with 425 votes to 343. Third was retired druggist Elmore Clark with 287.

"Indications are we will have a really co-operative effort by old and new aldermen to operate a team to fulfil council's obligations to the people," said the mayor-elect.

"I will do everything in my power to bring about successful co-operation between the city and North Cowichan in ventures important to both."

Born in England, Jim Quaife came to Canada with his parents as a child. The family returned to England in 1946-but only for a year.

MAYOR-ELECT QUAIFE
. . . first try

The new mayor served with the Canadian army in Korea, returning to live at Cowichan Station where he worked as a heavy duty mechanic at the Crofton pulp mill.

This past summer he started his own business, Cowichan Valley Imports.

He is married and he and his wife Carol have two children, Mark, 6, and Dale, 18 months.

The Quaifes moved into Duncan 15 months ago after living in the surrounding area for 10 years.

The new mayor has been active in city organizations. He is still a big push in Duncan Teen Town and is a member of the city Kinsmen Club.

Incumbent Tommy Kilpatrick topped the aldermanic poll but two newcomers, Dick Benzis and Rois Harder, beat out former Alderman Robert Mason for the other spots.

Another younger businessman, Johnny Getz, joined the council by acclamation to fulfil the unexpired term of retiring Alderman Homer Alex.

MERGER STUDY

Runaway Victory Scored by Morton

NORTH COWICHAN — The expected close finish did not materialize in the contest for reeve here.

Incumbent for eight years, Donald Morton had a runaway win over Claude Green and Mrs. Margaret Whittaker. He had a clear 200 votes over the combined opposition poll.

Reeve Morton said Sunday: "Defeated candidate Claude Green has offered me full support in the new term and I accepted if so the proposed south end sewer (a subject of controversy) can be installed as quickly and economically as possible."

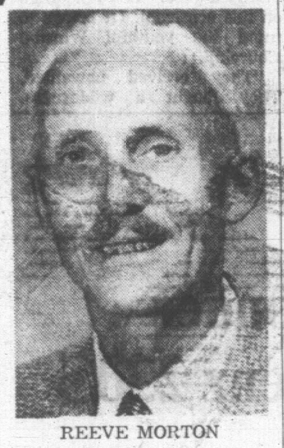
He said he could not reveal details but Duncan officials have suggested means by which the city can help forward the municipal sewerage project.

TRUSTEE?

Reeve Morton said bottom-of-the-poll candidate Mrs. Whittaker has expressed an interest in filling the municipal vacancy for trustee on Cowichan School Board 65.

The reeve said: "I will advocate the setting up of a strong committee to study the economics of amalgamation with Duncan and if it is found to be not feasible at this time we should set up joint bodies for administering various services."

Tom Burge, Crofton mill employee, was elected to council along with incumbents Mrs. Margaret Robertson and John Cannon.



REEVE MORTON
. . . two more years

The Ladysmith veteran alderman Bernard Churchill lost his seat to poll-topper George Oliver, a newcomer to civic affairs. Pat Ryan won the other seat.

Cowichan created a precedent by electing to Cowichan School District 65 board the principal of a Lake Cowichan elementary school, Terry Taylor, who lives in Cowichan Bay.

There was an upset at Lake Cowichan where William Sutherland defeated incumbent school trustee Don Hammond, chairman of the school construction program.

MINER KILLED IN SLIDE STARTED BY EXPLOSION

ZEBALLOS — Henry Beamer, 25, was killed Sunday in a slide at the Zeballos iron mine in this west coast Vancouver Island community.

Police said Beamer was emerging from the mine tunnel after setting a charge to loosen ore inside when the blast triggered a slide that brought rock and snow down at the tunnel entrance.

Three other men escaped injury when the debris hit a building outside.

Let a lady shift for herself?

NEVER!

We agree with Datsun. You have enough to do gathering in the groceries and keeping the kiddies tucked quietly into their seat belts, without having to change gears as well.

That's why we're pleased to offer this Datsun 1600 Automatic. Into its budget price, it packs more features to gladden your feminine heart than any car we've ever known.

It's really smart. Nice lines. Lovely colours. The steering is light and positive. (You can park it in a teacup.) It has a full-flow air circulation system that works with the windows closed. The car never gets stuffy and your hairdo never blows awry. On cold days, the heater quickly clears all the windows to give you excellent vision.

For safety, there's an impact absorbing body, brakes borrowed from the best racing cars, back-up lights and, because children often ride in the rear seat, Datsun padded the backs of the front seats too.

The ride is velvet. All wheels are independently sprung. Also Datsun hinged the rear axle in the middle so that both wheels stay on the ground when you take a corner. You'll have new confidence when the roads are icy or rain-slicked.

But, best of all the Datsun 1600 isn't one of those timid small car automatics with no go. It has a big 96 h.p. engine that will cruise you at twenty in traffic or move you at better than ninety miles an hour. It's smooth and zippy in every gear.

Oh, and one more thing. Expect one hundred thousand mile reliability. That's been built-in too.

Drive at Datsun — then decide!

Thousands Have Died In Guatemala Violence

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — A deadly urban war has claimed more than 1,000 lives—perhaps as many as 4,000—in Guatemala, a Central American country where more than 75 per cent of the rural population is illiterate.

The conflict is a threat to badly-needed stability in a country which has known only thin stretches of peace since U.S. intervention prevented a leftist takeover in 1954.

Behind the violence are four recognizable elements: Extremists from the left and right, organized hoodlums and a clandestine police-military operating combatting all of them.

A Castroite guerrilla threat to the government of Julio Cecar Mendez Montenegro seems to have been liquidated. But diehards have moved into the urban centres in an effort to acquire new financing for their operations through kidnappings of rich businessmen and holdups.

At the same time right-wing extremists, originally mobilized to fight the leftist guerrillas, would like to topple the military-backed Mendez regime. They feel its increased taxation and reforms threaten traditional privileges.

Some high-ranking officers are known to be sympathetic to the rightists.

BANDS PROFITEERING

There are increasing signs, authorities say, that organized outlaw bands, posing either as far rightists or leftists, have moved into the fight purely for profit.

Men in key positions for political evaluation say that despite the upsurge in violence during November, the urban conflict is in its final stages.

Internal security, thoroughly reorganized with some U.S. aid, is being strengthened with a $10,300,000 budget in 1968.

These sources believe President Mendez Montenegro has solidified his position. They expect him to become the first elected president to finish out his term of office since Juan Jose Arevalo in 1951.

A lawyer, 46, Mendez took office in July, 1966, amid much speculation about his lasting ability and even more humor about his alleged drinking habits. His critics now concede he may be one of the most underrated presidents in Guatemalan history.

Some critics argue that he is merely a front man for the armed forces and that the real boss is Defence Minister Col. Rafael Arriga Bosque.

The army's big move against the leftist guerrillas began in October, 1966, after Mendez's appeals for peace through conciliation were ignored by Castroite rebel chieftains.

A military operation called Plan Piloto was the basic strategy. The labor, health and education ministries pooled their resources with the military in projects beneficial to the peasant population, such as roads, schools, sanitation and medical facilities.

This strategy isolated guerrillas from lifelines.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Some irregularity in oilseeds was evident in late trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange while action in other commodities was light.

Flaxseed eased in early trading but the development of export interest as the session progressed firmed prices. There were reports that 1,100 tons of flax was sold to Europe and 1,500 tons to Portugal. Some expansion of hedging sales in rapeseed resulted in an easier tone.

CHICAGO (AP)—Corn futures advanced two cents on the Chicago Board of Trade in active dealings influenced by the weather.

Wheat futures declined 1½ cents but other commodities showed only small changes.

Commission house and local selling on the opening weakened wheat prices. Additional liquidation later in the session by some commercial interests also tended to weaken prices.

Soybeans trade was light throughout the session and was influenced to a degree, by the advance of corn prices. Soybean oil turned weak near the close while soybean meal showed some later strength.

In gold stocks, Dome Mines gained 2⅛ points to 58½.

AT NEW YORK trading was active and at one point during the morning the new ticker tape trailed by one minute in reporting floor transactions.

Declines among individual issues topped advances by less than 100 issues in a reversal of an earlier trend.

The market failed to respond to what was considered by brokers to be favorable business news during the weekend. This included a report that manufacturers expect a sales increase of 3.5 per cent this quarter and of another three per cent next quarter.

On a delayed opening of 44,000 shares, Bunker Hill spurted 7⅞ to 54¾. C. E. Schwab, Bunker Hill president, had advised stockholders to reject an offer by Gulf Resources to acquire 700,000 Bunker Hill shares at $56 a share.

Among Canadians, Granby Mining was up 2½, Dome Mines 1¼ and Hudson Bay Mining 1½. International Nickel was off 1¾, Massey-Ferguson ½ and Alcan ⅛.

AT MONTREAL Fraser Co. dropped more than three points, while CIL, International Nickel and Union Carbide were each off one point in early afternoon trading.

Fraser tumbled 3¾ points to 18¾ on volume of 1,980 shares, as investor's hopes for a takeover offer melted.

Union Carbide dropped 1¾ points to 16, CIL 1⅜ to 13½, and International Nickel 1¼ to 125¼.

Speculative mines and oils were mixed on the Canadian Stock Exchange. United Asbestos jumped 20 cents to $7,80, while United Obalski slid 18 cents to $1.28.

AT LONDON firm equities and renewed weakness in gilt-edged securities was the stock market picture today.

A further fall in sterling at first induced some small selling in the gilt-edged market. Selling dried up later, however, and losses were reduced to show maximum falls of 3s 8d.

Dollar stocks raced ahead helped by a strong dollar premium. ITT rose 16 points. International Nickel was strong at 313 and other Canadians also advanced, with the exception of Dome and Hudsons Bay, both a shade off.

In a mixed Canadian banking section, Toronto added 3s, while Canadian Imperial lost 2s.

Oils looked uncertain. Ultramar was wanted by Trinidad Canadian eased.

Gold shares went ahead.

Contract Talks Broken Off

Contract talks broke off Friday between 700 Victoria and Vancouver area butchers and six chain stores.

No further talks were immediately scheduled between the two sides.

The Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America is seeking a four-day 36-hour work week in place of the present five days and 40 hours plus a wage increase of $1 and hour on rates ranging from $2.30 for women to a minimum $3.35 for head meatcutters.

The union had served strike notice at one suburban Vancouver store and the companies have served a general lockout notice. Stores affected in Victoria by the dispute are Safeway, Super Value and Shop Easy.

'U.S. Firm Trying To Break Strike'

VANCOUVER—The Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union charged today the strike-bound Canada Rice Mills and Martin and Robertson Limited with using Americans in Arkansas to break a legal strike in British Columbia.

Union international representative John Squire of Vancouver said in a statement the company has closed its business in suburban Richmond and "is attempting to operate through numerous addresses in the city of Vancouver."

He likened it to a "floating crap game."

Mr. Squire said rice from Arkansas has arrived in Vancouver via Fort William on the Canadian National Railways.

If the operation succeeds it will destroy the legal strike and cause loss of employment for more than 100 workers, he said.

"This will not happen as our union intends to picket the employer's place of business regardless of what address or name the company attempts to operate from," he said.

The strike is over the union's request for a 50 cents an hour wage increase, he added. Present rates range from $1.65 to $2.56.

That's the most an Accutron® timepiece will gain or lose in one month's time. And we'll put it in writing.†

Accutron looks like a watch. But it isn't. It doesn't have a mainspring, a hairspring, or a balance wheel.

These parts make a watch run fast or slow. Accutron has replaced them with an electronic-powered tuning fork. It splits each second into 360 equal parts. And makes the Accutron timepiece so precise, it won't gain or lose an average of more than two seconds a day. In fact, we guarantee accuracy to within 60 seconds a month.† Just one darn minute.

The old-fashioned balance wheel principle is used in all watches; not the Accutron movement. The Accutron tuning fork makes possible the first guarantee of accuracy ever given.

COMPUTER CONTROLS WELL DRILL

NEW YORK (AP) — The first use of a computer to control oil well drilling operations was reported today by Humble Oil and Refining Co.

Humble, an affiliate of Standard Oil Co. New Jersey, said the computer control system was being tested in the Bayou Carlin oil field of south Louisiana.

Humble said the computer "assists in the drilling process by scanning and analyzing electrical signals from sensing devices on the rig floor.

"The signals provide a measurement of various drilling factors, such as the weight of the drilling bit and the speed at which the drill pipe is turning."

'Finished Goods Future Exports'

WINNIPEG (CP) — Agriculture Minister Greene said today Canada is anxious to increase its sales of manufactured goods to Japan and other nations.

Speaking to the Canada-Japan trade council luncheon, Mr. Greene said that during the last five years, Canadian exports to Japan have increased from $200,000,000 to $400,000,000 by 1966.

Japanese imports, in the same period increased from $125,000,000 to $250,00,000.

"Despite the dollar balance in Canada's favor, in examining the composition of trade between our country and Japan over the years, we in Canada cannot help but be concerned by the absence of any significant increase in Canada exports requiring a high degree of processing and high labor content," Mr. Greene said.

Mr. Greene said Canadian exports to Japan are dominated by wheat, mineral ores, woodpulp, lumber, coal and oilseeds, all characterized by a low-labor input.

"We would appear still to be the hewers of wood and drawers of water," he said.

DEPENDS ON EXPANSION

Mr. Greene said he was not downgrading the importance of exports of basic commodities. The prosperity of the country, especially Western Canada, depended on the expansion of such exports.

But if Canada wanted to improve its economic base and provide employment for its expanding labor force, it must continually increase its productivity in the processed and manufactured products.

Mr. Greene said an abundance of natural resources gave Canada a head start on other nations and it was from them that Canadians enjoyed a high standard of living.

But Canada could not continue to improve its standard of living nor provide job opportunities from natural resources alone.

"To keep the pace of progress, we shall have to be competitive in the domestic and world markets of secondary industry," he said.

Canada must beware of pricing itself out of the world market, both in primary and secondary industries.

Canadians must work harder, produce more for each dollar, save where they could to become more efficient and retain a substantial portion of production for research and capitalization of new plants in order to become more competitive.

'Deficit Cannot Continue'

CHICAGO (CP) — Premier W. Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan today said Canadians must be given a better opportunity in United States markets if Americans want Canada to increase buying in the U.S.

Speaking to the American Farm Bureau Federation, Mr. Thatcher said Canada continues to have a trade deficit with the U.S. which he described as so large it cannot continue indefinitely without causing major financial difficulties in Canada.

In his speech, the Liberal premier said the U.S. government jealously maintains a tariff level against many Canadian goods, making it difficult for producers to enter the American market.

He referred specifically to minerals, oil, agricultural products, timber and other raw materials.

As an example, Premier Thatcher said U.S. cattlemen sometimes get excited about imports of Canadian beef.

"Frankly," he said, "your beef producers should not be concerned."

The U.S. government maintains a 1½ to 2½ cents a pound tariff on cattle imports. In addition, said Mr. Thatcher, Canada annually purchases more than twice as many agricultural products from the U.S. as that country purchases from Canada.

Because of increased population and a booming economy, Canada will soon be short of beef and will have to double production by 1980, he said.

Premier Thatcher also defended Canada's practice, often criticized in the U.S., of selling wheat to Communist countries.

At one time, he said, Canada used to sell its wheat to such countries as India, Pakistan and Indonesia, but the U.S. has been supplying these countries through "give away programs" and soft currency deals.

"In other words, your government has taken over many of Canada's traditional markets," said the premier.

STEEL FIRM ROLLS BACK PRICE HIKE

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. today rescinded price increases announced last week on hot rolled sheets and cold rolled strip.

The increases rescinded were $4 a ton on hot rolled sheet and $5 a ton on cold rolled strip. Similar rescissions were made Friday by Armco Steel Corp. and Kaiser Steel Corp. when other major producers failed to go along on these categories.

Jones' action did not affect its $5 a ton hike in the price of cold rolled sheet or a similar hike in the price of galvanized sheets. Nor did it affect the changes made in the extra list on the hot and cold rolled categories.

Beaver Purchasers Can Only Lose Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission says beaver-breeders have been a little too eager in promoting investments in their industrious animals.

The SEC, charging beaver breeders with making misleading statements in their sales pitches, wants them to register with the government any investment contracts calling for the purchase and care of live beavers.

Until now, the breeders have declined to comply.

But one of the 10 firms involved in a court test initiated by the SEC has just registered $1,000,000 in investment contracts and filed a prospectus calling them speculative.

For a minimum investment of $888, a buyer gets two live beavers and ranch care for two years. The care of any beaver offspring—a prime purpose of the contract—costs extra.

At the direction of a federal court, the American Canadian Beaver Co., Inc., of St. Anthony, Idaho, acknowledged the prices of beaver pelts have ranged between $20 and $40 during the last 30 years and have gone as low as $6.15.

"The purchasers should be aware that without a substantial increase in the price of beaver pelts or some other development in this area, for which there is no present basis of anticipation, he carn only expect to experience a loss as a result of this investment," the company stated.

Since 1957, residents of at least 34 states and Canada have invested more than $7,000,000 in live beavers.

HOOKING? . . . WHO'S HOOKING?

It was case of what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander as Mike Walton, of Maple Leafs, and Boston's Gary Doak gave out with innocent expressions while trying to gain advantage with sticks in hooking duel during National Hockey League game Saturday. Walton was hero of Toronto fans as Leafs came from behind for 3-3 tie with Bruins. (AP Wirephoto.)

Old Leafs Bounce Back To Upset Punch's Crew

Moore Gets Winning Goal On Assist from McKenney

By The Canadian Press

Dickie Moore, who didn't react to general manager-coach Punch Imlach's rejuvenation cure three years ago, came out of the past Sunday night to tranquilize Toronto Maple Leafs and provide the adrenalin for St. Louis Blues.

Moore, 36, back after a two-year layoff, scored the winning goal in the Blues' 2-1 victory—their seventh in 25 starts—over Imlach's Maple Leafs in regular National Hockey League action.

Imlach had talked the man who holds the record of most points in one season—including playoffs—out of a one-year retirement in 1964, but gave up after the 36-year-old leftwinger scored only three goals and added five assists in 43 games.

Moore was the first man to score 96 points in a regular season with 41 goals and 55 assists in 1958-59 while with Montreal Canadiens. He added five goals and 12 assists in 11 playoff games to set a record of 113 points.

Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita, both of Chicago Black Hawks, have since scored 97 points, although no one has equalled Moore's 113-point plateau.

Moore, who retired for the first time after the 1962-63 season because the cartilage were removed from both knees, was talked out of retirement for the second time a few weeks ago.

He said he was coming back because of the challenge, the money and the fact that the NHL's new Western Division didn't look as tough as the old Eastern Division.

Injuries Sideline Orr and Green

Moore's comeback was the highlight of a 10-game NHL weekend that also saw the first-place Boston Bruins hampered by the loss of defencemen Bobby Orr and Ted Green and Bobby Hull continue his league-leading pace with three goals.

New York Rangers edged Montreal Canadiens 3-2 Sunday night, while Los Angeles Kings dumped the Bruins 3-1, Chicago shutout Philadelphia Flyers 3-0, and Minnesota North Stars walloped Pittsburgh Penguins 7-4.

Chicago had battled to a 2-2 tie with Montreal Saturday night as Toronto and Boston deadlocked 3-3, Detroit Red Wings edged the Rangers 3-2, Pittsburgh defeated Minnesota 3-2, and St. Louis shutout Oakland Seals 1-0.

Don McKinney, who also played for the Leafs during the 1964-65 season and was left unprotected along with Moore at the end of the season, set up the winning goal against the Leafs. Like Moore he recently returned to action after treatment for a serious knee injury.

Rookie Frank St. Marceille scored the other St. Louis goal, his first of the season. Jim Pappin opened the scoring with his ninth goal of the campaign for Toronto.

Bobby Hull scored two goals against Philadelphia and Denis DeJordy recorded his first shutout of the season as Chicago continued its drive for the top after a humble early-season beginning. Veteran leftwinger Doug Mohns scored the other Chicago goal.

MISS HULL BLAZERS

The largest crowd of the season, 14,646, came to see Hull's blazing slapshots and saw him score with two soft rebounds.

Gordon Labossiere, Ted Irvine and Lowell MacDonald scored as Los Angeles snapped an eight-game unbeaten streak for the Bruins, who lost both Green and Orr in Saturday's tie with Toronto.

Eddie Shack scored the only Boston goal.

CHIEF GETS EQUALIZER

George Armstrong scored with three seconds remaining after Toronto goaltender Johnny Bower had left his net in favor of a sixth attacker Saturday night.

Orr suffered a broken collar bone early in the second period after dropping to the ice to stop a shot by Frank Mahovlich and is expected to miss at least three weeks of action.

Green, also a victim of Mahovlich's shot, suffered a badly bruised right knee and is expected to be sidelined until next weekend.

Mike Walton, scoring his 11th and 12th goals in 10 games since being given a regular spot on a Toronto forward line, engineered the other Leaf goal as he assisted on Armstrong's marker.

Fred Stanfield scored twice for Boston and Ken Hodge got the other.

Gordie Howe, who entered hospital for a kidney ailment Friday, passed a kidney stone Saturday and refuted doctors' claims that he wouldn't be able to skate, scored one goal and added an assist in Detroit's 3-2 victory over New York.

Gary Jarrett and Gary Bergman scored the others, while Jim Neilson and Boom Boom Geoffrion replied for the Rangers.

Bobby Hull and Ken Wharram were the Chicago marksmen Saturday, while Henri Richard and Lemaire scored the Montreal goals.

PANTHERS POUNCE FAST AND CHEW UP RAMBLERS

ANAHEIN, Calif. (AP)—Don Jonas threw five touchdown passes to pace Orlando, Fla., Panthers to a 38-14 victory over Orange County, Calif., Ramblers in the Continental Football League championship game at Anaheim Stadium Sunday night.

Jonas riddled an Orange County defence that had surrendered only four touchdown passes in 14 games going into the playoff. Jonas tossed four of his scoring passes in the first half.

Orlando, champion of the league's Eastern Division, scored 17 points in the first minute, 26 seconds to rout the Western Division champions.

Rockets Crush Tired Cougars

Victoria Cougars and New Westminster Royals took their lumps Sunday as 11 proved to be a popular number with winning clubs in the British Columbia Junior Hockey League.

Playing their third game in three days, the Cougars looked weary as they took an 11-5 thumping at the hands of the second-place Kamloops Rockets. It was the third successive defeat for the Cats, who were tripped 8-3 by the Essos at Vernon Saturday night.

Royals had their turn on the Vernon ice Sunday and were crushed 11-4 as Esso defenceman Bob Mayer collected three goals and two assists.

Royals fared better Saturday night at Kelowna, scoring once in each period to edge the Buckaroos 3-2.

PACED ROCKETS

Grant Evans was the main Cougar-killer Sunday as he paced the Kamloops attack with three goals. Randy Rota again had a good day against the Cats, joining clubmate Jim McNeill in a two-goal display.

Many of the Cougars appeared too weary to match the fast Kamloops pace but Dave Williams was skating with the best and fired three goals for the Victorians. Denis Ferrill and Larry Liamcher also scored for the Cats.

Tom Serviss, a forward who was moved back to defence for Saturday's game at Vernon, was the hero of almost 1,000 fans as he earned five points against the Cougars on three goals and a pair of assists.

FIVE STRAIGHT GOALS

Greg Gow, Greg Wedderburn and Terry Mitchell counted for the Cougars, who held a 1-1 tie after the first period and then yielded five successige tallies to the eager Essos.

Last-place Kelowna remained three points behind Victoria as they failed to stop the Royals Saturday.

The clubs were tied 2-2 going into the final period and the Royals notched the winner 29 seconds after Kelowna's Buth Deadmarsh had received a slashing penalty. Barry Leswick fired the deciding marker on a play with Ray Walliss and George Watson.

Cougars make their next start Wednesday at New Westminster.

Champ Skater Close Second

NORTH VANCOUVER— Victoria figure-skater Heather Fraser missed winning by a bare half point the junior women's free skating event of the B.C. Sectional Figure Skating Championships here Sunday.

Another Victoria skater, Barbara Maple, brought home the novice women's singles from Saturday competition.

Miss Fraser, former Canadian champion in the event, lost the upset to 16-year-old Bernita Cave of the hosting Capilano Winter Club.

The senior women's title was won by Ruth Hutchinson of Vancouver's Kerisdale Figure Skating Club and the senior men's title by Corby Coffin of the North Shore Winter Club of North Vancouver.

North Shore also claimed the junior women's singles champion in Karel Latham, the junior men's singles in Tony Michaud and the senior women's pairs winners in Wendy and Gloria Borthwick.

Saturday, skaters from the North Shore Winter Club took two of the three titles up for grabs, as Darren Gillett took the novice men's singles and Marion Murray and Glen Moore took the junior mixed pair title.

Gillett finished ahead of clubmate Glen Moore and Capilano's Ted Barton.

Super-Thief Picks Lock As Browns Snatch Title

By Associated Press

Jim Houston, Cleveland's 245-pound super-thief, has picked the lock to the Century throne room, leaving only one divisional battle still raging in the National Football League—the coastal war between Baltimore's unbeaten Colts and Los Angeles' relentless Rams.

Linebacker Houston intercepted a fourth-quarter pass Sunday and ran 18 yards for the decisive touchdown as the Browns clinched the Century Division crown with a 20-16 victory over St. Louis Cardinals.

A week ago, Houston's 79-yard scoring run with another pass theft put the wraps on a 24-14 victory over New York that eliminated the Giants from the Century race.

While the Browns joined Green Bay's Central champs and Dallas' Capitol kings in the NFL semi-final playoff bracket, the Colts whipped New Orleans 30-10, running their unbeaten string to 13 games and setting up next Sunday's Coastal showdown with Los Angeles.

The Rams stayed alive Saturday by blocking a Green Bay punt in the final minute and scoring with 34 seconds to play for a 27-24 nod over the Packers. They tied the Colts in an earlier meeting and are one game off the pace going into the finale in title-frantic Los Angeles.

In Sunday's other NFL games, Dallas Cowboys drubbed Philadelphia Eagles 38-17; San Francisco '49ers outscored Atlanta Falcons 34-28; Detroit Lions smacked New York Giants 30-7; Washington Redskins edged Pittsburgh Steelers 15-10 and Chicago Bears and Minnesota Vikings played to a 10-10 deadlock.

RUGGED VETERAN

The Browns led 13-9 when Houston, a rugged, eight year pro, batted a Jim Hart pass into the air, grabbed the ball on the fly and raced across untouched. Those six points stood up for Cleveland despite Hart's 15-yard touchdown pass to Jackie Smith late in the period. A desperate 41-yard pitch from Hart to Smith carried to the Browns' 18 as time ran out.

Fank Ryan's 38-yard scoring pass to Paul Warfield and two field goals by Lou Groza offset three three-pointers by St. Louis' Jim Bakken before Houston came up with the big play for the Browns.

The Colts rolled to their 11th victory—they have tied two—despite a sub-par performance by quarterback Johnny Unitas, who completed 10 of 24 passes for 148 yards and failed to connect for a touchdown.

A 25-yard, fourth-quarter field goal by Fred Cox earned Minnesota its third tie of the season and nullified a brilliant, muddy-field running display by the Bears' Gale Sayers.

Blanda Shows 'Rube Fans' He's Not a Has-Been Hero

By LAWRENCE LEE

HOUSTON (AP)—It was like a B-picture. Grizzled and bitter, George Blanda trotted out Sunday and kicked four field goals for Oakland against Houston Oilers, the team that turned him out last spring as a has-been.

The 19-7 victory assured the American Football League's Western Division title for the Raiders, and it demoralized the Houston whippersnappers lusting after the Eastern top-spot.

The old hometown crowd that shivered under laden skies while Blanda exacted revenge couldn't have booed louder had he twirled a mustache and cheated a grandmother for an encore.

'MY BEST DAY'

He exulted.

"This was fantastic," he said. "The best day of my career. To come back here and show all those rube fans that the booing doesn't bother the old man."

Exhibiting a vast grin, Blanda went on: "I went out there. All those boos kind of shocked me. I thought maybe—just maybe—the fans would respect me a little more than that."

Fickle Houston had forgotten 1960 and 1961 when he guided the newborn Oilers to AFL championships. Sunday's game made him the league's 1967 scoring leader—47 converts and 19 of 28 field goals for another 57, total 104.

CHIEFS TRIP JETS

Oakland's victory gave the Raiders an 11-1-0 record and a 2½-game lead over San Diego. It also prevented Houston, 7-4-1, from breaking a first-place tie in the Eastern Division with New York Jets, who lost 21-7 to Kansas City Chiefs in the only other Sunday game. Buffalo Bills trounced Boston Patriots 44-16 Saturday.

Kansas City broke a scoreless tie against the Jets with third-quarter touchdowns on Curits McClinton's one-yard run and an 11-yard pass from Len Dawson to Chris Burford. The Chiefs clinched it on Fred Williamson's 77-yard return of an intercepted pass for a TD to make it 21-0 in the fourth quarter.

Buffalo, smarting from a 23-0 loss to Boston earlier this year, stunned the Patriots Saturday by running up a 28-0 lead in the first half. Tom Janik intercepted three Boston passes and Marv Schottenheimer grabbed off two to make life miserable for Boston quarterbacks Babe Parilli and Don Trull.

VANCOUVER — Just when Victoria Rawlings were about to offer UBC Thunderettes company in first place, Mt. Pleasant Legion turns up to make it three and a crowd.

A split between Mr. Pleasant and Victoria in their two-game series at John Oliver gym continues to make the Inter-City Women's Basketball League a three-team race.

Rawlings defeated Legion 49-38 Saturday night to move to within two points of UBC. Mt. Pleasant bounced back Sunday to trip Victoria 66-53 and remain on the leaders' heels.

At last-quarter scoring burst by Jay Dahlgren turned the tide for Mt. Pleasant.

Janice Robinson, who fouled out in the second half Saturday after scoring 13 points, added 16 points Sunday.

Victoria's best were Diane Doyle and Mary Coutts. Diane popped in 33 points in the two games while Mrs. Coutts clicked for 29.

WESTERN CROWN . . . . . . REMAINS ON COAST

Allenby Grabs Tenpin Title

CALGARY (CP) — Vancouver's John Allenby kept the Western Canada tenpin bowling championship on the West Coast for another year by capturing the fourth annual tournament with a 30-game scratch score of 5,969 Sunday.

Allenby follows Vancouver winners Wally Iverson in 1966 and Maurice Atkinson in 1965. Bert Manarin, of Calgary, won in 1964.

Before Allenby won the championship and the $1,000 prize money, he had his hands full holding off a bid by Regina's Red Glasser, who had led the first 22 games. Glasser finished in second place with a 5,890 total.

Third spot went to Winnipeg's Paul Yoshimasu with 5,869, followed by Gerry Hill, of New Westminster 5,830), Manarin (5,827) and Atkinson (5,822).

The top nine bowlers of 72 who started the event Saturday shared $3,045 prize money.

VARIETY OF WEATHER . . . . . . FOR TURKEY HEAD RACES

Pash Takes Top Sailing Honors

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

Variety in sailing conditions again spiced the Turkey Head Sunday races.

Eighteen boats in the morning had moderate winds combined with a drenching rain and low visibility. The afternoon contest saw a reduced fleet of nine boats whisked around a shorter course, some in less than an hour, in spite of a strong ebb tide.

Charlie Pash took top honors for the day.

Crossing fifth over the finish line, his Chasmoy won the morning race on corrected time. One of two boats to run aground off Fiddle Reef, Chasmoy did not compete in the afternoon.

Charlie took another 24-foot sloop, TarrTarr, and skippered her to a spectacular first-place finish across the line, again on corrected time.

Coming from mid-fleet position, Charlie sliced through on the last beat to pass up Halcyon and the three other boats which had earlier led the pack.

The other morning casualty, Sea Smoke, grounded early in the race. Ken Lowe in Bris established a large lead which he held to the finish line. Once clear of the reef, Sea Smoke caught up, finishing second, Lemolo was third over the line.

MORNING RACE — Six-mile course. Start off Marina Wharf; Mary Todd Island; all Fiddle and Chain Islands; Jemmy Jones flag; to finish line off Marina Wharf.

WESTS MOVE UP

Tregear's Goal Saves Red Lions

Red Lions are still unbeaten, but they needed a late break and John Tregears' accurate toe to preserve an undefeated run in the First Division of the Victoria and District Soccer League.

Tregear made good on a penalty shot with less than 10 minutes remaining in the game to pull out a 2-2 draw with Hourigan Kickers Sunday.

Goals by Henry Vanderhorst and Bill Cameron had provided Kickers with a 2-1 lead after Robin Snow scored Lions' first goal.

TIED FOR SECOND

In the only other first division game Sunday, Glen Robbins' goal provided Victoria West with a 1-0 victory over Tally-Ho. The win moved Wests into a second-place tie with Lions.

Only three second-division matches were played as weather forced postponement of four league games.

Scoring leader George Pakos scored five times as front-running London Boxing Club bowled over Sidney 8-0. In other second-division games, Victoria West clipped Colony Inn and Mayfair Clippers edged William Head Saints by identical 3-2 scores.

Doug Boyer led the way with four goals while Ernie Carley and Bill Wheeler each scored three for the unbeaten leaders. Daryll Leswick, Laurie Bennett and Barry Goddard each added singles while John Johns saved Comox from a shutout.

Oak Bay Pays Winning Visit to Vancouver

Oak Bay had a successful tour of Vancouver over the weekend in inter-high boys' basketball competition, defeating West Vancouver, 63-47, on Friday night, and North Vancouver, 43-33, on Saturday night.

In Friday nights' game Don Burrows led the scoring with 20 points followed closely by Tom Holmes with 17. Holmes netted the most with 23 in Saturday night's action.

READY FOR ACTION in Tuesday's benefit basketball game between Victoria-area teachers and Seattle's KJR All-Americans is Oak Bay High's Ed Kowalyk. Proceeds from game at Oak Bay will be turned over to student activities' fund. Limited supply of tickets are still available at Hocking and Forbes Sporting Goods, Bud Bell's Men's Wear and Oak Bay High. Game time 8 p.m.

Smith's Three Goals Boost Columbus Club

Victoria O'Keefes marked time with an exhibition game and Pacific Coast Soccer League rivals picked this past weekend as the one in which to pull away from the Islanders.

While O'Keefes were chalking up a 5-2 victory over Victoria's high school all-stars, Vancouver Firefighters and Columbus scored triumphs in Vancouver's Callister Park to move up the league ladder and away from sixth-place Victoria.

A penalty kick by Greg Arnett, in the last minute before the half, gave Firemen a 1-0 win over New Westminster on Saturday. The penalty was awarded after Westminster's Doug Smith handled the ball in the penalty area.

The win pushed Firemen into sole possession of fifth place and left O'Keefes alone in sixth.

Bobby Smith scored all Columbus goals, including the winner just seconds before the final whistle, in a 3-2 victory over Burnaby on Sunday. Harold Hansen counted both Burnaby goals. The win pushed Columbus to within one point of co-leading Burnaby and UBC Thunderbirds.

UBC lost a chance to gain when the 'Bird's scheduled game with North Shore was postponed because of ground conditions.

At Heywood Avenue Park, Peter Wheaton made his first start at inside left and proved to be a standout as O'Keefes handled the high school students with ease.

Wheaton scored the game's first goal with only three minutes gone, then set up Peter Brett and Dick Joyce for goals that provided a 3-0 lead. Ray Telford made it 4-0 just before the half and Brett added O'Keefes final goal in the second half.

All-Stars showed their best form in the second half and were rewarded when Stu Wallace (on a penalty shot) and Ross Clague Scored.

Scots Had to Be Good To Shackle Brentwood

It took an impressive performance to snap an impressive record.

That's how it was Saturday, Dec. 9, as the touring Glenalmond Trinity College of Scotland put an end to a two-year unbeaten march by the Brentwood College rugby team.

The well-drilled Scots defeated Brentwood 13-3 to end the B.C. champion's undefeated run at 33 games.

SHAWNIGAN NEXT

The Bill Crow-coached Scots, who opened a five-game B.C. tour by defeating University School 26-0 last week, now turn to Shawnigan Lake for a match Wednesday. Glenalmond ends its visit to Vancouver Island by facing Victoria-area all-stars at Macdonald Park next Saturday.

For a time Saturday, it appeared as if Brentwood might extend its long-standing record. The hosts stepped away to a 3-0 lead when captain Dai Williams booted a 30-yard penalty goal.

But the Scots couldn't be contained in the second half. Wing Ewen Kerr broke away for two trys and Peter Heap added another. Fullback David Gordon converted twice.

The Scots backfield, as it did against University School, again looked impressive but Brentwood coach Alan Rees showed greatest respect for the play of the Scots' pack.

"Their pack played superbly," said Rees. "They constantly supplied the ball.

"If we had to lose our record," he added, "I'm proud to have lost it to Glenalmond. It's a very fine team."

GLENALMOND — Peter Kirkwood, Bob Will, Robin McMillian, Andrew Graham, Reid Kerr, Peter Heap, Tim Fraser-Smith (captain), John Fok, Roy Leask, Chris Wilson, Ewen Kerr, Hamish Pringle, Graham Scott, George Burt, David Gordon.

BRENTWOOD — Don Hickman, Craig Davidson, Rob Archer, Dean Sawyer, Peter Scarrow, Dai Williams (captain), Alan McCrindle, Cam Gardner, David Minty, Mike Hall, Robert Hindson, Glen Hughes, Bruce Williams, Philip Arnoldi, Sasha Angue.

SHAWNIGAN BOYS' BEST

Claremont's Fairest Also Fleetest in B.C.

Claremont's distaff runners won the British Columbia high school girls' cross-country championship on Saturday, but their male counterparts could manage only a fourth-place behind defending champion Shawnigan Lake in the Vancouver Island boys' championships.

Claremont edged Northwestern of Vancouver and Nanaimo to collect the girls' team title at Brockton Oval in Vancouver.

Individual winner was Penny Shanks of Sentinel, who toured the sloppy, 1.6-mile course in eight minutes, 37 seconds.

Chris Pearson was the first Claremont harrier to cross the line, finishing in fourth place and just ahead of teammate Elizabeth Lax. Mona McMillan, Karen Bellevance, and Karen Smyth, Claremont's other entries, were ninth, 10th, and 23rd, respectively.

Central's Wendy Thompson finished fifth out of a field of 81 in the junior girls' race.

Shawnigan Lake retained the boys' title by edging Nanaimo 25-29. Oak Bay was third with 61 points, one point up on Claremont.

Nanaomi's Ken Hirst led the field of 36 runners around the 3.8-mile course in 19:37.5, finishing only 11 seconds ahead of Graham Hutchison of Courtenay.

Alan McAllister of Shawnigan Lake placed third to lead teammates Doug Hansen, Bruce Ruddell, and Randy Thomson—who landed in fifth, sixth, and 11th spots—to pad out the team total.

Dave Weicker of Oak Bay was fourth.

MOUNT VIEW SHARES PROVINCIAL TITLE

VANCOUVER — Mount View Hornets and John Oliver of Vancouver will share possession of the B.C. high school soccer championship trophy.

That much was decided after Brian Cornall's Hornets, the Vancouver Island champions, fought to a well-played 1-1 draw with the defending B.C. titleholders here Saturday.

Rick Lamoureux scored Views' goal at about the 27-minute mark, taking a perfect cross from captain Dennis Somner.

Hornets protected the 1-0 lead until the 74th minute, when left-half Willie Thompson was Johnny-on-the-spot to take advantage of a Mount View defensive lapse. The tying goal was set up when goaltender Graham Lee's clearing kick was blocked.

Despite the miscue, Lee was a standout for Hornets along with Somner and fullbacks Dave Speller and Bob Walker. Walker was particularly effective in holding winger Jim Drinkwater, John Oliver's big scoring threat, in check throughut the game.

In addition to setting up the Islanders' only goal, Somner was a constant threat on offense and missed two glorious early scoring chances.

E.P. Sounds Warning And Winks at Realtors

TORONTO (CP) — E. P. Taylor, chairman of the Jockey Club of Ontario, has warned the club's five tracks will close next April unless the provincial government rebates a substantial part of the six-per-cent tax it levies on money bet on races.

Mr. Taylor said in an interview the rebates would be used to pay bigger purses.

The five tracks involved are Greenwood and Woodbine at Toronto, Fort Erie and two harness-racing tracks, Garden City at St. Catharines and Mohawk at Campbellville.

In addition to the province's six-per-cent cut on money bet, the Jockey Club takes nine per cent and the federal government half of one per cent.

Taylor said that unless adequate relief is obtained, the club will operate with only two or three days of racing a week while tracks are sold or developed as real estate.

NEED FAST DECISIONS

He said a decision must be made early in January to allow time to prepare for the racing season.

The Jockey Club's plea for a rebate have been turned over to the Ontario Racing Commission.

Taylor refused to say how big a rebate the Jockey Club feels is necessary—"it would shock you."

But provincial government revenue from Jockey Club tracks this year is about $11,800,000.

REAL ESTATE VALUE

Taylor estimated the five tracks would be worth at least $50,000,000 if developed for real estate.

President George Hendrie of the Jockey Club said about 10,000 Ontario citizens depend on racing for their livelihood. Owners and breeders have an estimated $50,000,000 invested.

Mr. Taylor said any attempt to increase admission prices or the total bits taken by government or the tracks would result in lower attendance and less betting. Attendance this year was down eight per cent at thoroughbred tracks.

He said indications are the big bettors are betting through bookmakers.

OFF-TRACK BETTING

Taylor said the Jockey Club would like to experiment with off-track betting, Sunday racing and some night racing.

He said off-track betting would be tried "in some towns 100 to 150 miles away."

Breeders and owners have been losing money for the last three years and the Jockey Club has only been realizing two per cent on its investment, Taylor said.

He said the calibre of racing went downhill because Ontario purses were low. He suggested more money be made available for purses.

Dr. A. B. Allen, previously of Colwood Corner wishes to announce that he will be re-establishing in General Practice at the Cook Medical Building, 1175 Cook St. — temporarily in suite 302 — starting Dec. 13th. Office phone 385-1614, if no answer phone 383-1193.

Burgess Helping That Wander-Lust

Oak Bay Wanderers seem to be making their move into the "high-priced" brackets of the Victoria Rugby Union.

Again sparked by the kicking of veteran Don Burgess, Oak Bay upset second-place Castaways 14-3 Sunday.

As in an 11-11 draw with James Bay the previous weekend, Burgess contributed eight points to Oak Bay's attack with a conversion, a penalty goal and a drop goal. Don Shaw and Ian Baskerville scored Oak Bay's trys while Mike Oman, with a try, scored Castaways' only points.

Cordova Bay Wins Bantam Hoop Tussle

Cordova Bay romped to a 35-10 bantam girls' victory over Saanichton in Peninsula Basketball League action Saturday at Saanichton Agricultural Hall.

Saanichton divided the pre-midget honors, downing Brentwood, 16-7, in a girls' game and losing, 11-6, to Esquimalt in boys' action.

Greyhounds Win

Oak Bay Greyhounds shut out Mariners "B", 2-0, in women's field hockey action last Saturday. Nancy Hill and Ann Stanbridge shared the score with one each.

All other games were cancelled due to bad weather.

Arizonan Acclaimed Top Bowler

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Davis of Phoenix, Ariz. literally wrapped up "Bowler of the Year" honors Saturday by winning the Professional Bowlers Association $70,000 national championship at Madison Square Garden.

The 6-2, 145-pounder defeated Pete Tountas of Tucson, Ariz., 216-191, in the championship match which climaxed 162 games in the week-long grind that closed the PBA's 1967 tour.

Mike Limongello of N. Babylon, N.Y. was third and Bud Horn of Los Angeles finished fourth.

TWO NEW RECORDS

The $10,000 first place check which Davis won raised his earnings for the year to $54,115, which was $605 short of the record $54,720 set last year by Wayne Zahn of Atlanta.

But Davis did set two new records. This was his sixth tournament victory this year which broke Dick Weber's mark of five set in 1961. And it was the first time in the history of the PBA that one man has won the national championship twice. The 25-year-old won his first national in 1965.

NEWCOMER TOPS COUNCIL POLL

'Confidence Renewed in Policies' After Easy Election Win—Bryant

By PAUL WILLIAMSON

Reeve Ray Bryant walked to an easy victory in Esquimalt elections Saturday night and brought three of his supporters with him.

Two incumbents and a pro-council newcomer took the three council seats.

Reeve Bryant topped George Argyle by 322 votes. Two years ago he beat him by only 93 votes.

At that time, Mr. Bryant was a newcomer and Mr. Argyle was an experienced councillor.

A third reeveship candidate, veteran councillor Art Mebs, trailed by 500 votes.

YOUNG LEADS

Newcomer Art Young led the six candidates for the three council positions with 1,842 votes.

He was followed by incumbents Gerald Horne with 1,532 and Roy Elphick with 1,384.

YOUNG
. . . top man

The next candidate, Dr. John Rogers, was well behind with 1,034.

A jubilant Reeve Bryant said after the count: "I'm extremely pleased and honored the people have chosen to give me the mandate I sought.

"This renews my confidence in our policies.

"I'm particularly pleased at the endorsement of the incumbent councillors and the election of Art Young, a candidate who completely supported council policies."

Mr. Argyle, defeated for the top spot for a second time, said he had "no explanation for the results."

He said he has no plans to run for other public office.

Mr. Young, the poll-topper, said his support came from both pro-council and anti-council electors.

"I supported council and got some of that vote, yet I wasn't an incumbent so I picked up some from the other side."

Coun. Gerald Horne was pleased with the vote, and said the campaign had been valuable.

'CLOSE LOOK'

"The vote indicates people are pleased with the progress we've made in the municipality, but I do think a result of this campaign is that we're going to take a close look at some of our policies which have brought disfavor, and I think this is healthy."

Coun. Roy Elphick expressed his thanks to the voters and promised to work "for the benefit of the whole community."

Both Reeve Bryant and Coun. Horne promised a new look at relations with the press. The council has been criticized for conducting too much of its business behind closed doors.

OAK BAY

Hawes Defeats Watts; Wallace Edges Wade

By TED GASKELL

There will be three new faces around the Oak Bay council table in January and a familiar figure will be in the reeve's chair.

Coun. Fred Hawes, endorsed by retiring Reeve A. L. Cox just before the election, had no trouble in defeating Coun. J. D. Watts 3,044 to 1,845 votes.

Coun. W. J. Wade lost his seat by only 19 votes to newcomer Dr. G. Scott Wallace who polled 3,064.

Incumbents Mrs. Frances Elford topped the poll with 3,647 and Walter Dodsworth was elected with 3,450.

Six competed for the two, one-year seats made vacant by the resignations of the reeveship candidates.

Lawyer Ian Horne and former councillor Alex Hendry were a long way ahead with 2,451 and 2,178 votes respectively.

Only 53.47 per cent of Oak Bay's 9,213 turned out to vote but that was two per cent higher than last year's election which included the fluoridation vote.

Coun. Watts was disappointed in the results.

"I and my supporters fought a clean fight and we have nothing to be ashamed of."

He blamed the retiring reeve's endorsation of Coun. Hawes for his defeat.

MRS. ELFORD
. . . top vote-getter

WALLACE
. . . wins on first try

Later, congratulating Reeve-elect Hawes, he offered his services to the municipality.

Returning officer E. H. Hart said today there is a "great possibility" of a recount on behalf of Coun. Wade who lost by only 19 votes in 3,000. But Coun. Wade denied this.

"I haven't asked for a recount and I don't want one," said Coun. Wade. "The voters seem to prefer a tax increase," he added referring to the election of Dr. G. Scott Wallace who strongly urged more hospital beds.

Early Pattern Held Firm Throughout Count

There were no surprises in Oak Bay once the counting started in Saturday's election.

When the first batch of ballots were counted and the results announced within half an hour of the polls closing, the candidates were placed in the order in which they finished.

Coun. Fred Hawes was 200 ahead of Coun. J. D. Watts' 450; Coun. Frances Elford was leading Coun. Dodsworth and Dr. G. Scott Wallace with 200 was only 11 ahead of Coun. W. J. Wade. At the end of the evening he was 19 in front.

Alex Hendry and Ian Horne led the other four contestants for the one year seats.

P.E.I. Premier To Meet PM About Causeway

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP)—Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island will meet with Prime Minister Pearson in Ottawa Tuesday to discuss the federal government's decision to review plans to build a Northumberland Strait causeway.

He told a meeting held Sunday to protest the delay in construction of the causeway that he felt there was "some justification" in taking a second look at design and costs of the proposed crossing in view of escalating costs.

However, he said the provincial government "is not prepared to accept any compromise which will not accommodate our transportation requirements." Only a causeway with rails would be feasible and nothing short of this would be tolerated.

NIGHT OF SURPRISES

FAIRFIELD VITAL POLL

City Voters Back Rookie, Reject 14-Year Veteran

Victoria voters confounded the experts Saturday night by rejecting a 14-year council veteran and sending a rookie alderman to the top of the polls.

It was a night of surprises in an off-mayoralty election year which saw 32.49 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots.

The 6,618 of 20,638 voters set an early pattern for a double race to the wire.

Ald. Ian Stewart, a one-year city councilman seeking his second term in office, took an early but narrow lead over Ald. Robert Baird and held it throughout the night.

The second race had three competitors.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, Ald. Lily Wilson and former Ald. Clyde Savage.

They remained in that order until the last polling place, Sir James Douglas School in the Fairfield district, bounced Ald. Edgelow from third to fifth and off the city council.

IAN STEWART
. . . led all the way

Ald. Stewart lost only one poll to Ald. Baird and that by only two votes.

The Victoria West polling place recorded a total of 306 voters. Of those 183 cast ballots for Ald. Baird, 181 for Ald. Stewart.

At the other four polls Ald. Stewart led by healthy margins carrying even the Ald. Baird stronghold of Fairfield.

The tension started to build at the main polling station in the old Victoria Ballroom on Government Street an hour before the polls closed.

With a slashing rain drenching city streets and voters, a last minute flurry brought a flicker of excitement to an otherwise dull evening.

On the first count Ald. Stewart took the lead he would never relinquish with 201 votes to 172, a tie, for Ald. Edgelow and Ald. Lily Wilson.

Ald. Baird lay in fourth place on the first count with 169 trailed closely by Mr. Savage with 155.

The experts, although surprised at Ald. Stewart's early lead, were satisfied that their predictions of a fight between Ald. Baird and Mr. Savage for fourth place were on the way to coming true.

SUDDEN CHANGE

But an hour later when the second count was posted, all positions—except Ald. Stewart's—had changed.

Ald. Baird had moved up to within striking distance of leading the polls, Ald. Edgelow had moved up into a steady third and Ald. Wilson appeared in control of fourth spot with Mr. Savage starting to trail.

At that point in the count Ald. Stewart was nicely in front with 1,758, Ald. Baird, 1,682, Ald. Edgelow, 1,601 and Ald. Wilson 1,560. Mr. Savage had slipped to fifth place with 1,518.

The damp crowd forecast that with only Fairfield to hear from the count would remain basically the same with Ald. Wilson moving even further ahead of Mr. Savage when the vote came in.

Ald. Wilson is a long time resident of the Fairfield area and was expected to attract the lion's share of the vote.

Mr. Savage, listening to the count at home, said afterwards that he felt at this point that the election was lost.

"I was surprised at the way the vote had gone," he said. "But I thought at that stage that it was all over bar the shouting.'

But Fairfield, which pulled the second heaviest vote in the city, was destined to change the bottom order of the polls drastically and set the stage for the big upset of Ald. Edgelow.

When the tally came in 1,902 voters had recorded their votes at the Sir James Douglas School.

Some 1,210 had voted for Ald. Stewart, 1,121 for Ald. Wilson, 1,101 for Ald. Baird and 1,075 for Mr. Savage.

Ald. Edgelow pulled 988 votes, not enough to hold third position on the polls or even gain him a slim fourth place hold.

On the final first count Mr. Savage had 3,614 votes to Ald. Edgelow's 3,601.

The second count, ordered by returning officer Morran Waller but not requested by Ald. Edgelow, revised the final figures slightly but did not change the order of finish.

Ald. Stewart had outrun Ald. Baird for the top of the table spot by pulling 4,104 votes to Ald. Baird's 3,850.

In third place was Ald. Wilson with 3,710.

Fourth was Mr. Savage with 3,635. And fifth the man who had topped the polls for so many years, Ald. Edgelow with 3,604 some 31 votes behind his closest rival.

Ald. Edgelow took his defeat gracefully.

"I am disappointed, naturally," he said. "It isn't easy to lose after serving the city for so long. But if I had to lose I couldn't have lost to a finer man. Clyde Savage is a good friend of mine and was and will be a fine member of city council. I wish him all the luck in the world."

GEOFF EDGELOW
. . . after 14 years

Mr. Savage, re-elected to council after an absence of one year, was equally gracious in victory.

Arriving at the polling station after the final count he met the defeated Ald. Edgelow as he walked from the ballroom.

"Geoff, damn it, I'm sorry," he said, as they shook hands. "City council has lost one of its best men. I'm really sorry that it had to be me who took your spot."

"That's the way it goes in politics," replied Ald. Edgelow. "I'm surprised and a little hurt. But if I had to go, I'm glad it was to someone like you."

And with that the election was over for 1967.

Sidney Vote Defeated Saanich School Plans

Ratepayers on the Saanich Peninsula defeated a $554,800 referendum to complete a school building program Saturday.

It required a 60 per cent majority for passage and won only a 56-41 per cent affirmative vote. A total of 2,424 people voted for it and 1,873 against.

In the Saanich area of the school district the referendum did win the needed margin with 63.3 per cent in favor. It was favored by narrow margins in both Central and North Saanich. (See table Page 2).

It was the negative vote in Sidney that hit it hard. There, 459 voted against it and only 403 for, for an affirmative of 46.7 per cent.

School board chairman Mrs. Nora Lindsay said today the failure of the referendum puts the school district in an "impossible" position.

It will mean some classrooms without ceiling tile, shelving or cupboards and washrooms with proper flooring, she said.

In some schools it will likely mean a shift system and probably will result in the district having to cancel its kindergartens and special classes because space will be needed for regular classes.

The school board will have to reassess the situation at its meeting tonight, said the chairman.

Even if it decides to put the referendum to the people again in the spring, and is successful, there would not be time to have deeded facilities ready for school opening in the fall.

The failure of the referendum was "a definite step backward."

And Sidney, where there was the most opposition, had the most to gain.

SIDNEY HURT

Most of the funds in the defeated referendum would have gone to projects there, said the board chairman.

Three public meetings were held in advance of the vote to explain the need for the money. Land and building prices had pushed costs so high the funds were required to complete the program launched by $1,855,400 referendum approved in 1965.

Mrs. Lindsay said the recent government policy to limit funds for all but "essential" classrooms, pre-conditioned many voters.

"You're not going to get it anyway so why vote for it?" was the attitude school board officials found.

Mr. Bishop was mayor of Alberni before the merger of the Twin Cities.

ONE NEWCOMER

Six Trustees Kept on Job

One newcomer will join each of the three area school boards as a result of Saturday's elections.

Voters re-elected six trustees and only one school board member was defeated at the polls.

On the Greater Victoria school board, former chairman John Porteous, a trustee since 1961, led all the way in the city with 3,819 votes while Dr. Victor Rogers won his second term in office with 3,194 votes.

The two opposing them were Lloyd Brereton, a retired British educator, who gathered 2,700 votes, and Mrs. Daphne Temple, with 2,014 votes in her second try for the board.

Six candidates contested the single Saanich seat on the board and newcomer Cecil Wyatt, city manager from 1950 to 1963, finished on top with 2,245 votes.

The only one close to him was Mrs. Laurin Restall with 1,578. Order of finish for the others was Douglas Brown with 1,128; Richard Reeve with 1,001; Kennedy Smyth with 898 and William Hibbert with 463.

DISTRICT 63

In school district 63, which includes the Saanich Peninsula from Royal Oak north, securities salesman John Armstrong beat four other hopefuls for the lone Saanich seat.

Mr. Armstrong, who polled 423 votes, was trailed by Nels Granewall with 311; Stanley Oakes with 291; A. H. Murphy with 192 and John Blinko with 155.

In Central Saanich, trustee Vernon Beaumont defeated his lone challenger, Lannie King Yee, by a margin of 548 to 461.

The new North Saanich trustee on the school board is Major Charles MacNeill of 1492 Land's End Rd., who had been elected earlier by acclamation.

In the Sooke school district, Howard Drummond, 2778 Sooke Rd., was the only candidate in all three board contests to dump an incumbent.

BELMONT AREA

He finished with 217 votes in the Belmont sector to win one of the two seats. Topping the poll was trustee Fred Willway with 269 while running last was freshman trustee Darvis Cook with 68.

Behind the winners in the Belmont sector were Albert Canning, 146 votes, and former trustee Frederick Boulter with 98.

In the Milnes Landing sector, Ardiel Wickheim won a second term by topping board chairman John Bartanus, 223 to 194 in the race for the two available seats.

Trailing the poll for the third year in a row was Claude MacDonald with 70 votes.

There were no school trustee elections in Esquimalt or Sidney this year and in Oak Bay, Greater Victoria school board chairman Peter Bunn had earlier been elected by acclamation.

Newcomer Wins Seat In C. Saanich

Newcomer Percy Lazarz and two incumbents earned seats on Central Saanich council Saturday as incumbent Harold Andrew went down to defeat.

Mr. Lazarz, stressing regional planning and urging cautious study of plans to dump raw sewage into the sea, received 521 votes to trail incumbent Philip Benn, who had 561. Incumbent Charles Mollard was third with 485.

Unsuccessful candidates were William Clayards, 457; Harold Andrew, 448; Bert Hemstreet, 257.

Of 2,318 eligible voters, 1,029 cast ballots.

Sidney Sticks With Former Council Team

A record turnout of more than 50 per cent of North Saanich voters Saturday re-affirmed faith in four incumbents.

Only 26 per cent voted last year.

Reeve J. B. Cumming defeated challenger Dr. A. B. Nash 739 to 416.

Council incumbents Douglas Cook (690), Trevor Davis (593), and Mrs. Nell Horth (707) won out over Col. Harry Lake (510) and Harry Taylor (526).

There were 2,324 eligible voters.

FREEMAN ROMPS TO VICTORY

Mayor Arthur Freeman of Sidney, urging a hold-the-line spending policy, more than held the line against two challengers in elections Saturday.

Mayor Freeman piled up 667 votes to defeat former municipal clerk A. W. Sharp (252) and businessman Dudley Johnson (51).

Retired oil official Leonard Wadhams led a tight race for two aldermanic seats, pulling 381 votes to 371 for school teacher Stanley Dear. Postmaster Herbert Perry ran third with 367 votes.

Unsuccessful candidates were William Larnick, 268; Lawrence Christian, 238; and Bernard Ethier, 125.

The 55 per cent turnout of voters bettered last year's 40 per cent. Of 1,784 eligible, 989 voted.

Mayor Freeman, who won a two-year term, was elected in 1965 by a 632-212 margin over Andries Boas.

Great news for anyone who believes in competition, wants faster freight service, can't stand red tape, battles distribution costs, cherishes free enterprise, gets excited by technological progress, thinks time is money, or works for one of our railroads.

Merger approved for GN, NP, CB&Q, SP&S.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has approved the merger of the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroads. When merged, this modern distribution network will bring new speed, efficiency and flexibility to the movement of goods between the Midwest and the Pacific Northwest.

That's great news for just about everybody.

For shippers: Single-line service advantages, more cars, more special equipment, improved schedules, and car utilization, better routing options, wider transit and diversion privileges.

These and even more benefits will come from consolidation. Capital generated by greater efficiencies will be used to implement a new philosophy of distribution. Management techniques unencumbered by tradition will match the needs of this growing area.

For the public: A stimulus for free enterprise through a more competitive distribution system that helps keep down the cost of living.

For our employees: Liberal job protection, and increased opportunities for development with the merger-strengthened railroad.

That's the great news. A merger that will provide a competitively-balanced, rail-centered distribution system to help speed the development of 17 important states.

'Assassin's Identity Concealed'

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jim Garrison, New Orleans district attorney, said on a television show Saturday night that the federal government is concealing the identity of President John F. Kennedy's assassins.

Garrison, who professed to have no further political ambitions in answering a question from interviewer Murphy Martin, made his comments on a copyrighted production by WFAA-TV, Channel 8, in Dallas.

The district attorney also showed Murphy, and the television audience, pictures which he said were of a "federal agent" picking up a .45 calibre bullet which Garrison said was the "bullet that killed Kennedy."

Standing beside and watching the man picking up the .45 calibre bullet, were two men the district attorney identified as a Dallas policeman and a Dallas County sheriff's deputy.

Garrison said he could not identify by name any of the three men but said the picture was taken less than 10 minutes after President Kennedy was shot.

The district attorney said the man whose bullet delivered the coup de grace to the President of the United States stood in a manhole that connects with a drainage system under Dealey Plaza.

The New Orleans parish official, said the assassin, after shooting Kennedy in the right temple, escaped by going through 18-inch and 30-inch sewer pipes under the plaza.

FLAGRANT VIOLATIONS, SAYS LABOR MAN

'NEGROES, INDIANS NOT WANTED'

Government Turns Blind Eye to Discrimination, Panel Told

By PETE LOUDON

British Columbia laws against racial discrimination are flagrantly violated and the provincial government is reluctant to back them up.

This situation was described Sunday night by B.C. Federation of Labor secretary-treasurer R. C. Haynes during a panel discussion of human rights.

He told of a recent test conducted in Vancouver where five employment agencies were asked to provide office personnel but warned that either negroes or Indians or "foreigners" were not wanted.

In each case, despite the B.C. Fair Employment Act, the agencies said these wishes would be met.

"We have asked the B.C. government to advertise the Fair Employment Act but so far the government has refused," said Mr. Haynes.

Posters Refused

The government has also refused to issue posters for working areas warning against discrimination. At the same time it does issue posters concerning workmen's compensation act rules.

Mr. Haynes was joined on the panel by Miss Anna Wootton, a Victoria lawyer; Dr. R. J. Powers, political science professor at University of victoria; P. C. Paul, Brentwood elective chief of an Indian community and moderator, Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, co-chairman, B.C. Hydro.

Sponsor was the Human Rights Committee, United Nations Association of Victoria. Sunday was Human Rights Day.

Prof. Powers discussed civil rights on an international basis. He noted that the "most meaningful" result of the UN declaration of human rights 19 years ago has been the incorporation of many of these rights in the constitutions of emerging nations.

Automation

He said future years will see the need to safeguard human rights from advancing technology (the take-over of machines) and the expanding use of listening devices and electronic spying which threatens human privacy.

Miss Wootton spoke on the Canadian Bill of Rights which was adopted in 1960.

"It is itoo early to tell what the long-term results of the bill will be," she stated, because no court has yet had to rule on a case where it is in conflict with a previous act.

She pointed out that one weakness is that the rights bill ensures against any other federal law abrogating the basic rights of citizens. But it may not challenge laws passed by provinces.

"This is not to suggest we are on the brink of tyranny." She pointed out that England has no formal Human Rights Bill yet citizens there are confident their rights will be respected. On the other hand, despite Supreme Court rulings in favor of racial tolerance in the U.S., desegregation has made little headway."

Chief Paul said native Indians in Canada are still denied many rights that other citizens take for granted.

Indians Pushing

"Under the Indian Act we are still operating a form of Colonial government frowned upon by the United Nations."

But the Indian people, he said, are becoming emphatic in their protests, and no longer recognize this act and are pushing for revisions.

"Some of the younger ones want abolition of the act," he added.

He said Canadian history books used in schools don't do justice to the part the Indian played in the building of Canada. He said he did not think native people had been subjected to such abuses anywhere else in the world. Canadian literature makes Indians appear as an "inferior race of second class people."

Chief Paul said that non-Indians often offer paternalism rather than partnership and they should work to educate children against the stereotyped description of his race as "shiftless and lazy."

No TV Victories

He added, "We never win any battles on TV."

The panel members later discussed among themselves and with members of the audience of 75 other unsolved problems and some victories encountered in the campaign for wider human rights. Here are some highlights of the discussions:

Miss Wootton explained the complications involving the question of hate literature. Legislation to inhibit its dissemination might violate the principle of free speech.

Similarly protecting the rights of children who are denied blood transfusions (their right to health) or the rights of children whose parents keep them from school for religious reasons, might be in violation of religious freedoms.

Denied Housing

Mr. Haynes described a case where an Indian couple in Vancouver was recently denied housing when the landlord who didn't think they "looked Indian" discovered their race. A court case is pending.

He said Ontario has set up a commission to police such cases where previously, like B.C., the province had protective legislation but poor enforcement. He said the number of complaints trebled under the commission.

U.S. negroes have refused to accept such discriminations any longer and they are in revolt "exposing the whole sordid mess."

He warned, "Our Indian situation could become just as crucial and critical."

We're Moving

Mr. Haynes noted that a Victoria department store recently has employed a native Indian and an East Indian girl in its advertising.

"Five years ago you wouldn't find it. Although we're moving, it's very slow."

Dr. Keenleyside noted instances where French-speaking Canadians have been denied accommodation in Prince Edward Island and Jews met the same treatment in Quebec. He knew of several instances in B.C. where resorts have refused native Indians. But he also noted some improvement.

A youth in the audience said laws won't guarantee human rights. He cited the case of the hippy who suffers discrimination because he reserves the right to dress as he pleases and behave as he pleases within the law.

Another questioner in the audience asked Mr. Haynes how trade unionists can espouse human rights while at the same time compelling employees to join unions where closed shop agreements exist.

"When a group of workers get together and decide they want to have an organization, there must be some way of maintaining it," said Mr. Haynes. The UN declaration also allows for the protection of the majority, he said.

'Recognized Fact'

Dr. Keenleyside said the reason the relevant clause was included was that in such a case the majority has a right to insist that people who enjoy the rights achieved by an organization should also contribute to its existence.

"I agree a philosophical argument could be made here, but it (enforced union membership) is now a recognized fact of our civilization."

A speaker in the audience held that the whole democratic process requires minorities to submit to majorities for the common good.

Talks Proposed On Economic Future of City

Alderman Voices Concern Over 'Gaps in Dialogue'

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

A top-level conference between labor, management and civic authorities to discuss Greater Victoria's economic future will be called for Thursday.

Ald. Ian Stewart will make the proposal at Victoria city council meeting Thursday afternoon.

Mayor Hugh Stephen declined specific comment on the idea until Ald. Stewart had spelled out in detail what he has in mind.

"I have suggested to Ald. Stewart that before Thursday he prepare a list of the people he thinks should be invited to such a conference and just what should be on the agenda," the mayor said. "After that we can take a close look at the idea and, if necessary, move in a specific direction."

Ald. Stewart said the idea of a conference between labor, management and government leaders was first broached at the all-candidate rally held Thursday at the Union Centre on Quadra Street.

'GAPS IN DIALOGUE'

'It became apparent at that meeting that there were gaps in the dialogue between labor, management and government leaders," Ald. Stewart said.

"The more I thought about it, the more I became convinced that a non-partisan, non-political conference to study and plan for the future could achieve nothing but good.

"It may well be that such a conference can come up with no solutions. On the other hand it could produce if not all the answers, at least some of them."

NON-POLITICAL

Ald. Stewart said he had been in touch with Victoria MP David Groos who welcomed the conference idea and suggested it must be of a strictly non-political nature.

"I think George Chatterton (MP for Esquimalt-Saanich) should be there, so should the reeves of all surrounding districts," Mr. Groos said from Ottawa.

He suggested Jan 17 as the possible date for the conference.

Both Mr. Groos and Mr. Chatterton will be in the city on that date.

Ald. Stewart stressed that he was not suggesting that there was any kind of emergency facing Greater Victoria.

"But the closing of shipyards is quite a blow to the economy," he said. "Possibly by sitting down and discussing the future we can avoid a one-two punch. The ideas brought forward may well be worth while forwarding to Ottawa in the form of a detailed brief or they may just be suggestions that we can pass on with recommendations to the Chamber of Commerce."

Cascade of Gifts Brightens Life For Needy Family

The doorway to a new and better life was opened for a Victoria West widow and her eight youngsters over the weekend.

Times readers who learned Saturday of the hardships of "Margaret and her family" responded in a rush.

Within a few hours of publication of a story telling how Margaret's family was forced to exist on a welfare income of $32 per month per person, these things happened:

An unidentified man phoned an offer of $250 in new shoes and clothing. A Cadboro Bay Road reader put up another $200 to be spent by an official of St. Vincent De Paul Society as required for the family's comfort.

BOX OF CLOTHING

A city glazier called at the home to replace front and rear window glass. He wouldn't leave his name but he did leave a box of clothing for 19-year-old Sandra.

A city policeman arrived with a bed and mattress.

At St. Vincent De Paul Society store, where officials agreed to accept donations and ensure against duplication of gifts (other welfare families will profit in such a case) 15 telephone calls offered everything from money to furniture.

A fridge, beds, a carpet, three mattresses and other items are being picked up by the society.

BREAD SUPPLY

Earlier, on appeal by a neighbor, a bakery offered to keep the family in bread. A dairy says it will stock the family with milk, ice cream and other items on the Saturday before Christmas.

Frank Rushton of St. Vincent De Paul Society is co-ordinating offers from 15 persons willing to work on the house. A carpenter says the roof needs fixing. They plan a bee early in the New Year.

There are other offers of food, cash and Christmas decorations where only a few days ago Christmas was a word Margaret didn't want to think about.

She was ironing clothes until 5 a.m. Tired and overcome with emotion today she could only say "thanks." But neighbors say she "doesn't seem like the same person" since the flood of help began.

The Times story about Margaret called for community aid. But it pointed out also that the most serious need of Margaret and hundreds of other families like hers, is an increase in welfare allowances.

As the matter stands, children receive more than twice as much in provincial assistance if they are wards of the government in foster homes.

In this area, little relief is in sight. There has been no indication of response from government authorities.

Individuals wishing to help may contact St. Vincent De Paul Society, at 382-3213.

Butchers' Showdown On Tuesday

A showdown between butchers and supermarket stores in the Victoria and Vancouver areas is expected Tuesday morning.

Employees approved a strike start at that time against the High-Low store in the Vancouver suburb of Coquitlam. Six supermarket companies have warned that a strike against one will produce a lockout against all meat employees in all stores.

"We are hopeful talks may get under way today and if so and if there is any indication of progress being made, naturally the strike deadline can be moved," said George Johnston, representative of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America.

'BRING TO DEAD'

He said meetings of 700 butchers in Vancouver and 100 in Victoria "agreed to bring the matter to a head."

Victoria companies affected by the dispute are Safeway Super-Valu and Shop-Easy.

Butchers want a four-day 36-hour week with no reduction in pay plus a $1 an hour wage increase on rates ranging from $2.30 to $3.10 an hour. Present work week is five days and 40 hours.

Supermarkets accepted a majority conciliation board report, rejected by the butchers, which recommended an extra 40 cents an hour in a two-year contract and no change in hours.

Something Out There Worries Navy

Destroyer escort HMCS Qu'Appelle is carrying out a surveillance patrol off the B.C. coast.

Object of the surveillance is secret, a navy spokesman said today.

The Qu'Appelle returned Friday from exercises off the California coast. Within 24 hours the crew had been called back on what was thought to be a recall exercise to see how long it would take to get the ship ready for sea again.

But it wasn't. Once the men were aboard the destroyer sailed for a secret destination.

The Qu'Appelle went out alone.

No time of return has been estimated.

MARCHERS POOR DUNNERS?

Greater Victoria's 10,000-volunteer marchers are great at walking but poor bill collectors.

They got pledges estimated at $100,000 when they trekked in the March for Millions last month but so far have only collected about $10,000 from their sponsors.

The march, a Centennial youth project to raise money for portable classrooms in developing Commonwealth nations, drew the best per capita response here of any city across Canada when about 7,000 of a crowd estimated between 10,000 and 12,000 finished the 26-mile walk Nov. 25.

Uvic student Bob Taylor, chairman of the youth committee which organized the project, said today he had checked with school representatives and found only about 10 per cent of marchers had collected pledges from their sponsors.

Each person in the march is responsible for collecting the money his sponsors pledged to pay for each mile he or she walked.

"We're hoping these people will make an all-out effort to have all the money in by next Friday," said Taylor.

Self-Serve 'Grog Shop' Opens Here

Flowers and shopping carts greeted patrons at Greater Victoria's first "self-service" liquor store today.

Liquor Control Board Chairman Col. Donald McGugan said the new store, replacing a conventional LCB outlet at the Fort and Foul Bay shopping centre, will be open from 10 am. to 6 p.m. daily except for a 9 p.m. Friday closing time.

Patrons are able to buy liquor super-market style, taking bottles off the shelves themselves and paying at a check-out counter. Adding to the familiarity, the store is located in a former super-market building.

"We've decided to give this a trial here," said Col. McGugan. "It is the first self-serve store outside the lower mainland."

Conservative Newcomer Seeks Seat

A contest for the Progressive Conservative federal nomination in Victoria riding was assured today with the entry of newcomer Rev. Walter F. McLean.

The 31-year-old Presbyterian minister said he returned here to his native city from Ottawa only Saturday "because I've been invited by a group of prominent citizens to stand for the nomination."

He will be opposed by well known realtor Eric Charman at the riding's Jan. 22 nomination meeting. Mr. Charman declared earlier this month he will seek the nomination again which he held in 1963 and lost in 1965.

Rev. McLean was educated here at Glenlyon, Victoria High School and Victoria College before obtaining his bachelor's degree from the University of B.C. in 1957 and his Bachelor of Divinity degree from the University of Toronto in 1960.

ORDAINED 1962

He was ordained a minister in 1962, following in his father's footsteps, Rev. J. L. W. McLean who has been minister at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here almost 30 years.

Rev. McLean was president of the Canadian Union of Students in 1961 and the following year went to the University of Nigeria as a chaplain and co-ordinator of the Canadian University Service Overseas Program in Nigeria.

PLEASH PASH THE CANDIES

A man who told police he had eaten 30 rum-filled candies was fined $300 in central court today for impaired driving.

Robert Gottinger, 18, of 4341 Harder, was arrested early Sunday morning after police observed the car he was driving weaving south on Douglas Street.

The accused admitted in court he had been drinking beer.

New Owner To Finish Apartment

Local businessman Henry Eng said today he had purchased the controversial Quadra-Topaz apartment building for an undisclosed sum.

Mr. Eng, the owner of Oakcrest Market on Quadra Street, said he planned to complete construction of the long-deserted building within six months.

The apartment block, abandoned midway through construction for the past two years, has been the target of intense criticism from neighboring residents.

Little less than a month ago city council decided to call for the owners of the building to show cause why a demolition order should not be issued.

GORDON HEAD PIONEERS, Mrs. Otto Miller and John Holmes, blew out candles Sunday at the 70th birthday celebration of the Gordon Head Mutual Improvement Society. Mrs. Miller is the daughter of W. C. Grant, who donated the land for the original community hall. Present hall opened with a concert in 1898 and in a year or two will be replaced by a new one. Last spring's recreation referendum provided $470,000 for a community centre and swimming pool on municipally-owned Lambrick Estate.

House Guest Was a Thief Court Told

A man invited to stay over night at a couple's home left early in the morning with $128 worth of goods, Saanich police testified today.

Gary Verhey of CFB Esquimalt, pleaded guilty to theft over $50 when he appeared in Central Court.

Police said the accused met Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hanson, 3023 Bodega, in a beer parlour Dec. 2. They went to a house party together. and as Verhey said he had no place to stay, they invited him home.

Court was told Mrs. Hanson awoke early in the morning and heard Verhey prowling about the house. She awoke her husband who asked the accused to leave.

Later, they discovered an electric razor, two watches, cuff links, and some other items missing.

Police said the goods were later located in Verhey's locker at CFB Esquimalt.

Magistrate Ostler remanded the accused to Dec. 18 for presentence report.

Meeting Called Tonight By Storm-Hit Residents

Cordova Bay residents whose properties suffered storm damage last week are holding a public meeting tonight to consider united action.

The meeting in St. David's Church parish hall at 5186 Cordova Bay Rd. will start at 7:30, said Norman Sear, 5355 Parker.

Mr. Sear said the idea of the meeting is to examine a possible community solution or consider an approach to the municipality over the extensive damage to properties in the area.

Heavy seas have washed out so much sand in the vicinity of McMorran's resort that a number of septic tank outlets on properties have been exposed, he said.

Ask The Times

Q. Is it true that switching a light on and off uses as much power as a 100-watt bulb burns in 10 hours? C.G.

A. No, says B.C. Hydro. No extra power is used in the switching of an incandescent bulb, but switching of a fluorescent tubes does put great wear and tear on the tube. Too much switching could reduce the life of the tube to the point where it would be cheaper to leave the light on.

Gift Problems Solved With Unusual Jewelry

By Penny Saver

Jewelry is what the children buy Aunt Hester who already has everything that they can afford or what Aunt Penny buys her almost-grown niece. Because of this I find that I spend a good deal of my time combing through jewelry counters looking for something that is just a little different. This year I was lucky. I found two kinds of jewelry that I have never seen before. Both are attractive and different enough to squeeze a gasp of pleasure from the most jaded aunt.

The first kind of jewelry was made of pewter. This metal has a dull kind of finish that is less shiny than silver and just a bit different than brushed aluminum. There are adjustable rings, pendants, necklaces, and cuff-links beginning at $2.50 for a ring and going as high as $5.95 for a necklace. Made in Denmark, this pewter jewelry is decorated with geometrical designs in black enamel or stones that looked like the resin that I was talking about a few weeks ago. The effect is pleasingly different.

The other different kind of jewelry is leaves covered in copper. Coming from the coast of Cornwall, in England, these leaves, (yes, they are real), are made into brooches, pendants and earrings. The beauty of this jewelry is that no piece is exactly the same as another. All the items are $2.98. There are also seahorse brooches, again made of real seahorses. These are covered in copper and sell for $3.98.

If this Cornish jewelry appeals to you, you may be interested in the other items of English copper and brassware. There are cookie jars, tiny ewers, candlesticks and many more. I preferred the rose bowls with brass mesh to hold the flowers and a copper base. These cost $5.50. All the copperware is protected by a lacquer so that it will never need to be polished.

Perfect for the student in your family who likes to wake up in the middle of the night and write down the brilliant idea he has just had for his next essay, is a pen that lights up. It comes with a battery and two refills. This pen set costs $2.50.

Please call me at 382-3131 if you would like to know where I found these items.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Lowman

After a long day of Christmas shopping do your feet rebel at the thought of an evening of festivities? If they do, you probably do also because tired feet will make you feel tired, too.

This is a gay but hectic time with intensive Christmas parties and preparation for family reunions. A few simple measures and precautions will allow you to weather this season with comfort and enthusiasm.

The proper shoes for Christmas shopping will bestow their own gifts: Support, protection, and comfort. The footwear you choose to wear when shopping is most important.

It should be leather with low to mid-heels. Leather's unmatched moldability assures the shopper of a shoe custom-formed to the foot's contours. In addition, because it is an animal covering, leather has pores which permit continuous intake of air and absorption of moisture.

To get the most shopping done with the least fatigue, your shoes should also have leather soles. These provide support and protection against wet weather and pavement shock.

Avoid shoes that have large openings, front, back or sides.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Lots of Husbands Are Faithful

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I suspected my husband of being untrue to me, so I went to a lawyer about a separation or divorce. My husband denies any unfaithfulness and he wants us back together again. (We have children.)

My lawyer told me that every man is untrue to his wife at one time or another, and my husband is no exception. He said the more trusting a wife is, the better it is for her husband. It makes cheating easier.

Is this true, Abby? I just can't believe it. My husband is a good father, and he said he was happy with me in every way. My lawyer says I have two choices. Go back to my husband for the children's sake and put up with his cheating, or divorce him and raise my children alone. Please say something to help me. I love my husband, but I am so confused.

M IN FLA.

DEAR M: There are plenty of faithful married men, and your husband could be one of them. The only thing you can be sure of is that your lawyer cheats on his wife. Give your husband another chance.

DEAR ABBY: I work, and make a pretty good salary. The guy I go with is still in college, and he gets an allowance, which is almost as much as my salary, but he never seems to have any money. I am always helping him out with money for gas, cigarettes, and movies. If he would ask me for a regular "loan" and pay me back, I wouldn't mind, but he always says he left his money in his other pants. He's real groovy otherwise and I really dig this guy. How should I handle it?

DIGS HIM

DEAR DIGS: If you give him any more money, you left your brains in your other head. Lend him bus fare and tell this groovy guy to go home and get his wallet.

DEAR ABBY: I am 69 and my wife is a little older. In our younger years, unfortunately I was too busy making a living to learn how to play cards. My complaint is that my wife goes out with a group of ladies who have been her lifelong friends and they play cards on the average of twice a week.

I have no objections to that except sometimes she doesn't get home until 1 o'clock in the morning. In the meantime I sit alone. She takes the car and picks up some of the others, and at her age her reflexes could be slowing down and if she gets into an accident, that is all I need.

She says it is her "diversion."

I say, "Why can't we do something together for diversion?"

She thinks I'm selfish. Well, if worrying about her is selfish, then I'm selfish. Please print this with your answer, but don't use my name or town. I will be governed by your advice.

SELFISH

DEAR SELFISH: Are you honestly worried about your wife? Or are you a little jealous because her "diversion" does not include you? Don't expect your wife to give up her card playing after all these years. Occupy yourself on those nights, and you won't be so lonely, resentful, and worried.

Confidential to "T and J": When I said, "Your marriage has little chance to succeed," I didn't necessarily mean it would probably end in divorce. There are many marriages today that are utter failures, though undissolved.

Funds for Hospital

Mrs. William Sharp, president of the Women's Auxiliary to Tofino General Hospital, has announced that more than $400 was raised for the hospital when the group held its annual Christmas bazaar. The hospital serves Vancouver Island from Estevan Point to Port Albion.

Robbs Travel to Virgin Islands

President Johnson's daughter Lynda and his new son-in-law honeymooned today in the privacy of one of the Virgin Island's most exclusive resorts after the first White House wedding in 53 years.

Lynda and Capt. Charles S. Robb of the U.S. Marine Corps spent their wedding night at the White House, then slipped aboard a commercial airliner Sunday afternoon and flew to San Juan, Puerto Rico. A private plane took them to St. Thomas, and then they had a 15-minute boat ride to St. John, three miles east of St. Thomas, where they are staying at the Caneel Bay Plantation.

A rumor persisted that the couple would go on to Hawaii, but there was no confirmation. Robb has leave until Dec. 29.

The secret of beautfying the complexion is said to lie in the saturation of the skin with a new type of tropical moist oil. The skin takes on an immediate healthy bloom as the tiny lines and blemishes are gently smoothed away. This saturation treatment with the moist oil of Olay is recommended by skin care consultants, who advise its daily use as a powder base to give the complexion daylong beauty. WHITE HOUSE BRIDES MEET—Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, 83-year-old daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt, is greeted by Mrs. Lynda Johnson Robb and her husband, Capt. Charles Robb, Saturday, at the White House. Fairbairn-Bailey Wedding Vows

Denise Marie Bailey wore a lace gown that was en train and fashioned with lily point sleeves and a hooped skirt when she became the bride of Donald Fairbairn in St. Joseph's Church. The gown was complemented by a white flowered and sequin petal headpiece, holding a tiered illusion veil edged in scallops. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Bailey, 5589 Oldfield Road, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Fairbairn, 1434 Harrison Road. Fr. William Mudge officiated and Michael Bailey, the bride's brother, acted as altar boy. Mr. Bailey gave his daughter in marriage.

Bronze and yellow chrysanthemums decorated the church for the service.

Miss Maureen Bailey, the bride's sister, and Miss Margaret Fairbairn, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. They wore matching gowns of American beauty red velvet styled with cape shoulders with fabric rose and net headpieces en tone. They carried bouquets of white carnations.

Little Correty Demedrios was flower girl in a white dress, trimmed with pink flowers. Her headpiece matched the senior attendants' and she carried a bouquet of red and white carnations.

Mark Buckner acted as best man and young Jimmy Bailey, the bride's brother, was ring bearer. Simon Kendall and Grant and Bill Bailey, brothers of the bride, ushered the guests.

A reception followed in the church hall. A three-tier wedding cake centred the head table. George Forslund posposed the toast to the bride.

As her travelling costume the bride chose an orange wool suit and white hat and black accessories.

On their return from a honeymoon in California, the newlyweds will make their home at 5315 Sparton Road.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

A teen-ager may have her beauty problems but, generally speaking, one of her greatest assets is a head of gloriously healthy, colorful hair, particularly if she takes the time to keep it fresh, clean and well brushed.

As the years go by, hair sometimes tends to become dull or drab, grey may creep in, hormonal changes may affect the quality and quantity of one's crowning glory. This is the time hair coloring seems logical for recapturing that youthful mane.

At any age level, however, it is wise to think twice (or more) before subjecting your hair to chemicals. Don't overlook old-fashioned, natural pepper-uppers such as hot vegetable oil treatments, castile or fresh egg shampoos, and lemon, camomile tea and vinegar rinses. These can add life and light to your own color as well as work wonders for improved texture and sheen.

If you are determined to dive into hair coloring, do face the fact that once you start, your problems are beginning, not ending. Be prepared to spend perhaps three times as much attention, money and time on hair care. In addition to the coloring, you'll need special conditioners and shampoos for dealing with texture changes that unquestionably occur after coloring.

A final briefing:

Color Cues: Don't discard Mother Nature's artistry. In a brunette, medium to dark eyes and tawny-ish skin are all deliberately co-ordinated. A redhead with blue or hazel eyes has the light-toned skin to set off Titian loveliness. A natural blonde, in turn, comes with flattering matchmates to enhance honest-to-goodness fairness.

Undoubtedly, you weren't meant to live your life as a blonde if you have exotic olive skin and big, black eyes. Analyze your true coloring before you take the plunge into changing your hair hue.

Let's examine the record as to the four basic types of hair color techniques:

Temporary Rinses (perhaps the least drastic) can't change your color but can add lighter or darker highlights. Rinses do wash off.

Semi-Permanent products (shampooed and left on for specified minutes) add or intensify color as well as cover grey hair effectively.

Permanent Coloring is elaborate and tricky. It requires "stripping," followed by a secondary agent or "toner" which imparts the new color. It's wisest to work with an experienced hair-colorist for major changes. Incidentally, permanent hair coloring should be "touched up" every few weeks when new growth appears.

Frosting, also referred to as tipping, sunshine-ing, glazing, or streaking, is the solution favored by many who want to add gleam and glimmer while eliminating the need for coloring the entire head.

Coloring Cautions: Don't just jump in and hope for the best. Success in do-it-yourself coloring depends upon your understanding of the products, what you are trying to achieve, the texture of your hair and being willing to follow instructions precisely. A strand test before actual application is always wise. Even though the self-same product has worked before, if the chemicals aren't agreeing, S.O.S. for professional help.

Do keep Nature's clues in mind, study the pros and cons, and THE NEW YOU will avoid a crisis in coloring.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. Bennett with Eileen and Colleen, all of Wellington; Mr. and Mrs. J. Ivanisho of Richmond, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Cormach of Vancouver.

Arrive Soon

Sub.-Lt. C. M. Gail, RCN, and Mrs. Gail will be arriving in Victoria soon to spend the holiday season with Mrs. Gail's mother, Mrs. Joan Terry of Henderson Road. Plan Two Dances

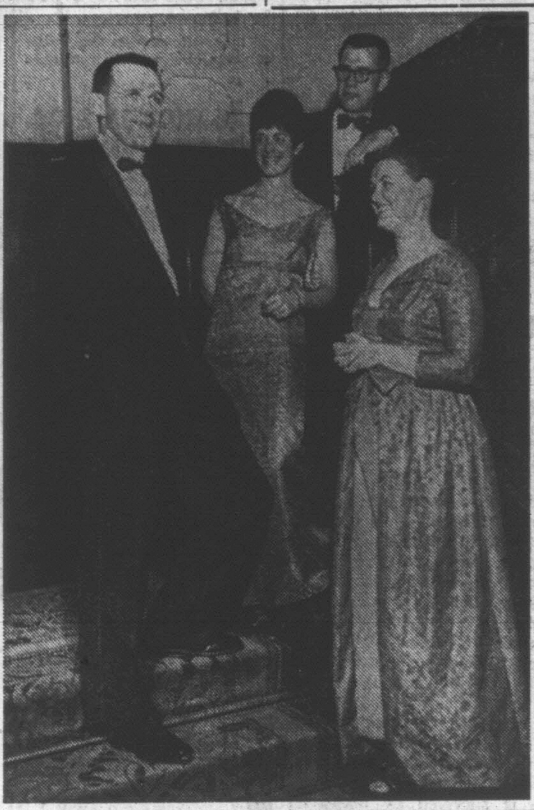
Students at the University of Victoria will gather for the two annual Christmas dances to be held in the Empress Hotel and Crystal Garden on Saturday, Dec. 16. The "Motif" will play in the South Seas Room and the "Look" in the Flamingo Room for the dance at the Crystal which will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. There are 300 couples expected at the Empress and 700 at the Crystal Garden. Formal or semi-formal attire will be worn at both affairs.

DOBBIN LOST OUT

Every good Hollander knows that Saint Nicolas always arrives on his feast day astride a noble white horse. But Canadian substitutes lack education in this matter. When the Victoria Netherlands Association held its Saint Nicolas Ball, Saturday evening, there was the traditional horse, ready and waiting. Saint Nicolas, however, had other ideas. He passed up the chance for a horse-ride and made his way to the Club Tango . . . by car.



Several Victorians were among the 170 delegates and wives who attended the formal ball which climaxed a two-day convention of the Association of Professional Engineers of British Columbia, held at the Empress Hotel last weekend. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. John Hvozdanski (in foreground) and Mr. and Mrs. James C. Gilley. The ball was held in the Crystal Ballroom, Saturday evening. (Jim Ryan photo).

ALBERTA INQUIRY

Report Unlikely Before Summer

By ELINOR READING

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta's Kirby commission inquiry adjourned with its investigation of Welfare Minister A. J. Hooke complete and its counsel at variance in their assessments of him.

Mr. Justice W. J. C. Kirby is investigating allegations made in the legislature last spring by Garth Turcott, former New Democratic member for Pincher Creek-Crowsnest, that Mr. Hooke and former provincial treasurer E. W. Hinman used or attempted to use their public office for personal gain or the gain of their friends.

Mr. Justice Kirby is not expected to report until summer at earliest. The inquiry is to resume April 16, after the next session of the legislature, to consider the allegations against Mr. Hinman.

It has spent 13 painstaking weeks picking out splinters of names, dates and half-remembered conversations from the testimony of 58 witnesses.

PICTURES DIFFER

In their closing submissions, counsel pieced the bits into five different pictures of Mr. Hooke, the white-thatched, ruddy-faced former schoolteacher.

W. B. Gill, counsel for Mr. Turcott and provincial NDP Leader Neil Reimer, showed him as either ignorant or greedy, "caught in a web of his own making."

Donald Bowen, Liberal party counsel, said he betrayed his public trust with "eagerness, almost a greed."

Progressive Conservative counsel Neil Crawford called him "indiscreet" in his business associations but not at fault in his public duty.

NDP counsel G. S. D. Wright said he may be "a decent man" and "an energetic and able cabinet minister," but he deliberately misled the legislature about his business transactions and made himself "too approachable" by trying to be "the homespun politician."

BLAMES POLITICS

Lucien Maynard, Mr. Hooke's counsel, said the minister's reputation was being attacked solely "for the political gain of his opponents."

Commission counsel Carl Clement and Sam Friedman, representing the attorney-general, did not summarize the evidence.

G. A. C. Steer, counsel for Dr. C. A. Allard, an Edmonton surgeon and businessman, commented only on testimony touching his client.

Argument centred on these questions:

—Whether Mr. Hooke used his influence to procure a government lease of a building in Rocky Mountain House, Alta., owned by his wife from 1941 to 1946.

Mr. Maynard said the late premier William Aberhart urged Mr. Hooke to permit the lease and the matter had been disclosed to the legislature three times.

QUESTION OF LAND

—Whether the minister bought a parcel of land in southeast Edmonton as a result of a letter addressed to the government about 1950.

Mr. Crawford called the question "the most serious for Mr. Hooke."

Mr. Maynard said: "No one was hurt by it. In what way did he violate his public duty?"

—Whether Mr. Hooke used his influence to secure approval of a townsite 10 miles east of Edmonton and built in part on land he bought in 1951.

—Whether he used his influence in a dispute that has continued since the early 1950s between the City of Edmonton and Ideal Homes Ltd., a building company in which he had an interest.

Mr. Bowen said members of the legislature should be prohibited from holding any land on which there were negotiations with officials of subordinate governments.

Mr. Maynard argued Premier E. C. Manning was fully informed of Mr. Hooke's relationship to both the townsite plan and the company and "saw no wrongdoing on Mr. Hooke's part."

—Whether the minister received or granted any favors in his friendship with Dr. Allard.

Mr. Wright said Mr. Hooke received loans which where "peculiar by any standards" from North West Trust, an Allard company, but Mr. Steer said the transactions were "perfectly straight and perfectly clean."

MAY GET NEW HEART

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — A 58-year-old retired dentist is believed likely to be the next patient to undergo a heart transplant here.

He is Dr. Phillip B. Blaiberg, of suburban Rondebosch.

He told newsmen Saturday he is willing to risk the operation because his heart is in a very bad condition.

He would not confirm that he is the next patient on the list of heart surgeon Christian Barnard but his wife said he had been approached and asked whether he is interested.

View Royal Sewer Survey Meeting Set

A meeting of the View Royal Fire Protection district will be held this week to go ahead with plans for a sewer survey, regional representative Albert Beasley announced.

He said the survey will include the part of the panhandle which has petitioned to join Esquimalt. Lowest of three bids submitted for the survey was $2,750 from Russell E. Potter and Associates.

Mr. Beasley said sewers are the next project following recent installation of street lights and added that sewer installation would be facilitated if residents have lateral lines ready when the main trunk is installed.

Pilots End Strike

LONDON (AP) — A 48-hour strike by pilots of the state-run British Overseas Airways Corp. ended early today. The airline which cancelled 32 flights from London to foreign points, said the strike cost more than £1,000,000 ($2,570,000). The strike, and a previous slowdown by the pilots, was over the demand of the pilot's union for independent negotiating recognition and pay raises.

VOTE TONIGHT

Special Budget Challenged

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal government faces a non-confidence vote in the Commons tonight on the special budget introduced by Finance Minister Sharp Nov. 30.

The non-confidence motion was moved last Wednesday by J. Waldo Monteith, Conservative financial critic, who accused the government of mismanaging the economy and increasing taxes to pay for its own extravagance.

But the government may not have to face a united opposition in this test. David Lewis (NDP—York South), who also joined in the budget debate last Wednesday, indicated that his party may not support the Conservative motion because it implies that government spending should be cut.

NOMINATED as president of Romania last week under a new system of "unitary leadership" was Nicolae Ceaucescu, 49. The nomination, to be confirmed today by the national assembly, gives Ceaucescu supreme Communist party and state powers. (AP Wirephoto).

DRILLING INTO HUGE CHAMBER BEGINS

Gasbuggy N-Blast Does Its Job

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP) — Scientists sought today to determine whether the first U.S. industrial nuclear explosion will render new wealth from the bowels of the earth.

A thermonuclear device was exploded 4,240 feet below the earth's crust Sunday. Preliminary indications were that the explosion, called Project Gasbuggy, had done its job by creating a huge subterranean chamber from which natural gas can be recovered, spokesmen said.

Dr. Robert H. Thalgott, Gasbuggy deputy project manager for the Atomic Energy Commission, told reporters at a briefing after the blast that no radioactivity had escaped from the ground and none was expected to.

Dr. Harry Reynolds, scientific adviser for Gasbuggy, said there was reason to believe that an underground chamber of 160 feet in diameter and as tall as a 35-storey building had been created 3,500 feet below ground zero.

The AEC said drilling into the chamber begins today, although no substantial evidence on whether the nuclear stimulation concept really worked is expected for several weeks or months.

Scientists estimate the natural gas reserves of the United States could be doubled if nuclear blasts are found to be a feasible way to free gas from underground rock formations.

BEAT RED TAPE

Tokyo Typist Back To Stay

MASAKO ENDO
. . . perserverance pays

The first time Masako Endo tried to come to Victoria she was almost strangled in red tape as she stepped off the plane from her native Japan.

But the 20-year-old Tokyo stenographer wasn't discouraged by her first taste of Canada and now she's back in Victoria as a landed immigrant and prospective new Canadian.

It was 18 months ago that Masako ran afoul of immigration regulations through a minor mix-up on her papers on her first visit.

The visit was a result of a letter she had written to the Daily Times asking for someone to sponsor her on a trip here to fulfil her desire "to travel in countries overseas and understand them better."

She didn't understand when immigration officials took her into custody at Vancouver airport, and neither did her sponsors here, Mr. and Mrs. John Collins, of 1071 Gosper Crescent, Esquimalt. They led a determined fight all the way to Immigration Minister Marchand to prevent her deportation.

HAPPY VISIT

The fight was successful nad Masako went on to have a happy visit with the Collins family.

She liked the country so well that on her return to Japan she applied for immigrant status and now she is back with the Collins' and studying hard to improve her English and obtain qualifications as a private secretary.

"Victoria, it's so beautiful. No crowds," she says.

Her host, Mr. Collins, a Liquor Board employee, spent six weeks in Japan this spring to help clear the way for Masako's trip, staying at the home of Masako's father, a steam engineer.

Mr. Collins was impressed by the hospitality, appalled by the crowds.

Masako skis, takes photos and loves the wide-open spaces. She hopes to visit Quebec to try out the French she studied in Japan, and is hopeful of getting a job that will make use of her Japanese background.

U.S. HOUSE FILES REPORT ON HEARINGS

Klans 'A Vehicle of Death, Destruction, Fear'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives' committee on un-American activities reported Sunday the Ku Klux Klan remains "a vehicle of death, destruction and fear," counting some 17,000 members in 18 states.

The committee, summarizing two years of hearings into Klan activities, said 16,810 Klansmen were enrolled in 14 Klan groups it had studied, that a 15th had become defunct and that three new groups had appeared on the scene.

Half of the Klans have 100 or fewer members, the committee said, and by far the heaviest membership is in the United Klans of America, headed by Robert Shelton of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Although the organization of the Klan has changed substantially from the monolithic unit which broke up in 1944, the committee said "Klans operate—today as in the past—as conspiracies to deprive certain citizens of rights guaranteed by the constitution.

"Klans moreover have continued to rely on terrorism as an instrument for achieving so-called 'white supremacy' and other objectives."

"Klan involvement in kidnappings and beatings, arson, bombings, and outright murder in recent years compels the committee to view a klan as a vehicle of death, destruction and fear," it added.

States in which the committee found Klan groups operating are Arkansas, Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Ohio, Delaware, Maryland, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Texas and Virginia.

Oswald: "It is quite an event. If they also awarded Master Points, they would probably have 1,000 pairs entered. As it is, quite a few top experts go there to play for the prize money and to have a general good time. All matches are straight rubber bridge beginning with eight hands and getting longer as you stay in. Also the method of play ensures three days of play for every entry with some chance to share in the prize money right up to sudden death matches on the third day."

Jim: "Since a match is a definite number of hands, there are some unusual situations that arise on the last hand. For instance, on this hand Curtis Smith and Bobby Nail of Houston needed to bid and make a grand slam to win the match. Bobby opened one no-trump with the North hand and Curtis jumped right to seven spades."

Oswald: "The bid would be silly in any other game, but I see that Curtis would make the hand if he played correctly. He did, didn't he?"

Jim: "He won the first trick with the diamond ace and played two rounds of spades, winding up in his own hand. Then he took the heart finesse successfully. Business was looking up."

Oswald: "Yes, it was. I assume he ruffed a diamond, entered dummy with the ace of hearts, ruffed another diamond, ruffed his last heart in dummy, ruffed dummy's next to last diamond and played out his last trump to discard a club from dummy."

Jim: "This also forced East to make his third discard of a club since he had to hang on to the jack of diamonds. Smith had a perfect count by this time and was able to make the last three tricks with clubs because each opponent was holding two clubs and it didn't matter where the queen was."

WATERFRONT—$11,450
"I'm Looking For Someone

"Yes, I need a nice retired couple to look after me, I just can't handle the family that have me now. It's not because I need a touch up here and there but only because they need more room. I am reel different and have a lot to offer other than my 2 bedrooms, living room and quaint kitchen. You are going to find this hard to believe but my yard is 65x190 on waterfront, with a boat dock. I've watched my people catch trout here and barbecue at the water's edge, can also say that we have a commanding view over the waterway. You will find me within the 3-mile circle, close to schools, bus and on sewer. The way I look at it I am worth a lot more than $11,450, but I should tell you that I heard my owners say that they need quite a bit of cash. If you phone the Real Estate Man I'll be happy to open my doors to you." 388-4271 anytime.

CABBAGE NO. 1

'Memorable' Performance

NEW YORK (CP) — Genevieve Bujold, pretty daughter of a Montreal bus driver and acclaimed as an actress in both Canada and France, has added the U.S television audience to her growing list of credits.

GENEVIEVE
. . . lots of praise

The authoritative TV Guide, a widely circulated U.S. television weekly magazine, calls the 25-year-old bilingual Canadian "Cabbage No. 1" of Canada and France

Miss Bujold, wife of CBC producer Paul Almond, received handsome praise for her star performance in the two-hour production of George Bernard Shaw's Saint Joan Monday night on NBC's Hallmark of Fame.

Robert Hartung's adaptation of the satire, which Shaw developed around the well-known legend of the 15th Century Maid of Orleans, was skilful. The production, like all Hall of Fame dramas, was rich and handsome. But most important, it was beautifully and effectively cast.

PRAISES DEBUT

Cynthia Lowry, Associated Press television-radio columnist, writes:

"Genevieve Bujold, a newcomer to television in the United States, gave a truly memorable performance as Joan, first as an eager country girl with a God-given mission to lead an army and save France, and, finally, as a mature and sophisticated ghost returning to hear her friends and enemies justify and defend the actions that carried her to the burning— and to sainthood."

Amid the fine performances of such theatrical giants as Maurice Evans as the fanatic heretic hunter, Toronto-born Raymond Massey as the urbane inquisitor and Roddy McDowell as the silly dauphin, Miss Bujold was "vividly effective," Miss Lowry says.

The playwright's purpose was to examine, within the discipline of the Joan of Arc legend, the lengths to which men can be led by expediency, superstitution and stubbornness. The movement of the drama from stage to tube lost none of Shaw's bite and cynicism. It was a fine two hours.

FINDS APPEALING

TV Guide, in a full-length feature on the child-like Miss Bujold says her looks are as internationally appealing as sex and French-fried potatoes.

Now living in Toronto, Miss Bujold started her career in Montreal as part of the great flowering of French-Canadian culture that resulted in among things, Montreal's Expo 67. In Montreal she worked in as many as four media—radio, television, film and the stage in a single day.

In Toronto, she appeared in some CBC English-language roles and she honed her talent by performing in French and English in Moliere, Shakespeare Ibsen and Anouilh.

She toured France and Russia in 1965 with a Montreal repertory company. Her picture in the Paris newspaper France Soir caught the eye of the New Wave director Alain Resnais (Hiroshima, Mon Amour) and she was given a screen test and hired for the part of Nadine, the young revolutionary, in his movie La Guerre Est Finis.

Miss Bujold made several more movies in France and Canada most notably The Thief of Paris

Her latest, Isabel, is directed by her husband.

Jon Ruddy, writing in TV Guide, says: "Fans in France declared that she was their chouchou numero un, which loses something in tranlsation She remained, of course, Cabbage No. 1 in Montreal, too."

Officials Arrested

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Officials have arrested two construction officials in connection with the collapse of a partially completed bridge which killed at least 19 workers last Monday. The two, field engineer Mario Perez Gonzalez and Juan Antonio Colunga, general manager of the firm which built temporary supports for the bridge, have said the collapse may have resulted from flaws in the earth beneath the structure.

End of Era For Cunard At Halifax

HALIFAX (CP) — When the Royal Mail Ship Britannia arrived here in July, 1840, almost everyone in town was at the pier to greet her.

When the Royal Mail Ship Sylvania arrived here last Wednesday, almost nobody noticed her.

In the 127 years between the first and last England-Canada crossings of Cunard Steam-Ship Co. liners, every Cunarder from the tiny 205-ton side-wheeler Britannia to the 83,000-ton Queen Elizabeth has called at this year-round port.

The orange-red and black stacks of the Cunard ships were almost commonplace along the seawall at the southend of the harbor.

The Sylvania's stack was sticking unobtrusively into the clear blue sky above the shed on Pier 21 Wednesday as the 22,018-ton liner made a nine-hour stop on her way to New York for the last time.

The speed of the jet airliner was blamed by Cunard for its decision several months ago to end its passenger service between England and Canada, started by Samuel Cunard's Britannia in 1840, after the imaginative Halifax businessman went to London to sell his idea of fast trans-Atlantic packet ships.

END OF AN ERA

The Sylvania represented the end of an era. She was the last Cunarder on the once-booming run from Southampton, Eng. to Canada.

Some of her sisters will be offered for sale in the next few months and she herself faces an uncertain future. Due to go on cruise until the end of May, she likely will go on the auction block in June.

"It's very sad—but it's economics," said Captain H. L. De Legh, skipper of the Sylvania.

A Cunard man since 1938, Captain De Legh said in an interview that popularity of the jet is not the only factor in the decline of the ocean liner.

"There have been increasing costs all along the line—escalating costs for fuel, ships' stores, dock charges. There have been many crippling strikes and there's been the refusal of the British government to subsidize the line."

Several officers of the Sylvania said it "hurt" to see liners under the United States, Italian and Greek flags being heavily subsidized by their governments while Cunard was expected to go it alone.

"This is nobody's fault," said Captain De Legh. "But economics caught up with the situation.

"Once the jets got into operaion, the steamship was on he way out."

PHASING OUT

He said the Queen Elizabeth II, the new Cunarder that will replace the original Queens of the Southampton-New York run, "is very likely the last luxury liner the world will build."

The departure of Cunard will leave ony Canadian Pacific Steamships and the Russian liner Alexandr Pushkin in regular scheduled service between British and Canadian ports. None of these ships is a regular caller here.

The Sylvania was one of four Cunarders built in the late 1950s specifically for the England-Canada run, calling here in winter months and sailing up the St. Lawrence to Montreal in the summer.

The Carinthia was the last scheduled Cunarder to sail for Montreal, but she was diverted here because of a dock strike on the St. Lawrence. She is due in Southampton later this week on her last crossing.

The Sylvania had only 354 passengers when she cleared here for New York Wednesday night. She can accommodate 900.

SURGEON APPLAUDS COURAGE OF PATIENT

Heart Transplant Miracle Described

The following article was written for The Associated Press by Professor Christian Barnard of Groote Schuur Hospital, Cape Town, who on Dec. 3 led a team of surgeons performing the world's first human heart transplant. He describes the operation and talks about the future of heart transplants.

By CHRISTIAN N. BARNARD

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—At the beginning of November, 1967, following a successful kidney transplant operation some weeks earlier at Groote Schuur Hospital, a decision was taken to attempt a human heart transplant operation.

Ten years of experience in open heart surgery and a four-year research program on organ transplantation had given us the background for confidence of a successful outcome to this undertaking.

It did not take long to find a patient suitable for cardiac transplant. Louis Washkansky was considered to have heart disease incurable by any known treatment other than cardiac transplantation.

He also had the correct mental approach and moral courage to submit himself to this new operation.

COMPARE ANTIGENS

His blood was examined to determine the pattern of antigens on his red cells and white cells, as this would help us to select a suitable cardiac donor. . . .

A suitable donor would be a young person with an inevitably fatal disease or injury but having an undamaged heart.

Twelve units of fresh blood were drawn from 12 fresh volunteers and cross-matched daily in case they should be needed.

Saturday, Dec. 2, a young lady—Miss Denise Ann Darvall—was admitted to Groote Schuur Hospital having suffered severe injuries in an auto accident.

Intensive resuscitation was commenced immediately after she was admitted. But when seen shortly afterwards by a neurosurgeon she was declared to have inevitably-fatal brain damage.

Intensive resuscitation was continued and permission was obtained from the girl's father to remove her heart and kidneys after death for use in transplant operations.

The team was alerted, and the injured girl and Mr. Washkansky were taken to adjoining operating theatres where preparations were continued for two simultaneous open-heart operations.

TYPES COMPATIBLE

The blood tests of the injured girl showed both the red cells and the white cells to be almost perfectly compatible with those of Mr. Washkansky.

Mr. Washkansky was anesthetized about 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

The operation commenced. Within half an hour of the commencement of the open-heart operation . . . the injured girl died.

The heart of the girl was exposed, connected to a heart-lung machine, and cardio-pulmonary bypass was commenced with cooling of the blood in the bypass heart-lung machine.

Her heart cooled, it was removed by dividing the major veins and arteries and disconnected from the heart-lung machine in the first operating theatre.

Her heart was transferred to the second operating theatre, where it was reconnected within minutes to the second-heart-lung machine and perfused—fed—with cold blood.

The perfusion continued during implantation of the heart.

Mr. Washkansky's aorta was clamped to isolate his heart from the blood circulating in the body and his severely damaged heart was excised —cut out, leaving portions of both atrial chambers to serve as the stem on to which the new heart would be grafed.

While the rest of Mr. Washkansky's body continued to be perfused from the heart-lung machine, the donor heart was sutured in position, using fine silk sutures to join the atria and main arteries of the new heart to those of Mr. Washkansky.

JOIN NERVE CENTRES

Firstly, the left atria of the patient and the new heart were joined to each other, and following this the right atria were similarly united. Next, the divided ends of the pulmonary arteries were sutured together, and lastly the two aortas were joined, the cannula—tube—which perfused the grafted heart being removed during the final stages of the suturing of the aorta.

The clamp of Mr. Washkansky's aorta was released, and the new heart was perfused by blood pumped into the aorta from the heart-lung machine.

Air was excluded from all chambers of the heart, and the rewarming of the blood in the heart-lung machine was commenced.

When the correct temperature had been reached, the new heart was given an electric shock through paddles placed on either side, and about 2¼ hours after it had stopped it started beating once more.

The rewarming of Mr. Washkansky's body continued, and about 20 minutes later the flow from the heart-lung machine was reduced, and little by little the heart took over the circulation.

Ten minutes later the heart-lung machine was switched off finally, and the new heart was beating strongly and supporting abundant life in its new body.

The tubes connecting the patient to the heart-lung machine were removed, and his chest was closed.

An x-ray picture of his chest showed all to be functioning well, and the electrocardiogram was satisfactory.

He was allowed to recover consciousness and returned to the sterile post-operative intensive-care room 6½ hours after the operation commenced.

He was still on assisted mechanical ventilation, largely as a preventive measure, and his progress continued to be satisfactory during the rest of Sunday.

POST OPERATIVE SUCCESS

Artificial ventilation was stopped the following morning, and since this time he has continued to breathe satisfactorily, his heart has functioned well, and his post-operative progress has been eminently satisfactory in every way.

Plans are under way for a second heart transplant operation within the next few weeks.

The difficulties are not only those associated with the organization of a large and highly skilled team but are most particularly concerned with the supply of suitable hearts for transplantation.

The development of new techniques in suppressing the rejection of foreign tissue implanted into the body may allow a more indiscriminate choice of donor hearts on the ground of immunological compatibility—less tendency for the body to reject a grafted heart—and may even allow the transplantation of organs from one species to another, for instance, animals to man.

EXCEEDS DEMAND

Research work in the field of organ preservation may advance sufficiently to allow the establishment of organ banks, but despite all these possible future expansions of the technique the demand for new hearts is very likely always to exceed the supply.

Artificial hearts are the logical alternative, and even though these are more likely to be freely available in the future, their development and perfection are still many years ahead.

The vast majority of human hearts function perfectly for up to 80 years, and few if any machines can match this continuous performance.

Consideration must also be given to the criteria used in determining suitable patients for heart replacement, and it seems likely that this is a problem that will assume great importance in the very near future.

Factors such as age, the existence of other diseases and the importance to society of the individual involved may have to be taken into account.

Moon to Hide Face

OTTAWA (CP)—Weather permitting Canadians should be able to get a glimpse of two total eclipses of the moon due next year but will be out of luck as far as two eclipses of the sun are concerned.

The Dominion Observatory has reported that lunar eclipses on the nights of April 12—Good Friday—and Oct. 5 will be visible in Canada, while the Sept. 22 eclipse of the sun will be visible at sunris from the coast of Labrador and eastern half of Baffin Island.

The solar eclipse will be total over Siberia but will be only a parital eclipse for the east coast.

A partial eclipse of the sun March 28 will be visible only from the South Pacific and Antarctic.

The first lunar eclipse will start at 11:23 p.m. EST April 12, and end at 12 minutes after midnight. It will be visible throughout North America.

The second, on Oct. 5, will be visible throughout North America when it starts at 6:10 p.m. EST, but the end of it, at 7:14 p.m., will be visible only from the northwestern part of the continent.

TORNADOES SHATTER FLORIDA

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — Roaring tornadoes shattered Sunday morning quiet in 10 Florida panhandle cities, levelling hundreds of homes and buildings and killing two persons. One twister hit an Alabama border county.

More than 200 were reported injured in Florida, most in a housing area at nearby Tyndall Air Force Base and at Fort Walton Beach 60 miles west of Panama City. Several were in critical condition. A watchman at a wrecked shopping centre was reported missing.

Officials estimated damages at more than $7,000,000 Governor Claude Kirk asked federal help for what he termed a disaster area.

HOME GARDEN

Shrub Cuttings Can Be 'First'

By HILDA BEASTALL

More than 25 years ago a young gardener took a handful of winter shrub cuttings and by spring was able to plant them out on their own roots.

Hilda

Because this success was a "first" for this gardener, it was encouragement which has kept interest alive in things that grow.

Today, I, can recommend this simple method to be successful for many of our easier and hardier shrubs.

The shrubs to work with are the white early flowering spiraeas, the summer pink spiraea, forsythias, Flowering-currant, purple-leaved berberi., laurel, aucuba and Laurustinus.

Taken from well-established shrubs, side growths about a foot in length will not spoil the shape of the parent plant. Ten or 12 pieces will provide enough material to give the beginner a percentage of rooting success.

Cutting without leaves can be used with no further preparation. Leafy cuttings from the broad leaved group recommended, should have the leaves stripped from the lower half of their length.

Prepare a gallon can of finely screened compost and mix it with an equal quantity of sharp clean sand.

Select a quiet, sunny garden corner about a foot square where the cuttings may remain until about the end of May.

Tie each bundle together loosely (be sure each bundle is named). With a trowel make a deep hole and almost fill it with compost-sand mix. Then make a hole in the mixture to receive the bundle of cuttings to half their length. Each bundle has a separate hole.

Firm them in well to prevent wind rocking. No further attention will be needed, except perhaps watering by late April if the season is dry.

VICTIM AIDS BURGLAR TO GET OUT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 59-year-old woman was forced out of bed early Friday to let out a cat burglar.

Authorities said Mrs. Lillie Burkhard told them she was awakened by a man standing by her bed, holding a knife. He took $23 from her purse and then asked for a key to the rear door, saying he didn't want to climb back out the window by which he entered.

He took the key and disappeared, she said, but returned a few minutes later.

"I can't unlock the door," she quoted him as saying.

"You'll have to get up and let me out."

Overdose Of Drugs Dangerous

By Dr. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Alvarez

Nowadays most physicians keep seeing a few persons who, on their own accord, and perhaps without the knowledge of their doctor, are taking several powerful and dangerous drugs, such as cortisone and nerve quieters or nerve stimulants. Recently Drs. R. M. Steinhilber and A. B. Hagedorn of the Mayo Clinic wrote an interesting article, telling of patients they have seen of late, with perhaps a mental upset due to the taking of some strong drug for too long a time, and in abnormally large doses.

The first girl whose case they described came in behaving almost as if she were drunk. What she had been doing was to take too much of a powerful drug designed to reduce her appetite and help her to reduce her weight. When this medicine was taken away from her, she got well.

★ ★ ★

A woman was hallucinating ("seeing things" or "hearing things"). Questioning showed that for eight years she had been overdosing herself with tranquilizers. In the month before she was seen, she had been taking eight or 10 tablets a day! One or two would have been the usual dose.

Later, in came a 59-year-old man who was paranoid—he thought people were trying to harm him and were influencing his brain by radar. He was found to be taking every day, for heart trouble, too large a dose of digitoxin, a drug made from digitalis, which is a powerful, and sometimes toxic drug. The man's heart was so poisoned by the drug that he was lucky that he didn't die.

A 51-year-old farmer came in with such "delusions of grandeur" that he thought his wealth was inexhaustible. As a result, he had been hiring so many people that, as his family said, his farm "began to look like Grand Central Station." Also, he had started writing big checks for strangers. He was found to be not only taking large doses of cortisone-like drugs by mouth, but he was giving himself cortisone by hypodermic injection.

★ ★ ★

Another patient came, suffering from narcolepsy, a disease which forces the person every so often to go to sleep. He had been given a strong medicine designed to lift himself out of this state, but what it did was to make him what we doctors call hypomanic—almost as excitable and talkative as some persons to be found in a mental hospital.

Another man came with what is called an agitated depression. He kept walking around the house all night, wringing his hands in despair, and talking of suicide. This man had been taking too much of a strong drug to lower his blood pressure.

1,200 Cans Of Food 'Paid' By Moviegoers

Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and other film favorites raised more than 1,200 cans of food for Victoria's Free Food Stall Saturday.

The cans were donated by some 1,100 children attending a two-hour program of movie cartoons in the Odeon Theatre.

"We asked for one can of food from each, but some children brought three or four," said Odeon manager Jack Armstrong.

The show was sponsored by the 700 Block Merchants' Association.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20 volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Pamela Olofson, age 12, of Salt Lake City, Utah, for her question:

What Kind of Questions Does Andy Answer?

The answer to today's question can be given in a few words. But the full meaning of almost any sentence depends upon its context — the background material that leads up to it. So let's brush in some of this background material. Andy selects the questions that pop naturally into the minds of your generation.

The purpose of the column is related to education, a word regarded by some students as rather wearisome. A bit of detective work may help to change this frustrating attitude. Education was coined from older words which, when properly assembled, must be translated as "to draw from." Pause a moment to consider that concept. It means that the true and basic purpose of education is to draw forth from the student the expression and fuller understanding of his or her in-born curiosity.

School programs are planned to give young students the tools necessary to track down the answers to their own questions. We need polished skills in the control of language and math before we can start this educational detective work. The tacking skills needed to trace down reference material and even perform our own research tests must become second nature. This ABC ground work may seem like a wearisome, pointless series of chores. But its reward is a life-long ability to gratify your life-long curiosity.

Selects Topic

We live in an age of fast-moving science. Whole shelves of books are being written to keep you abreast of these exciting advances. Masses of basic facts remain the same, proven forever. But much of last week's science news is surpassed by fresh material today. Your generation was born and belongs in the Age of Science. It is your world. Your healthy Bump of Curiosity churns with questions about the planetary laws of nature and how they work. You also yearn to grasp how the various aspects of advancing scientific knowledge are related to you and the rest of the world.

Since true education should be drawn form the student, these natural questions springing from your mind should be answered. But many of them cannot be answered by your parents, teachers or librarians. Andy tries to help in this department by selecting questions that others tend to forget. Your countless questions teach him the main interests of your whole generation and he tries to select topics to satisfy a majority of his readers. He also selects old basic topics, adding what he hopes is a flip to make them as exciting to you as the very latest bit of news.

So — Andy selects the questions that pop naturally into the minds of your generation. His decisions are based on the countless questions that come from his young readers. He chooses the topics that interest you most. When he selects a basic, older topic, he embeds it in the global concept that interests your generation. However, he can answer only one question at a time and yours was selected from a dozen just like it. However, your competitors are sensible young folk who know that one of their future questions to Andy may be selected from a dozen just like it.

Andy sends a 14" World Book Globe to John Miles, age 11, of Corona Del Mar, California, for his question:

Can a Telescope Show Which Are Planets and Which Are Stars?

Christamas is just around the corner and let's hope that every young space-ager finds a telescope under the tree. He could never wish for a more exciting gift. And even the smallest telescope can show him how to pick out the planets from the stars. Aim it at some part of the night sky and focus it until some bright object comes into your field of vision. If the heavenly object is a plain pinpoint of dancing light, it is a star.

A planet is far more interesting to observe through your telescope. But you must know more or less where to locate it. There are millions of stars and a mere handful of planets — and planets move along scheduled paths against the background of starry pinpoints. A star chart or astronomy book will tell you where and when to locate the planets. Each one is different. Unlike a star, it stares back at you with a steady light. Venus and Mercury show phases like the moon. Mars is a red, round globe with vague, cloudy features. When focused in your field of vision you can see the dazzling rings of Saturn and perhaps four of Jupiter's moons,

City Youth Band Gives Supporters Good Value

By BERYL PROUDMAN

Those who supported the fund-raising concert presented by the Victoria City Police Youth Band at McPherson Playhouse Sunday got ample value for their money.

In the unavoidable absence of its regular director, Flight Lieut. Wildred V. Boyce, the band, ably conducted by Robert E. Thiel played with conscientious enthusiasm and skill.

A seasonably happy program closed with a rousing "Christmas Festival" an intricate arrangement of eight of the best-known carols by Leroy Anderson.

George Gerrard played that test piece for flautists, "Flute Royale" with well-controlled tone, clean runs and no trace of that asthmatic quality which so often blurs the efforts of student flautists. His timing was good but unfortunately, not always quite the same as that of the band which was sometimes a little ahead of him.

Jon McGrath played a smooth trumpet solo in "Misty Morning" and Dawn Eby played the solo passages in "Spring Mist" without errors, although the tone of her oboe, particularly in the lower register, sounded startlingly astringent against the misty band background.

TOP FORM

The percussion section was in top form and coped admirably with bells, triangles, maracas and other unusual instruments called for by the various arrangers. The drummer featured in Herb Alpert's "Work Song" was particularly agile.

Offenbach's "Ballet Parisien," tres gai throughout, culminated in a Can-Can whose increasing tempo and mounting excitement, lacked only the conventional chorus line to transport us directly to the Moulin Rouge.

The long selection from "Sound of Music" kept the band playing without pause for a considerable time and presented it with some challenging rhythmic transitions. The rhythmic unity of the players was remarkably steady all through the program.

The Amity Singers under the direction of Rodney Webster added further variety to an already varied program. These talented young people sang with all the finesse we have come to expect of them.

UNACCOMPANIED

As usual, almost every number had been arranged and tailored to their particular style of singing by their director. These subtle arrangements with their unusual modulations and demanding key-changes, were sung unaccompanied.

To maintain pitch in such intricacies, as this group did, shows a remarkable degree of musicianship. Many choirmasters in the city must surely envy Rodney Webster the devoted zeal of these young singers and one rich, sure bass would be well worth enticing away.

All the interesting songs were beautifully sung but the setting of "I gotta robe" was peculiarly haunting, and the use of a small tambourine in "Zena" made that number particularly successful.

7 Held in Drug Raid

WILLIAMS LAKE (CP)—Five adults and two juveniles were charged with possession of narcotics Wednesday after police seized two pounds of marijuana.

Police said they arrested the group in a car with Washington licence plates, on its way from Quesnel to Vancouver. They estimated the value of the marijuana at $3,000.

KILLED in crash of light plane Sunday was recording star Otis Redding of Macon, Georgia and four young musicians. A fifth, Ben Cauley 20, of Memphis, Tenn. was in good condition in hospital. Plane crashed into Lake Monona. Two bodies were recovered before darkness halted dragging operations.

Apartheid Can Work: Goldwater

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Barry Goldwater, former Republican presidential candidate in the U.S., said Saturday the South African apartheid racial segregation policy should be given a proper chance to work.

Speaking to reporters after five days in the Johannesburg area on a private visit, he said that, from what he saw, "separate development has a chance."

"It would be wrong to set a time limit on separate development," he said. "You cannot put time limits on history or on acts of God."

Goldwater said the racial problem facing South Africa could not be compared with that facing the U.S.

"In America the Negro is an American. He is not a member of a tribe or independent nation."

Apartheid would not provide a solution for the American racial problem, just as American attempts to solve the question would not work in South Africa.

'YULE CAROLS MEANINGLESS TWADDLE'

IPSLEY, England (AP) — Rev. Frederick Foreman thinks Christmas carols are "meaningless twaddle."

They are sung with "great gusto and without thought," he wrote in his parish magazine, published Sunday.

"There's God Rest Ye, Merry Gentlemen and 'merry' could be interpreted in more senses than one.

"And The Holly and the Ivy is difficult to understand.

"Then there is all this sentimentality about the baby Jesus and carols like that. We don't pray to a baby, do we?

"There is very little connection with events as they appear in the Bible. It is often just sentimentality."

But many of the carols the rector complained about will be sung in his church, "because of public demand."

Thirty-two persons will be sworn in and welcomed as new Canadians. Among them are Chinese, Swiss, Belgians, Germans, Poles, Spaniards, Danes, Italians, Hungarians and Greeks. Others are from the Netherlands, the Ukraine and Yugoslavia.

Following the swearing-in ceremony, Canadian Bible Society will present neatly bound Bibles to the new citizens. And a coffee party and reception will be hosted in the YM-YWCA by the Greater Victoria Citizenship Council.

★ ★ ★

All this follows the pattern of citizenship ceremonies held practically every month in the old Court House on Bastion Square. And more recently (but much less frequently) in the new Law Courts.

What makes it different is the possibility that it will be the last of these ceremonies to be held in the big new building on Cathedral Hill.

It is understood that Judge Chown expects to establish separate citizenship court rooms in Victoria early in the new year. They will be located in one of the federal buildings and they will include judge's chambers, a reception room and office quarters.

In this setting applications for citizenship will be reviewed, applicants will be interviewed and hearings arranged at regular intervals, probably each month. Mr. Chown will come to Victoria to preside at these hearings.

The Greater Victoria Citizenship Council looks upon these plans as a big step forward in the acceptance of new citizens.

★ ★ ★

Council secretary Ethel Carson believes it will bring back the dignity attached to the ceremony. "There will be time to meet them, to welcome them properly and to make them feel at home."

In recent months, through pressure of work in County Court, it has been impossible to plan regular hearings and ceremonies with any degree of certainty.

New citizens have been sworn in, one or two at a time, in the judge's quarters, when there were free moments to meet them.

Up to the end of November approximately 287 had filed applications and paid their $10. In some cases, they waited as long as three months to be called.

This number accounts only for aliens. There are also British subjects who wish to be named citizens and Canadians who, for one reason or another, want clarification of their status.

Up until now applications have been received in Victoria and sent to Vancouver for acceptance. Then comes the time lag before they can be sworn in.

"When separate citizen court quarters are set up, all these matters will be easier to deal with," Mrs. Carson points out. "And we will again be able to bring warmth and friendship into this big moment in new Canadians' lives."

★ ★ ★

The Greater Victoria Citizenship Council has every right to be proud of its part in welcoming new Canadians.

With the co-operation and consent of the presiding judge, this group arranged the welcoming program after swearing-in ceremonies in the old Court House. And it has continued the practice, whenever possible, in the new Law Courts.

Indeed, it wouldn't surprise me if its urgings had something to do with the proposed new arrangements. If so, the council deserved our congratulations.

Folk Arts Group to Form

The society was organized at a meeting Thursday.

Aim of the group is to preserve, encourage and advance the cultural heritages of the peoples of Canada; to foster creative expression of folk arts and to encourage citizenship among members, said Centennial co-ordinator Jerry Gosley who arranged the meeting.

Arabs Reject UN Plans

CAIRO (AP) — Arab foreign ministers preparing for summit meeting on the crisis with Israel agreed Sunday the conference should ignore the UN Security Council's suggestions for a settlement.

Foreign Minister Mohammed Ahmed Mahgoub of Sudan said summit discussion of the council's resolution would be "inappropriate" and a solution to the crisis must result from combined Arab efforts independent of outside influence.

The ministers agreed the Arab nations must push military preparedness to a maximum.

The Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said the delegate from militant Syria, which had announced it would boycott the summit, told the ministers his government would support the summit decisions "now that the real summit aims have become clear."

Gunnar V. Jarring, UN peacemaker appointed under the Security Council resolution, arrived in Cyprus Sunday to set up a headquarters there for his travels to Middle Eastern capitals.

MILLIONAIRE BACKING REAGAN FOR PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON (AP)—A "Reagan for President" headquarters is being set up here by an Indiana millionaire who bought the Toronto baseball club and who says he's never seen Reagan except on telivision.

Walter J. Dilbeck, Jr., who as an army private was cited for turning back a German charge single-handedly, aims at turning the course of American politics with a national campaign to gather petitions supporting California Governor Ronald Reagan for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I find the interest underneath everywhere is for Reagan," said Dilbeck.

Jews 'Pressured' in U.S.

NEW YORK (CP) — Pressure is being put on American Jews to endorse President Johnson's Vietnam policy as the price for greater U.S. commitment in Israel, Rabbi Abraham Feinberg of Toronto said Sunday.

"The pressure is subtle, it's pervasive, but it's quite unmistakable," he told a meeting of a Zionist group, Americans for Progressive Israel.

Rabbi Feinberg, an American citizen who has lived in Toronto for many years, did not identify the source of the pressure but said it originated in Washington.

He warned against making any deals with the administration, saying that "when the chips are down, the U.S. will be guided in the Middle East by what it believes is best for itself and not by feelings of international morality."

Rabbi Feinberg went to China and North Vietnam last year, and upon his return had his American passport revoked.

PM Turns Down Provinces On Plea for Housing Funds

SMALL BOAT MISSING; SEARCHERS FIND DEBRIS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Search and rescue officials reported today the finding of debris in an area where a search was under way for a 16-foot pleasure boat with one man aboard.

The boat was reported missing Friday on a trip to Call Inlet from Minstrel Island, near the north end of Vancouver Island.

The name of the missing man was withheld.

WINNING REEVES show their victory smiles after Saturday's municipal elections. Reeve Hugh Curtis (centre) easily defeated his opponent in Vancouver Island's biggest municipality, Saanich. Reeve Ray Bryant (right) of Esquimalt defeated two opponents for a second term. Oak Bay councillor Fred Hawes beat a single opponent. Former Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox did not contest this election. Federal Cutback Next Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal - provincial housing conference zeroed in quickly on the subject of money at its opening session today.

Prime Minister Pearson said less, not more, will be available from the federal government for housing and urban development in 1968.

The conference was attended by all provincial premiers except Bennett of B.C. and Thatcher of Saskatchewan. B.C. was represented by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

Most premiers said Ottawa must give housing programs utmost priority and provide even more direct lending through Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

Mr. Pearson also said that long-range financing of urban development should properly come from provincial and municipal tax revenues, not federal coffers.

Premier Robarts of Ontario and Premier Smith of Nova Scotia were outspoken in disagreement on the point.

FAIL TO SEE LOGIC

Massive financing by the federal government is the only way to meet urban needs, Mr. Robarts said.

Mr. Smith failed to see the logic of the prime minister's statement that there is "more justification for using provincial axing power" in housing and urban environment matters.

Premier Johnson of Quebec stressed Quebec's concern over federal "intervention" in housing matters, which he said began in 1919 and has continued since.

Quebec and Ottawa now were in agreement on existing federal programs and he did not want to see more federal initiatives. Quebec would exercise full powers in urban affairs and demand no-strings cash if federal funds are extended in future for specific programs.

There was little enthusiasm for a proposal by Mr. Pearson to set up a new national council that would define targets for

LOOSE MONEY CAR BRINGS POLICE ON RUN

LONDON (UPI)—A freight car loaded with $48 million worth of banknotes broke loose from a Liverpool-bound train today, bringing police on the run.

A security alert to Scotland Yard brought police cars pouring to Willesden Junction in northwest London to surround the freight car until a spare engine was brought and the money and wagon were towed away.

The car, with three guards locked inside, came uncoupled from the train not long after leaving Euston Station.

FIFTH PEDESTRIAN

Man Killed Crossing Trans-Canada

An 81-year-old pedestrian died in St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday night one hour after he was hit by a car on the Trans-Canada Highway at Tillicum Road.

Joseph Adlington, 581 Dumeresqu St., is the fourth octogenarian killed on Greater Victoria streets in the past three weeks.

Saanich police said Adlington was crossing the highway from north to south when he was hit by an eastbound car driven by Roy Twan of 1644 Northfield St. in Nanaimo.

Adlington was rushed to hospital by Saanich ambulance. The driver was also taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. He was treated for face cuts and released.

DARK CLOTHING

Police said Adlington was wearing dark clothing. The heavy Sunday rains had stopped, but the roads were still wet.

Mr. Adlington was born in England and emigrated to Winnipeg where he was a postman for many years.

He moved to Victoria on his retirement 18 years ago. His wife died last February.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said an inquest will be held, but the time and place are still to be determined.

Sunday's traffic death is the fifth pedestrian killed in three weeks.

On Nov. 21, Alfred Kneen, 85, of 1345 Stanley, died three hours after being struck by a car at Pandora and Stanley.

Twelve hours later, on Nov. 22, Miss Winnifred Tucker, 82, of 340 Linden, died shortly after being hit by a car in the 1100 block Fairfield.

On Nov. 28, six-year-old Lenore Harkin was killed when struck by a car as she crossed Douglas St. south of Tolmie.

Dec. 5, Mrs. W. W. Patterson, 81, of 1333 Fort, died one hour and 20 minutes after she was knocked down by a car at Fort and Fernwood.

There have been 22 traffic fatalities in Greater Victoria this year.

Maneater Kills Six in a Week

NEW DELHI (UPI) — A maneating tiger has killed six persons in less than a week in the village of Kurundi in dense jungle in central India, district officials said.

Many of the inhabitants of the remote area, called "The Paradise of Tigers," believe that man-eaters are not beasts but restless human souls which have entered the bodies of tigers.

Local authorities were reported to have offered rewards for the destruction of the marauder and asked professional hunters to try to kill it.

GUILD SETTLES

Pacific Press Strike Ended

VANCOUVER (CP)—Members of the Vancouver-New Westminster Newspaper Guild today approved a 28-month wage contract, ending a three-day strike against Pacific Press, Ltd.

An estimated 400 union members at an 8 a.m. meeting in a temporary strike hall approved the agreement in a voice vote.

Pacific Press prints The Sun and Province daily newspapers.

The agreement, which provides for an increase of 16 per cent for senior reporters and advertising salesmen, was reached at 3 a.m. after 15 hours of bargaining.

A company spokesman said the agreement provides for an increase of 16 per cent on all salaries over $140 a week. Minimum rate for senior reporters and advertising salesmen will go to $177.50 during the last month of the agreement from the present $147.75 a week.

A spokesman for the union said it was difficult to describe increases in terms of percentages because the guild had bargained for various dollar increases in a wide range of classifications.

For example senior reporters, whose minimum rate now is $147.75 will receive $161.05 retroactive to July 1—an increase of nine per cent; $172.35 Sept. 1, 1968—an increase of seven per cent; plus an additional $5.15 in the final month of the contract.

This works out to about 20 per cent over the life of the contract.

The company's final offer before the strike began last Friday was for a 16-per-cent increase over 28 months with a

Indian Quake Kills 100

(Times News Services)

BOMBAY—A violent earthquake hit mountainous southwest India today, levelled a town at the epicentre and left 100 dead, more than 1,000 injured and more than 5,000 homeless, Maharashtra State officials said.

The town was Koynanagar, 150 miles southeast of Bombay in the Ghats Mountains. The United News of India said 80 per cent of the houses and buildings in the town were destroyed.

The town sits atop a 3,000-foot mountain and is the site of a major hydroelectric dam serving Bombay. The dam was reported undamaged, but power was shut down, blacking out Bombay.

Home Minister Y. B. Chavan went to the scene. All available state transport, buses and ambulances with doctors and nurses was sent from Bombay.

The quake struck as most people slept.

Reds Lose 1,200 In Week's Fighting

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong troops were badly mauled in a suicide assault Sunday on a fortified U.S. artillery post 50 miles north of Saigon while other guerrilla units made three sharp attacks on outposts within 25 miles of the capital.

The Communist death toll in major actions during the last week climbed past 1,200, by U.S. and South Vietnamese calculations.

An estimated 400 Viet Cong charged out of the pre-dawn darkness toward bunkers in the American artillery post but were caught in a heavy crossfire of machine-guns, grenade launchers, cannon and howitzers level for point-blank fire.

U.S. soldiers found 124 Viet Cong bodies on the battlefield and said many were only teen-agers. One American was killed and 31 wounded in the two-hour battle for the 120-man post.

Snow, Cold Weather Grips Most of Europe

LONDON (UPI) — A storm system chilled Europe today with some of the coldest weather in 28 years, piling up six-foot snowdrifts on Yugoslavia's usually mild Adriatic coast and spreading snow to the Italian boot and southern Spain.

Temperatures in the Alps fell to the lowest level in years. It was 13 below zero at one northern Italian ski resort and temperatures in the Dolomites were the coldest since December 1939.

Snow closed all mountain passes from Spain through the Pyrenees into France. More than a foot of snow was reported at Pamplona in Northern Spain.

Bologna, Florence and the Italian Riviera were blanketed with snow and most of Germany, Poland and Russia already had snow.

TOT LURED TO DEATH IN WOODS

Boy, 15, Confesses Kidnap-Killing

VERSAILLES, France (AP) — A 15-year-old boy admitted Sunday he kidnapped and killed the seven-year-old son of a French government official and collected $12,000 in ransom money, police said Sunday. They reported the money had been recovered.

The police report said the boy, who could not be identified in accordance with French law on juvenile crimes, lured Emmanuel Maillairt to his death as they returned home for lunch from school last Monday.

On the pretext of playing a game called "junk man," the 15-year-old got Emmanuel to climb into a packing case on a baby carriage chasis and rushed him to the death scene in the woods, police said. Emmanuel was bludgeoned to death.

The two boys lived next door to each other. Neighbors described the older of the two as "a weird boy with wild eyes." He was arrested at the luxurious home of his grandparents. His parents are divorced. Police questioned his mother and a male adquaintance at length about the case.

Police Commissioner Rene Camard told a press conference the 15-year-old had conceived the kidnapping, executed it, and skillfully used a Roman Catholic priest as the intermediary to boost a ransom demand from the original $4,000 to the $12,000 that was paid, and also to make a request for $8,000 additional.

The ransom was handed over when the boy gave the priest, a family friend, the boy's sweater and a sock, Camard said.

Camard gave this as the 15-year-old boy's story:

He placed the packing case on the baby carriage chassis and rolled it near the school. He asked the boy if he wanted to play "junk man," which meant riding inside the case which the older boy pushed along the sidewalk.

The 15-year-old, shouting "junk man" the way scrap-iron buyers do, pushed the carriage to the boy's home, a luxurious villa. He ran to the door and slipped a prepared ransom note under it, then resumed pushing the carriage without the victim's knowing what he had done.

He pushed the cart—the victim inside—into the woods nearby. The older boy had built a hut of scrap lumber where, neighbors said, he sometimes sat all day with a toy gun trying to scare children playing nearby. There he clubbed Emmanuel to death with a piece of wood and dragged his body into a thicket. He kept several articles of clothing to prove his possession of the boy.

The boy was dead 15

Skim Milk From USC Saves Thousands of Young Lives

By KATHRINE THOMAS

Malnutrition is responsible for 70 per cent of all diseases in India.

Little Azari Khatoon in a Salvation Army Clinic in Calcutta weighed five pounds at the age of one.

After 13 months of intensive feeding with Canadian-bought milk, she weighed 17.2 pounds.

In the same city, a three-and-a-half-year-old child was brought to the clinic weighing 13 pounds—another four-year-old had never walked, due to lack of food.

One woman carried her three-year-old boy 175 miles on her back to see the doctor in Calcutta.

It was easy, the child weighed 14 pounds.

According to the director of the Bala Mandir Foundlings Home in Madras, abandoned babies are delivered at their threshold weighing three pounds.

Only once last year did she have one weighing the normal six pounds.

"But out of 80 babies admitted in 1964," she said, "only 10 had died."

The others she has been able to save through Unitarian Service Committee skim milk.

More than 70 per cent of the children also have worms.

Often the worms crawl out of the children's noses and mouths.

Often whole families in India have taken poison rather than face such starvation.

The Indian government is doing its best—through food rationing to distribute wheat more fairly.

But India needs Canadian milk. In 1966 six carloads of milk (216,000 lbs.) were shipped to 11 different USC distribution areas in India.

One six-ounce cup costs slightly over one cent.

Since the Indian diet is more devoid of proteins than ever before, this precious milk, bought with funds contributed during the Times Christmas Appeal, is desperately needed.

Malnutrition is definitely on the increase in India and yet one cent buys a cup of milk.

Once cent for a cup of milk.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Some irregularity in oilseeds was evident in late trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange while action in other commodities was light.

Flaxseed eased in early trading but the development of export interest as the session progressed firmed prices. There were reports that 1,100 tons of flax was sold to Europe and 1,500 tons to Portugal. Some expansion of hedging sales in rapeseed resulted in an easier tone.

Oats and barley trade was limited to domestic feed supply with prices moving in a narrow range. Trade was light in rye.

CHICAGO (AP)—Corn futures advanced two cents on the Chicago Board of Trade in active dealings influenced by the weather.

Wheat futures declined 1½ cents but other commodities showed only small changes.

Commission house and local selling on the opening weakened wheat prices. Additional liquidation later in the session by some commercial interests also tended to weaken prices.

Soybeans trade was light throughout the session and was influenced to a degree, by the advance of corn prices. Soybean oil turned weak near the close while soybean meal showed some later strength.

Toronto Star Profits Gain

TORONTO (CP) — Increased gross revenues and net profits in the year ended Sept. 30 have been reported by Toronto Star Ltd.

Net profit rose to $1,443,000 from $1,136,000 in 1966 and a non-recurring profit of $204,000 was realized from the expropriation of a parcel of land.

Gross revenues increased 5.7 per cent to $45,029,000 from $42,588,000.

An increase of 4.4 per cent in operating costs brought the total to $42,034,000 from $40,264,000 the previous year. Salaries, wages and employee benefits increased by $1,030,000 to a record $19,000,000.

THOMSON:

U.K. Papers Face Heavier Cost Burden

LONDON (CP)—Lord Thomson has estimated that devaluation and other factors will place an extra burden of £8,000,000 ($20,500,000) on Britain's national newspapers in 1968.

Maintaining there must be an increase to one penny or twopence on the price of newspapers, the Canadian-born publisher said, however, that some papers are too weak to sustain a higher selling price. A rise of twopence could cause serious deterioration in some circulations.

"What complicates the whole situation is that if there is a drop in circulations, advertising revenues will inevitably be affected and this starts the whole process over again," he said.

The British press depends heavily on imports, from Canada and Scandinavian countries, for its supply of pulp and newsprint.

Thomson, who owns The Times, Sunday Times and other papers, said newsprint costs may go up by £8 a ton, or about 12 per cent. This alone would push up costs for the national papers by about £6,500,000 a year.

The proprietors also must face other costs, such as a higher corporation tax, elimination of special tax rebates as well as high prices for electricity, printing inks, transport and other charges.

'U.S. Firm Trying To Break Strike'

VANCOUVER—The Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union charged today the strike-bound Canada Rice Mills and Martin and Robertson Limited with using Americans in Arkansas to break a legal strike in British Columbia.

Union international representative John Squire of Vancouver said in a statement the company has closed its business in suburban Richmond and "is attempting to operate through numerous addresses in the city of Vancouver."

He likened it to a "floating crap game."

Mr. Squire said rice from Arkansas has arrived in Vancouver via Fort William on the Canadian National Railways.

If the operation succeeds it will destroy the legal strike and cause loss of employment for more than 100 workers, he said.

"This will not happen as our union intends to picket the employer's place of business regardless of what address or name the company attempts to operate from," he said.

The strike is over the union's request for a 50 cents an hour wage increase, he added. Present rates range from $1.65 to $2.56.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Mining Issues Stronger

Industrials dropped sharply as western oils continued to advance in moderate trade on the Toronto Stock Exchange this afternoon.

In New York the market took a loss while mining issues showed consistent strength during morning trade on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

AT NEW YORK trading was active and at one point during the morning the new ticker tape trailed by one minute in reporting floor transactions.

Declines among individual issues topped advances by less than 100 issues in a reversal of an earlier trend.

The market failed to respond to what was considered by brokers to be favorable business news during the weekend. This included a report that manufacturers expect a sales increase of 3.5 per cent this quarter and of another three per cent next quarter.

On a delayed opening of 44,000 shares, Bunker Hill spurted 7⅞ to 54¾. C. E. Schwab, Bunker Hill president, had advised stockholders to reject an offer by Gulf Resources to acquire 700,000 Bunker Hill shares at $56 a share.

Among Canadians, Granby Mining was up 2½, Dome Mines 1¼ and Hudson Bay Mining 1½. International Nickel was off 1¾, Massey-Ferguson ⅛ and Alcan ⅛.

AT MONTREAL Fraser Co. dropped more than three points, while CIL, International Nickel and Union Carbide were each off one point in early afternoon trading.

Fraser tumbled 3⅜ points to 18¾ on volume of 1,980 shares, as investor's hopes for a takeover offer melted.

Union Carbide dropped 1¾ points to 16, CIL 1⅜ to 13½, and International Nickel 1¼ to 125¼.

Speculative mines and oils were mixed on the Canadian Stock Exchange. United Asbestos jumped 20 cents to $7,80, while United Obalski slid 18 cents to $1.28.

AT LONDON firm equities and renewed weakness in gilt-edged securities was the stock market picture today.

A further fall in sterling at first induced some small selling in the gilt-edged market. Selling dried up later, however, and losses were reduced to show maximum falls of 3s 8d.

Dollar stocks raced ahead helped by a strong dollar premium. ITT rose 16 points. International Nickel was strong at 313 and other Canadians also advanced, with the exception of Dome and Hudsons Bay, both a shade off.

In a mixed Canadian banking section, Toronto added 3s, while Canadian Imperial lost 2s.

Oils looked uncertain. Ultramar was wanted by Trinidad Canadian eased.

Gold shares went ahead.

VANCOUVER — Brenda and Dynasty both added .25 from Friday's close. Brenda climbed to $7.85 and Dynasty to $7.60. Northlode, the mining board's most active issue, rose .10 to 97 as 169,000 shares changed hands by 11 a.m. Utica rose .10 to $4.45 on a volume of 124,000 shares.

On the industrial board, Cominco declined .62 to $25.87, while Neon Products rose .50 to $10.87.

In oils, Merit was the most active issue climbing three to .26½ on a volume of 37,000 shares.

Contract Talks Broken Off

Contract talks broke off Friday between 700 Victoria and Vancouver area butchers and six chain stores.

No further talks were immediately scheduled between the two sides.

The Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America is seeking a four-day 36-hour work week in place of the present five days and 40 hours plus a wage increase of $1 and hour on rates ranging from $2.30 for women to a minimum $3.35 for head meatcutters.

The union had served strike notice at one suburban Vancouver store and the companies have served a general lockout notice. Stores affected in Victoria by the dispute are Safeway, Super Value and Shop Easy.

Accutron looks like a watch. But it isn't. It doesn't have a mainspring, a hairspring, or a balance wheel.

These parts make a watch run fast or slow. Accutron has replaced them with an electronic-powered tuning fork. It splits each second into 360 equal parts. And makes the Accutron timepiece so precise, it won't gain or lose an average of more than two seconds a day. In fact, we guarantee accuracy to within 60 seconds a month.† Just one darn minute.

ACCUTRON CALENDAR "Y" 14K gold filled, waterproof*, sweep second hand, calendar window. Gilt applied markers on gilt dial. Luminous dots and hands. 24314 $200.00

The old-fashioned balance wheel principle is used in all watches; not the Accutron movement. The Accutron tuning fork makes possible the first guarantee of accuracy ever given.

NEWCOMER TOPS COUNCIL POLL

'Confidence Renewed in Policies' After Easy Election Win—Bryant

By PAUL WILLIAMSON

Reeve Ray Bryant walked to an easy victory in Esquimalt elections Saturday night and brought three of his supporters with him.

Two incumbents and a pro-council newcomer took the three council seats.

Reeve Bryant topped George Argyle by 322 votes. Two years ago he beat him by only 93 votes.

At that time, Mr. Bryant was a newcomer and Mr. Argyle was an experienced councillor.

A third reeveship candidate, veteran councillor Art Mebs, trailed by 500 votes.

YOUNG LEADS

Newcomer Art Young led the six candidates for the three council positions with 1,842 votes.

He was followed by incumbents Gerald Horne with 1,532 and Roy Elphick with 1,384.

YOUNG
. . . top man

The next candidate, Dr. John Rogers, was well behind with 1,034.

A jubilant Reeve Bryant said after the count: "I'm extremely pleased and honored the people have chosen to give me the mandate I sought.

"This renews my confidence in our policies.

"I'm particularly pleased at the endorsement of the incumbent councillors and the election of Art Young, a candidate who completely supported council policies."

Mr. Argyle, defeated for the top spot for a second time, said he had "no explanation for the results."

He said he has no plans to run for other public office.

Mr. Young, the poll-topper, said his support came from both pro-council and anti-council electors.

"I supported council and got some of that vote, yet I wasn't an incumbent so I picked up some from the other side."

Coun. Gerald Horne was pleased with the vote, and said the campaign had been valuable.

'CLOSE LOOK'

"The vote indicates people are pleased with the progress we've made in the municipality, but I do think a result of this campaign is that we're going to take a close look at some of our policies which have brought disfavor, and I think this is healthy."

Coun. Roy Elphick expressed his thanks to the voters and promised to work "for the benefit of the whole community."

Both Reeve Bryant and Coun. Horne promised a new look at relations with the press. The council has been criticized for conducting too much of its business behind closed doors.

OAK BAY

Hawes Defeats Watts; Wallace Edges Wade

By TED GASKELL

There will be three new faces around the Oak Bay council table in January and a familiar figure will be in the reeve's chair.

Coun. Fred Hawes, endorsed by retiring Reeve A. L. Cox just before the election, had no trouble in defeating Coun. J. D. Watts 3,044 to 1,845 votes.

Coun. W. J. Wade lost his seat by only 19 votes to newcomer Dr. G. Scott Wallace who polled 3,064.

Incumbents Mrs. Frances Elford topped the poll with 3,647 and Walter Dodsworth was elected with 3,450.

Six competed for the two, one-year seats made vacant by the resignations of the reeveship candidates.

Lawyer Ian Horne and former councillor Alex Hendry were a long way ahead with 2,451 and 2,178 votes respectively.

Only 53.47 per cent of Oak Bay's 9,213 turned out to vote but that was two per cent higher than last year's election which included the fluoridation vote.

Coun. Watts was disappointed in the results.

"I and my supporters fought a clean fight and we have nothing to be ashamed of."

He blamed the retiring reeve's endorsation of Coun. Hawes for his defeat.

MRS. ELFORD
. . . top vote-getter

WALLACE
. . . wins on first try

Later, congratulating Reeve-elect Hawes, he offered his services to the municipality.

Returning officer E. H. Hart said today there is a "great possibility" of a recount on behalf of Coun. Wade who lost by only 19 votes in 3,000. But Coun. Wade denied this.

"I haven't asked for a recount and I don't want one," said Coun. Wade. "The voters seem to prefer a tax increase," he added referring to the election of Dr. G. Scott Wallace who strongly urged more hospital beds.

Early Pattern Held Firm Throughout Count

There were no surprises in Oak Bay once the counting started in Saturday's election.

When the first batch of ballots were counted and the results announced within half an hour of the polls closing, the candidates were placed in the order in which they finished.

Coun. Fred Hawes was 200 ahead of Coun. J. D. Watts' 450; Coun. Frances Elford was leading Coun. Dodsworth and Dr. G. Scott Wallace with 200 was only 11 ahead of Coun. W. J. Wade. At the end of the evening he was 19 in front.

Alex Hendry and Ian Horne led the other four contestants for the one year seats.

P.E.I. Premier To Meet PM About Causeway

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP)—Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island will meet with Prime Minister Pearson in Ottawa Tuesday to discuss the federal government's decision to review plans to build a Northumberland Strait causeway.

He told a meeting held Sunday to protest the delay in construction of the causeway that he felt there was "some justification" in taking a second look at design and costs of the proposed crossing in view of escalating costs.

However, he said the provincial government "is not prepared to accept any compromise which will not accommodate our transportation requirements." Only a causeway with rails would be feasible and nothing short of this would be tolerated.

McMaster Students To Get Senate Seats

HAMILTON (CP)—McMaster University has made public a long-secret report and promised that many of its recommendations, including three student seats on the university senate, will be carried out.

The report, kept under wraps since it was submitted by a senate committee in July, was mailed to faculty members and student officials Friday.

'NEGROES, INDIANS NOT WANTED'

Government Turns Blind Eye to Discrimination, Panel Told

By PETE LOUDON

British Columbia laws against racial discrimination are flagrantly violated and the provincial government is reluctant to back them up.

This situation was described Sunday night by B.C. Federation of Labor secretary-treasurer R. C. Haynes during a panel discussion of human rights.

He told of a recent test conducted in Vancouver where five employment agencies were asked to provide office personnel but warned that either negroes or Indians or "foreigners" were not wanted.

In each case, despiete the B.C. Fair Employment Act, the agencies said these wishes would be met.

"We have asked the B.C. government to advertise the Fair Employment Act but so far the government has refused," said Mr. Haynes.

Posters Refused

The government has also refused to issue posters for working areas warning against discrimination. At the same time it does issue posters concerning workmen's compensation act rules.

Mr. Haynes was joined on the panel by Miss Anna Wootton, a Victoria lawyer; Dr. R. J. Powers, political science professor at University of victoria; P. C. Paul, Brentwood elective chief of an Indian community and moderator, Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, co-chairman, B.C. Hydro.

Sponsor was the Human Rights Committee, United Nations Assoication of Victoria. Sunday was Human Rights Day.

Prof. Powers discussed civil rights on an international basis. He noted that the "most meaningful" result of the UN declaration of human rights 19 years ago has been the incorporation of many of these rights in the constitutions of emerging nations.

Automation

He said future years will see the need to safeguard human rights from advancing technology (the take-over of machines) and the expanding use of listening devices and electronic spying which threatens human privacy.

Miss Wootton spoke on the Canadian Bill of Rights which was adopted in 1960.

"It is itoo early to tell what the long-term results of the bill will be," she stated, because no court has yet had to rule on a case where it is in conflict with a previous act.

She pointed out that one weakness is that the rights bill ensures against any other federal law abrogating the basic rights of citizens. But it may not challenge laws passed by provinces.

"This is not to suggest we are on the brink of tyranny." She pointed out that England has no formal Human Rights Bill yet citizens there are confident their rights will be respected. On the other hand, despite Supreme Court rulings in favor of racial tolerance in the U.S., desegregation has made little headway."

Chief Paul said native Indians in Canada are still denied many rights that other citizens take for granted.

Indians Pushing

"Under the Indian Act we are still operating a from of Colonial government frowned upon by the United Nations."

But the Indian people, he said, are becoming emphatic in their protests, no longer recognize this act and are pushing for revisions.

"Some of the younger ones want abolition of the act," he added.

He said Canadian history books used in schools don't do justice to the part the Indian played in the building of Canada. He said he did not think native people had been subjected to such abuses anywhere else in the world. Canadian literature makes Indians appear as an "inferior race of second class people."

Chief Paul said that non-Indians often offer paternalism rather than partnership and they should work to educate children against the stereotyped description of his race as "shiftless and lazy."

No TV Victories

He added, "We never win any battles on TV."

The panel members later discussed among themselves and with members of the audience of 75 other unsolved problems and some victories encountered in the campaign for wider human rights. Here are some highlights of the discussions:

Miss Wootton explained the complications involving the question of hate literature. Legislation to inhibit its dissemination might violate the principle of free speech.

Similarly protecting the rights of children who are denied blood transfusions (their right to health) or the rights of children whose parents keep them from school for religious reasons, might be in violation of religious freedoms.

Denied Housing

Mr. Haynes described a case where an Indian couple in Vancouver was recently denied housing when the landlord who didn't think they "looked Indian" discovered their race. A court case is pending.

He said Ontario has set up a commission to police such cases where previously, like B.C., the province had protective legislation but poor enforcement. He said the number of complaints trebled under the commission.

U.S. negroes have refused to accept such discriminations any longer and they are in revolt "exposing the whole sordid mess."

He warned, "Our Indian situation could become just as crucial and critical."

We're Moving

Mr. Haynes noted that a Victoria department store recently has employed a native Indian and an East Indian girl in its advertising.

"Five years ago you wouldn't find it. Although we're moving, it's very slow."

Dr. Keenleyside noted instances where French-speaking Canadians have been denied accommodation in Prince Edward Island and Jews met the same treatment in Quebec. He knew of several instances in B.C. where resorts have refused native Indians. But he also noted some improvement.

A youth in the audience said laws won't guarantee human rights. He cited the case of the hippy who suffers discrimination because he reserves the right to dress as he pleases and behave as he pleases within the law.

Another questioner in the audience asked Mr. Haynes how trade unionists can espouse human rights while at the same time compelling employees to join unions where closed shop agreements exist.

"When a group of workers get together and decide they want to have an organization, there must be some way of maintaining it," said Mr. Haynes. The UN declaration also allows for the protection of the majority, he said.

'Recognized Fact'

Dr. Keenleyside said the reason the relevant clause was included was that in such a case the majority has a right to insist that people who enjoy the rights achieved by an organization should also contribute to its existence.

"I agree a philosophical argument could be made here, but it (enforced union membership) is now a recognized fact of our civilization."

A speaker in the audience held that the whole democratic process requires minoritis to submit to majorities for the common good.

Talks Proposed On Economic Future of City

Alderman Voices Concern Over 'Gaps in Dialogue'

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

A top-level conference between labor, management and civic authorities to discuss Greater Victoria's economic future will be called for Thursday.

Ald. Ian Stewart will make the proposal at Victoria city council meeting Thursday afternoon.

Mayor Hugh Stephen declined specific comment on the idea until Ald. Stewart had spelled out in detail what he has in mind.

"I have suggested to Ald. Stewart that before Thursday he prepare a list of the people he thinks should be invited to such a conference and just what should be on the agenda," the mayor said. "After that we can take a close look at the idea and, if necessary, move in a specific direction."

Ald. Stewart said the idea of a conference between labor, management and government leaders was first broached at the all-candidate rally held Thursday at the Union Centre on Quadra Street.

'GAPS IN DIALOGUE'

"It became apparent at that meeting that there were gaps in the dialogue between labor, management and government leaders," Ald. Stewart said.

"The more I thought about it, the more I became convinced that a non-partisan, non-political conference to study and plan for the future could achieve nothing but good.

"It may well be that such a conference can come up with no solutions. On the other hand it could produce if not all the answers, at least some of them."

NON-POLITICAL

Ald. Stewart said he had been in touch with Victoria MP David Groos who welcomed the conference idea and suggested it must be of a strictly non-political nature.

MORE MORE MORE

"I think George Chatterton (MP for Esquimalt-Saanich) should be there, so should the reeves of all surrounding districts," Mr. Groos said from Ottawa.

He suggested Jan 17 as the possible date for the conference.

Both Mr. Groos and Mr. Chatterton will be in the city on that date.

Ald. Stewart stressed that he was not suggesting that there was any kind of emergency facing Greater Victoria.

"But the closing of shipyards is quite a blow to the economy," he said. "Possibly by sitting down and discussing the future we can avoid a one-two punch. The ideas brought forward may well be worth while forwarding to Ottawa in the form of a detailed brief or they may just be suggestions that we can pass on with recommendations to the Chamber of Commerce."

MARCHERS POOR DUNNERS?

Greater Victoria's 10,000-volunteer marchers are great at walking but poor bill collectors.

They got pledges estimated at $100,000 when they treked in the March for Millions last month but so far have only collected about $10,000 from their sponsors.

The march, a Centennial youth project to raise money for portable classrooms in developing Commonwealth nations, drew the best per capita response here of any city across Canada when about 7,000 of a crowd estimated between 10,000 and 12,000 finished the 26-mile walk Nov. 25.

Uvic student Bob Taylor, chairman of the youth committee which organized the project, said today he had checked with school representatives and found only about 10 per cent of marchers had collected pledges from their sponsors.

Each person in the march is responsible for collecting the money his sponsors pledged to pay for each mile he or she walked.

"We're hoping these people will make an all-out effort to have all the money in by next Friday," said Taylor.

House Guest Was a Thief Court Told

A man invited to stay over night at a couple's home left early in the morning with $128 worth of goods, Saanich police testified today.

Gary Verhey of CFB Esquimalt, pleaded guilty to theft over $50 when he appeared in Central Court.

Police said the accused met Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hanson, 3023 Bodega, in a beer parlour Dec. 2. They went to a house party together. and as Verhey said he had no place to stay, they invited him home.

Court was told Mrs. Hanson awoke early in the morning and heard Verhey prowling about the house. She awoke her husband who asked the accused to leave.

Later, they discovered an electric razor, two watches, cuff links, and some other items missing.

Police said the goods were later located in Verhey's locker at CFB Esquimalt.

Magistrate Ostler remanded the accused to Dec. 18 for presentence report.

Self-Serve 'Grog Shop' Opens Here

Flowers and shopping carts greeted patrons at Greater Victoria's first "self-service" liquor store today.

Liquor Control Board Chairman Col. Donald McGugan said the new store, replacing a conventional LCB outlet at the Fort and Foul Bay shopping centre, will be open from 10 am. to 6 p.m. daily except for a 9 p.m. Friday closing time.

Patrons are able to buy liquor super-market style, taking bottles off the shelves themselves and paying at a check-out counter. Adding to the familiarity, the store is located in a former super-market building.

"We've decided to give this a trial here," said Col. McGugan. "It is the first self-serve store outside the lower mainland."

Ask The Times

Q. Is it true that switching a light on and off uses as much power as a 100-watt bulb burns in 10 hours? C.G.

A. No, says B.C. Hydro. No extra power is used in the switching of an incandescent bulb, but switching of a fluorescent tubes does put great wear and tear on the tube. Too much switching could reduce the life of the tube to the point where it would be cheaper to leave the light on.

Q. Where could I get information on possible pen pals in Manchester, England? G.L.

A. Try the Manchester Evening News, 3 Cross Street, Manchester, England.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Cascade of Gifts Brightens Life For Needy Family

The doorway to a new and better life was opened for a Victoria West widow and her eight youngsters over the weekend.

Times readers who learned Saturday of the hardships of "Margaret and her family" responded in a rush.

Within a few hours of publication of a story telling how Margaret's family was forced to exist on a welfare income of $32 per month per person, these things happened:

An unidentified man phoned an offer of $250 in new shoes and clothing. A Cadboro Bay Road reader put up another $200 to be spent by an official of St. Vincent De Paul Society as required for the family's comfort.

BOX OF CLOTHING

A city glazier called at the home to replace front and rear window glass. He wouldn't leave his name but he did leave a box of clothing for 19-year-old Sandra.

A city policeman arrived with a bed and mattress.

At St. Vincent De Paul Society store, where officials agreed to accept donations and ensure against duplication of gifts (other welfare families will profit in such a case) 15 telephone calls offered everything from money to furniture.

A fridge, beds, a carpet, three mattresses and other items are being picked up by the society.

BREAD SUPPLY

Earlier, on appeal by a neighbor, a bakery offered to keep the family in bread. A dairy says it will stock the family with milk, ice cream and other items on the Saturday before Christmas.

Frank Rushton of St. Vincent De Paul Society is co-ordinating offers from 15 persons willing to work on the house. A carpenter says the roof needs fixing. They plan a bee early in the New Year.

There are other offers of food, cash and Christmas decorations where only a few days ago Christmas was a word Margaret didn't want to think about.

She was ironing clothes until 5 a.m. Tired and overcome with emotion today she could only say "thanks." But neighbors say she "doesn't seem like the same person" since the flood of help began.

The Times story about Margaret called for community aid. But it pointed out also that the most serious need of Margaret and hundreds of other families like hers, is an increase in welfare allowances.

As the matter stands, children receive more than twice as much in provincial assistance if they are wards of the government in foster homes.

In this area, little relief is in sight. There has been no indication of response from government authorities.

Individuals wishing to help may contact St. Vincent De Paul Society, at 382-3213.

Butchers' Showdown On Tuesday

A showdown between butchers and supermarket stores in the Victoria and Vancouver areas is expected Tuesday morning.

Employees approved a strike start at that time against the High-Low store in the Vancouver suburb of Coquitlam. Six supermarket companies have warned that a strike against one will produce a lockout against all meat employees in all stores.

"We are hopeful talks may get under way today and if so and if there is any indication of progress being made, naturally the strike deadline can be moved," said George Johnston, representative of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America.

'BRING TO DEAD'

He said meetings of 700 butchers in Vancouver and 100 in Victoria "agreed to bring the matter to a head."

Victoria companies affected by the dispute are Safeway Super-Valu and Shop-Easy.

Butchers want a four-day 36-hour week with no reduction in pay plus a $1 an hour wage increase on rates ranging from $2.30 to $3.10 an hour. Present work week is five days and 40 hours.

Supermarkets accepted a majority conciliation board report, rejected by the butchers, which recommended an extra 40 cents an hour in a two-year contract and no change in hours.

Something Out There Worries Navy

Destroyer escort HMCS Qu'Appelle is carrying out a surveillance patrol off the B.C. coast.

Object of the surveillance is secret, a navy spokesman said today.

The Qu'Appelle returned Friday from exercises off the California coast. Within 24 hours the crew had been called back on what was thought to be a recall exercise to see how long it would take to get the ship ready for sea again.

But it wasn't. Once the men were aboard the destroyer sailed for a secret destination.

The Qu'Appelle went out alone.

No time of return has been estimated.

PLEASH PASH THE CANDIES

A man who told police he had eaten 30 rum-filled candies was fined $300 in central court today for impaired driving.

Robert Gottinger, 18, of 4341 Harder, was arrested early Sunday morning after police observed the car he was driving weaving south on Douglas Street.

The accused admitted in court he had been drinking beer.

Conservative Newcomer Seeks Seat

A contest for the Progressive Conservative federal nomination in Victoria riding was assured today with the entry of newcomer Rev. Walter F. McLean.

The 31-year-old Presbyterian minister said he returned here to his native city from Ottawa only Saturday "because I've been invited by a group of prominent citizens to stand for the nomination."

He will be opposed by well known realtor Eric Charman at the riding's Jan. 22 nomination meeting. Mr. Charman declared earlier this month he will seek the nomination again which he held in 1963 and lost in 1965.

Rev. McLean was educated here at Glenlyon, Victoria High School and Victoria College before obtaining his bachelor's degree from the University of B.C. in 1957 and his Bachelor of Divinity degree from the University of Toronto in 1960.

ORDAINED 1962

He was ordained a minister in 1962, following in his father's footsteps, Rev. J. L. W. McLean who has been minister at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here almost 30 years.

Rev. McLean was president of the Canadian Union of Students in 1961 and the following year went to the University of Nigeria as a chaplain and coordinator of the Canadian University Service Overseas Program in Nigeria.

Meeting Called Tonight By Storm-Hit Residents

Cordova Bay residents whose properties suffered storm damage last week are holding a public meeting tonight to consider united action.

The meeting in St. David's Church parish hall at 5186 Cordova Bay Rd. will start at 7:30, said Norman Sear, 5355 Parker.

Mr. Sear said the idea of the meeting is to examine a possible community solution or consider an approach to the municipality over the extensive damage to properties in the area.

Heavy seas have washed out so much sand in the vicinity of McMorran's resort that a number of septic tank outlets on properties have been exposed, he said.

New Owner To Finish Apartment

Local businessman Henry Eng said today he had purchased the controversial Quadra-Topaz apartment building for an undisclosed sum.

Mr. Eng, the owner of Oakcrest Market on Quadra Street, said he planned to complete construction of the long-deserted building within six months.

The apartment block, abandoned midway through construction for the past two years, has been the target of intense criticism from neighboring residents.

Little less than a month ago city council decided to call for the owners of the building to show cause why a demolition order should not be issued.

GORDON HEAD PIONEERS, Mrs. Otto Miller and John Holmes, blew out candles Sunday at the 70th birthday celebration of the Gordon Head Mutual Improvement Society. Mrs. Miller is the daughter of W. C. Grant, who donated the land for the original community hall. Present hall opened with a concert in 1898 and in a year or two will be replaced by a new one. Last spring's recreation referendum provided $470,000 for a community centre and swimming pool on municipally-owned Lambrick Estate.

COWICHAN VALLEY REJECTS GOVERNMENT-APPOINTEES

Government - appointed interim directors of Cowichan Valley Regional District, including the chairman, were defeated in election contests by rebels.

Dave Laverock, who defeated pro tem incumbent Frank Martin, at Shawnigan Lake, said: "We asked the minister for a plebiscite on whether or not people wanted a regional district.

"We canvassed the area and sent a petition with a lot of names to Mr. Campbell but decided we had better run as candidates at the same time."

Another rebel winner was H. A. (Slim) Warner, at Mill Bay, who defeated John Bateson, chairman of the regional board.

"I'm very happy with the returns," he said. "We were against the way in which a regional district was imposed on us and a majority of the people in the unorganized territory have shown they are against it."

In a veiled threat to the regional setup here, Mr. Warner said: "We will do what has to be done."

He would not enlarge on this comment.

YOUNGEST MAYOR

Quaife Makes the Leap Teen Town to Big Town

DUNCAN — Jim Quaife is mayor-elect of Duncan today—the youngest ever at age 33.

And it's his first public office.

The young businessman and adult adviser to the Duncan Teen Town posted a solid margin over veteran alderman Hamish Mutter in Saturday's election with 425 votes to 343. Third was retired druggist Elmore Clark with 287.

"Indications are we will have a really co-operative effort by old and new aldermen to operate a team to fulfil council's obligations to the people," said the mayor-elect.

"I will do everything in my power to bring about successful co-operation between the city and North Cowichan in ventures important to both."

Born in England, Jim Quaife came to Canada with his parents as a child. The family returned to England in 1946 but only for a year.

MAYOR-ELECT QUAIFE
. . . first try

The new mayor served with the Canadian army in Korea, returning to live at Cowichan Station where he worked as a heavy duty mechanic at the Crofton pulp mill.

This past summer he started his own business, Cowichan Valley Imports.

He is married and he and his wife Carol have two children, Mark, 6, and Dale, 18 months.

The Quaifes moved into Duncan 15 months ago after living in the surrounding area for 10 years.

The new mayor has been active in city organizations. He is still a big push in Duncan Teen Town and is a member of the city Kinsmen Club.

Incumbent Tommy Kilpatrick topped the aldermanic poll but two newcomers, Dick Benzis and Rois Harder, beat out former Alderman Robert Mason for the other spots.

Another younger businessman, Johnny Getz, joined the council by acclamation to fulfil the unexpired term of retiring Alderman Homer Alex.

MERGER STUDY

Runaway Victory Scored by Morton

NORTH COWICHAN — The expected close finish did not materialize in the contest for reeve here.

Incumbent for eight years, Donald Morton had a runaway win over Claude Green and Mrs. Margaret Whittaker. He had a clear 200 votes over the combined opposition poll.

Reeve Morton said Sunday: "Defeated candidate Claude Green has offered me full support in the new term and I accepted it so the proposed south end sewer (a subject of controversy) can be installed as quickly and economically as possible."

He said he could not reveal details but Duncan officials have suggested means by which the city can help forward the municipal sewerage project.

TRUSTEE?

Reeve Morton said bottom-of-the-poll candidate Mrs. Whittaker has expressed an interest in filling the municipal vacancy for trustee on Cowichan School Board 65.

The reeve said: "I will advocate the setting up of a strong committee to study the economics of amalgamation with Duncan and if it is found to be not feasible at this time we should set up joint bodies for administering various services."

Tom Burge, Crofton mill employee, was elected to council along with incumbents Mrs. Margaret Robertson and John Cannon.

MINER KILLED IN SLIDE STARTED BY EXPLOSION

ZEBALLOS — Henry Beamer, 25, was killed Sunday in a slide at the Zeballos iron mine in this west coast Vancouver Island community.

Police said Beamer was emerging from the mine tunnel after setting a charge to loosen ore inside when the blast triggered a slide that brought rock and snow down at the tunnel entrance.

Three other men escaped injury when the debris hit a building outside.

NEVER!

We agree with Datsun. You have enough to do gathering in the groceries and keeping the kiddies tucked quietly into their seat belts, without having to change gears as well.

That's why we're pleased to offer this Datsun 1600 Automatic. Into its budget price, it packs more features to gladden your feminine heart than any car we've ever known.

It's really smart. Nice lines. Lovely colours. The steering is light and positive. (You can park it in a teacup.) It has a full-flow air circulation system that works with the windows closed. The car never gets stuffy and your hairdo never blows awry. On cold days, the heater quickly clears all the windows to give you excellent vision.

For safety, there's an impact absorbing body, brakes borrowed from the best racing cars, back-up lights and, because children often ride in the rear seat, Datsun padded the backs of the front seats too.

The ride is velvet. All wheels are independently sprung. Also Datsun hinged the rear axle in the middle so that both wheels stay on the ground when you take a corner. You'll have new confidence when the roads are icy or rain-slicked.

But, best of all the Datsun 1600 isn't one of those timid small car automatics with no go. It has a big 96 h.p. engine that will cruise you at twenty in traffic or move you at better than ninety miles an hour. It's smooth and zippy in every gear.

Oh, and one more thing. Expect one hundred thousand mile reliability. That's been built-in too.

Drive at Datsun – then decide!

CABBAGE NO. 1

'Memorable' Performance

NEW YORK (CP) — Genevieve Bujold, pretty daughter of a Montreal bus driver and acclaimed as an actress in both Canada and France, has added the U.S television audience to her growing list of credits.

GENEVIEVE
. . . lots of praise

The authoritative TV Guide, a widely circulated U.S. television weekly magazine, calls the 25-year-old bilingual Canadian "Cabbage No. 1" of Canada and France.

Miss Bujold, wife of CBC producer Paul Almond, received handsome praise for her star performance in the two-hour production of George Bernard Shaw's Saint Joan Monday night on NBC's Hallmark of Fame.

Robert Hartung's adaptation of the satire, which Shaw developed around the well-known legend of the 15th Century Maid of Orleans, was skilful. The production, like all Hall of Fame dramas, was rich and handsome. But most important, it was beautifully and effectively cast.

PRAISES DEBUT

Cynthia Lowry, Associated Press television-radio columnist, writes:

'Genevieve Bujold, a newcomer to television in the United States, gave a truly memorable performance as Joan, first as an eager country girl with a God-given mission to lead an army and save France, and, finally, as a mature and sophisticated ghost returning to hear her friends and enemies justify and defend the actions that carried her to the burning— and to sainthood."

Amid the fine performances of such theatrical giants as Maurice Evans as the fanatic heretic hunter, Toronto-born Raymond Massey as the urbane inquisitor and Roddy McDowell as the silly dauphin, Miss Bujold was "vividly effective," Miss Lowry says.

The playwright's purpose was to examine, within the discipline of the Joan of Arc legend, the lengths to which men can be led by expediency, superstitution and stubbornness. The movement of the drama from stage to tube lost none of Shaw's bite and cynicism. It was a fine two hours.

FINDS APPEALING

TV Guide, in a full-length feature on the child-like Miss Bujold says her looks are as internationally appealing as sex and French-fried potatoes.

Now living in Toronto, Miss Bujold started her career in Montreal as part of the great flowering of French-Canadian culture that resulted in among things, Montreal's Expo 67. In Montreal she worked in as many as four media—radio, television, film and the stage in a single day.

In Toronto, she appeared in some CBC English-language roles and she honed her talent by performing in French and English in Moliere, Shakespeare Ibsen and Anouilh.

She toured France and Russia in 1965 with a Montreal repertory company. Her picture in the Paris newspaper France Soir caught the eye of the New Wave director Alain Resnais (Hiroshima, Mon Amour) and she was given a screen test and hired for the part of Nadine, the young revolutionary, in his movie La Guerre Est Finis.

Miss Bujold made several more movies in France and Canada most notably The Thief of Paris

Her latest, Isabel, is directed by her husband.

Jon Ruddy, writing in TV Guide, says: "Fans in France declared that she was their chouchou numero un, which loses something in tranlsation She remained, of course, Cabbage No. 1 in Montreal, too."

Officials Arrested

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Officials have arrested two construction officials in connection with the collapse of a partially completed bridge which killed at least 19 workers last Monday. The two, field engineer Mario Perez Gonzalez and Juan Antonio Colunga, general manager of the firm which built temporary supports for the bridge, have said the collapse may have resulted from flaws in the earth beneath the structure.

End of Era For Cunard At Halifax

HALIFAX (CP) — When the Royal Mail Ship Britannia arrived here in July, 1840, almost everyone in town was at the pier to greet her.

When the Royal Mail Ship Sylvania arrived here last Wednesday, almost nobody noticed her.

In the 127 years between the first and last England-Canada crossings of Cunard Steam-Ship Co. liners, every Cunarder from the tiny 205-ton side-wheeler Britannia to the 83,000-ton Queen Elizabeth has called at this year-round port.

The orange-red and black stacks of the Cunard ships were almost commonplace along the seawall at the southend of the harbor.

The Sylvania's stack was sticking unobtrusively into the clear blue sky above the shed on Pier 21 Wednesday as the 22,018-ton liner made a nine-hour stop on her way to New York for the last time.

The speed of the jet airliner was blamed by Cunard for its decision several months ago to end its passenger service between England and Canada, started by Samuel Cunard's Britannia in 1840, after the imaginative Halifax businessman went to London to sell his idea of fast trans-Atlantic packet ships.

END OF AN ERA

The Sylvania represented the end of an era. She was the last Cunarder on the once-booming run from Southampton, Eng. to Canada.

Some of her sisters will be offered for sale in the next few months and she herself faces an uncertain future. Due to go on cruise until the end of May, she likely will go on the auction block in June.

"It's very sad—but it's economics," said Captain H. L. De Legh, skipper of the Sylvania.

A Cunard man since 1938, Captain De Legh said in an interview that popularity of the jet is not the only factor in the decline of the ocean liner.

"There have been increasing costs all along the line—escalating costs for fuel, ships' stores, dock charges. There have been many crippling strikes and there's been the refusal of the British government to subsidize the line."

Several officers of the Sylvania said it "hurt" to see liners under the United States, Italian and Greek flags being heavily subsidized by their governments while Cunard was expected to go it alone.

"This is nobody's fault," said Captain De Legh. "But economics caught up with the situation.

"Once the jets got into operaion, the steamship was on he way out."

PHASING OUT

He said the Queen Elizabeth II, the new Cunarder that will replace the original Queens of the Southampton-New York run, "is very likely the last luxury liner the world will build."

The departure of Cunard will leave ony Canadian Pacific Steamships and the Russian liner Alexandr Pushkin in regular scheduled service between British and Canadian ports. None of these ships is a regular caller here.

The Sylvania was one of four Cunarders built in the late 1950s specifically for the England-Canada run, calling here in winter months and sailing up the St. Lawrence to Montreal in the summer.

The Carinthia was the last scheduled Cunarder to sail for Montreal, but she was diverted here because of a dock strike on the St. Lawrence. She is due in Southampton later this week on her last crossing.

The Sylvania had only 354 passengers when she cleared here for New York Wednesday night. She can accommodate 900.

SURGEON APPLAUDS COURAGE OF PATIENT

Heart Transplant Miracle Described

The following article was written for The Associated Press by Professor Christian Barnard of Groote Schuur Hospital, Cape Town, who on Dec. 3 led a team of surgeons performing the world's first human heart transplant. He describes the operation and talks about the future of heart transplants.

By CHRISTIAN N. BARNARD

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—At the beginning of November, 1967, following a successful kidney transplant operation some weeks earlier at Groote Schuur Hospital, a decision was taken to attempt a human heart transplant operation.

Ten years of experience in open heart surgery and a four-year research program on organ transplantation had given us the background for confidence of a successful outcome to this undertaking.

It did not take long to find a patient suitable for cardiac transplant. Louis Washkansky was considered to have heart disease incurable by any known treatment other than cardiac transplantation.

He also had the correct mental approach and moral courage to submit himself to this new operation.

COMPARE ANTIGENS

His blood was examined to determine the pattern of antigens on his red cells and white cells, as this would help us to select a suitable cardiac donor. . . .

A suitable donor would be a young person with an inevitably fatal disease or injury but having an undamaged heart.

Twelve units of fresh blood were drawn from 12 fresh volunteers and cross-matched daily in case they should be needed.

Saturday, Dec. 2, a young lady—Miss Denise Ann Darvall—was admitted to Groote Schuur Hospital having suffered severe injuries in an auto accident.

Intensive resuscitation was commenced immediately after she was admitted. But when seen shortly afterwards by a neurosurgeon she was declared to have inevitably-fatal brain damage.

Intensive resuscitation was continued and permission was obtained from the girl's father to remove her heart and kidneys after death for use in transplant operations.

The team was alerted, and the injured girl and Mr. Washkansky were taken to adjoining operating theatres where preparations were continued for two simultaneous open-heart operations.

TYPES COMPATIBLE

The blood tests of the injured girl showed both the red cells and the white cells to be almost perfectly compatible with those of Mr. Washkansky.

Mr. Washkansky was anesthetized about 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

The operation commenced. Within half an hour of the commencement of the open-heart operation . . . the injured girl died.

The heart of the girl was exposed, connected to a heart-lung machine, and cardio-pulmonary bypass was commenced with cooling of the blood in the bypass heart-lung machine.

Her heart cooled, it was removed by dividing the major veins and arteries and disconnected from the heart-lung machine in the first operating theatre.

Her heart was transferred to the second operating theatre, where it was reconnected within minutes to the second-heart-lung machine and perfused—fed—with cold blood.

The perfusion continued during implantation of the heart.

Mr. Washkansky's aorta was clamped to isolate his heart from the blood circulating in the body and his severely damaged heart was excised —cut out, leaving portions of both atrial chambers to serve as the stem on to which the new heart would be grafed.

While the rest of Mr. Washkansky's body continued to be perfused from the heart-lung machine, the donor heart was sutured in position, using fine silk sutures to join the atria and main arteries of the new heart to those of Mr. Washkansky.

JOIN NERVE CENTRES

Firstly, the left atria of the patient and the new heart were joined to each other, and following this the right atria were similarly united. Next, the divided ends of the pulmonary arteries were sutured together, and lastly the two aortas were joined, the cannula—tube—which perfused the grafted heart being removed during the final stages of the suturing of the aorta.

The clamp of Mr. Washkansky's aorta was released, and the new heart was perfused by blood pumped into the aorta from the heart-lung machine.

Air was excluded from all chambers of the heart, and the rewarming of the blood in the heart-lung machine was commenced.

When the correct temperature had been reached, the new heart was given an electric shock through paddles placed on either side, and about 2¼ hours after it had stopped it started beating once more.

The rewarming of Mr. Washkansky's body continued, and about 20 minutes later the flow from the heart-lung machine was reduced, and little by little the heart took over the circulation.

Ten minutes later the heart-lung machine was switched off finally, and the new heart was beating strongly and supporting abundant life in its new body.

The tubes connecting the patient to the heart-lung machine were removed, and his chest was closed.

An x-ray picture of his chest showed all to be functioning well, and the electrocardiogram was satisfactory.

He was allowed to recover consciousness and returned to the sterile post-operative intensive-care room 6½ hours after the operation commenced.

He was still on assisted mechanical ventilation, largely as a preventive measure, and his progress continued to be satisfactory during the rest of Sunday.

POST OPERATIVE SUCCESS

Artificial ventilation was stopped the following morning, and since this time he has continued to breathe satisfactorily, his heart has functioned well, and his post-operative progress has been eminently satisfactory in every way.

Plans are under way for a second heart transplant operation within the next few weeks.

The difficulties are not only those associated with the organization of a large and highly skilled team but are most particularly concerned with the supply of suitable hearts for transplantation.

The development of new techniques in suppressing the rejection of foreign tissue implanted into the body may allow a more indiscriminate choice of donor hearts on the ground of immunological compatibility—less tendency for the body to reject a grafted heart—and may even allow the transplantation of organs from one species to another, for instance, animals to man.

EXCEEDS DEMAND

Research work in the field of organ preservation may advance sufficiently to allow the establishment of organ banks, but despite all these possible future expansions of the technique the demand for new hearts is very likely always to exceed the supply.

Artificial hearts are the logical alternative, and even though these are more likely to be freely available in the future, their development and perfection are still many years ahead.

The vast majority of human hearts function perfectly for up to 80 years, and few if any machines can match this continuous performance.

Consideration must also be given to the criteria used in determining suitable patients for heart replacement, and it seems likely that this is a problem that will assume great importance in the very near future.

Factors such as age, the existence of other diseases and the importance to society of the individual involved may have to be taken into account.

Boy Admits Kidnapping Killing Tot

Planned French Crime

VERSAILLES, France (AP)—A 15-year-old boy admitted Sunday he kidnapped and killed the seven-year-old son of a French government official and collected $12,000 in ransom money, police said Sunday. They reported the money had been recovered.

The police report said the boy, who could not be identified in accordance with French law on juvenile crimes, lured Emmanuel Maillairt to his death as they returned home for lunch from school last Monday.

On the pretext of playing a game called "junk man," the 15-year-old got Emmanuel to climb into a packing case on a baby carriage chassis and pushed him to the death scene in the woods, police said. Emmanuel was bludgeoned to death.

The two boys lived next door to each other. Neighbors described the older of the two as "a weird boy with wild eyes." He was arrested at the luxurious home of his grandparents. His parents are divorced. Police questioned his mother and a male adquaintance at length about the case.

Police Commissioner Rene Camard told a press conference the 15-year-old had conceived the kidnapping, executed it, and skillfully used a Roman Catholic priest as the intermediary to boost a ransom demand from the original $4,000 to the $12,000 that was paid, and also to make a request for $8,000 additional.

BOY'S SWEATER

The ransom was handed over when the boy gave the priest, a family friend, the boy's sweater and a sock, Camard said.

Camard gave this as the 15-year-old boy's story:

He placed the packing case on the baby carriage chassis and rolled it near the school. He asked the boy if he wanted to play "junk man," which meant riding inside the case which the older boy pushed along the sidewalk.

The 15-year-old, shouting "junk man" the way scrap-iron buyers do, pushed the carriage to the boy's home, a luxurious villa. He ran to the door and slipped a prepared ransom note under it, then resumed pushing the carriage without the victim's knowing what he had done.

He pushed the cart—the victim inside—into the woods nearby. The older boy had built a hut of scrap lumber where, neighbors said, he sometimes sat all day with a toy gun trying to scare children playing nearby. There he clubbed Emmanuel to death with a piece of wood and dragged his body into a thicket. He kept several articles of clothing to prove his possession of the boy.

The boy was dead 15

GUILD SETTLES

Pacific Press Strike Ended

VANCOUVER (CP)—Members of the Vancouver-New Westminster Newspaper Guild today approved a 28-month wage contract, ending a three-day strike against Pacific Press, Ltd.

An estimated 400 union members at an 8 a.m. meeting in a temporary strike hall approved the agreement in a voice vote.

Pacific Press prints The Sun and Province daily newspapers.

The agreement, which provides for an increase of 16 per cent for senior reporters and advertising salesmen, was reached at 3 a.m. after 15 hours of bargaining.

A company spokesman said the agreement provides for an increase of 16 per cent on all salaries over $140 a week. Minimum rate for senior reporters and advertising salesmen will go to $177.50 during the last month of the agreement from the present $147.75 a week.

A spokesman for the union said it was difficult to describe increases in terms of percentages because the guild had bargained for various dollar increases in a wide range of classifications.

For example senior reporters, whose minimum rate now is $147.75 will receive $161.05 retroactive to July 1—an increase of nine per cent; $172.35 Sept. 1, 1968—an increase of seven per cent; plus an additional $5.15 in the final month of the contract.

This works out to about 20 per cent over the life of the contract.

The company's final offer before the strike began last Friday was for a 16-per-cent increase over 28 months with a

Cold Weather Grips Europe

LONDON (UPI) — A storm system chilled Europe today with some of the coldest weather in 28 years, piling up six-foot snowdrifts on Yugoslavia's usually mild Adriatic coast and spreading snow to the Italian boot and southern Spain.

Temperatures in the Alps fell to the lowest level in years. It was 13 below zero at one northern Italian ski resort and temperatures in the Dolomites were the coldest since December 1939.

Snow closed all mountain passes from Spain through the Pyrenees into France. More than a foot of snow was reported at Pamplona in Northern Spain.

Bologna, Florence and the Italian Riviera were blanketed with snow and most of Germany, Poland and Russia already had snow.

FIFTH PEDESTRIAN

Man Killed Crossing Road In Saanich

An 81-year-old pedestrian died in St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday night one hour after he was hit by a car on the Trans-Canada Highway at Tillicum Road.

Joseph Adlington, 581 Dumeresq Street, is the fourth octogenarian killed on Greater Victoria streets in the past three weeks.

Saanich police said Adlington was crossing the highway from north to south when he was hit by an eastbound car driven by Roy Twan of 1644 Northfield St. in Nanaimo.

Adlington was rushed to hospital by Saanich ambulance. The driver was also taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. He was treated for face cuts and released.

DARK CLOTHING

Police said Adlington was wearing dark clothing. The heavy Sunday rains had stopped, but the roads were still wet.

Mr. Adlington was born in England and emigrated to Winnipeg where he was a postman for many years.

He moved to Victoria on his retirement 18 years ago. His wife died last February.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said an inquest will be held, but the time and place are still to be determined.

Sunday's traffic death is the fifth pedestrian killed in three weeks.

On Nov. 21, Alfred Kneen, 85, of 1345 Stanley, died three hours after being struck by a car at Pandora and Stanley.

Twelve hours later, on Nov. 22, Miss Winnifred Tucker, 82, of 340 Linden, died shortly after being hit by a car in the 1100 block Fairfield.

On Nov. 28, six-year-old Lenore Harkin was killed when struck by a car as she crossed Douglas St. south of Tolmie.

Dec. 5, Mrs. W. W. Patterson, 81, of 1333 Fort, died one hour and 20 minutes after she was knocked down by a car at Fort and Fernwood.

There have been 22 traffic fatalities in Greater Victoria this year.

Soviet Trial Delayed

MOSCOW (AP) — The trial of four young Russian intellectuals on charges of anti-Soviet propaganda was postponed today. The postponement came after a plea by 44 intellectuals that the trial be open to the public, but there was no indication that this caused the delay.

Skim Milk From USC Saves Thousands of Young Lives

By KATHRINE THOMAS

Malnutrition is responsible for 70 per cent of all diseases in India.

Little Azari Khatoon in a Salvation Army Clinic in Calcutta weighed five pounds at the age of one.

After 13 months of intensive feeding with Canadian-bought milk, she weighed 17.2 pounds.

In the same city, a three-and-a-half-year-old child was brought to the clinic weighing 13 pounds—another four-year-old had never walked, due to lack of food.

One woman carried her three-year-old boy 175 miles on her back to see the doctor in Calcutta.

It was easy, the child weighed 14 pounds.

According to the director of the Bala Mandir Foundlings Home in Madras, abandoned babies are delivered at their threshold weighing three pounds.

Only once last year did she have one weighing the normal six pounds.

"But out of 80 babies admitted in 1964," she said, "only 10 had died."

The others she has been able to save through Unitarian Service Committee skim milk.

More than 70 per cent of the children also have worms.

Often the worms crawl out of the children's noses and mouths.

Often whole families in India have taken poison rather than face such starvation.

The Indian government is doing its best—through food rationing to distribute wheat more fairly.

But India needs Canadian milk. In 1966 six carloads of milk (216,000 lbs.) were shipped to 11 different USC distribution areas in India.

One six-ounce cup costs slightly over one cent.

Since the Indian diet is more devoid of proteins than ever before, this precious milk, bought with funds contributed during the Times Christmas Appeal, is desperately needed.

Malnutrition is definitely on the increase in India and yet one cent buys a cup of milk.

Once cent for a cup of milk.

Indian Quake Kills 100

(Times News Services)

BOMBAY—A violent earthquake hit mountainous southwest India today, levelled a town at the epicentre and left 100 dead, more than 1,000 injured and more than 5,000 homeless, Maharashtra State officials said.

The town was Koynanagar, 150 miles southeast of Bombay in the Ghats Mountains. The United News of India said 80 per cent of the houses and buildings in the town were destroyed.

The town sits atop a 3,000-foot mountain and is the site of a major hydroelectric dam serving Bombay. The dam was reported undamaged, but power was shut down, blacking out Bombay.

Home Minister Y. B. Chavan went to the scene. All available state transport, buses and ambulances with doctors and nurses was sent from Bombay.

The quake struck as most people slept.

LOOSE MONEY CAR BRINGS POLICE ON RUN

LONDON (UPI)—A freight car loaded with $48 million worth of banknotes broke loose from a Liverpool-bound train today, bringing police on the run.

A security alert to Scotland Yard brought police cars pouring to Willesden Junction in northwest London to surround the freight car until a spare engine was brought and the money and wagon were towed away.

The car, with three guards locked inside, came uncoupled from the train not long after leaving Euston Station.

PM Rejects Money Plea For Houses

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal-provincial housing conference zeroed in quickly on the subject of money at its opening session today.

Prime Minister Pearson said less, not more, will be available from the federal government for housing and urban development in 1968.

The conference was attended by all provincial premiers except Bennett of B.C. and Thatcher of Saskatchewan. B.C. was represented by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

Most premiers said Ottawa must give housing programs utmost priority and provide even more direct lending through Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

Mr. Pearson also said that long-range financing of urban development should properly come from provincial and municipal tax revenues, not federal coffers.

See Stories Page 3

Premier Robarts of Ontario and Premier Smith of Nova Scotia were outspoken in disagreement on the point.

FAIL TO SEE LOGIC

Massive financing by the federal government is the only way to meet urban needs, Mr. Robarts said.

Mr. Smith failed to see the logic of the prime minister's statement that there is "more justification for using provincial taxing power" in housing and urban environment matters.

Premier Johnson of Quebec stressed Quebec's concern over federal "intervention" in housing matters, which he said began in 1919 and has continued since.

Quebec and Ottawa now were in agreement on existing federal programs and he did not want to see more federal initiatives, Quebec would exercise full powers in urban affairs and demand no-strings cash if federal funds are extended in future for specific programs.

There was little enthusiasm for a proposal by Mr. Pearson to set up a new national council that would define targets for WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Supreme Court declared unconstitutional today a section of federal law that bars members of Communist-action groups from working in defence plants. The provision, a section of the Subversive Activities Control Act of 1950, "is an unconstitutional abridgement of the right of association protected by the first amendment" of the United States constitution, said Chief Justice Earl Warren.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Some irregularity in oilseeds was evident in late trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange while action in other commodities was light.

Flaxseed eased in early trading but the development of export interest as the session progressed firmed prices. There were reports that 1,100 tons of flax was sold to Europe and 1,500 tons to Portugal. Some expansion of hedging sales in rapeseed resulted in an easier tone.

CHICAGO (AP)—Corn futures advanced two cents on the Chicago Board of Trade in active dealings influenced by the weather.

Wheat futures declined 1½ cents but other commodities showed only small changes.

Commission house and local selling on the opening weakened wheat prices. Additional liquidation later in the session by some commercial interests also tended to weaken prices.

Soybeans trade was light throughout the session and was influenced to a degree, by the advance of corn prices. Soybean oil turned weak near the close while soybean meal showed some later strength.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Mining Issues Stronger

Industrials dropped sharply as western oils continued to advance in moderate trade on the Toronto Stock Exchange this afternoon.

In New York the market took a loss while mining issues showed consistent strength during morning trade on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

AT TORONTO Fraser companies fell 3 points to 19 at the announcement by Continental Can of Canada it has broken off exploratory takeover talks with Fraser.

Dupont declined 1½ to 25, Inco 1½ points to 124½, Bank of Nova Scotia ⅜ to 14¼ and Bank of Montreal, Royal Bank and Consumers' Gas each to 11, 14¾ and 20, respectively.

Falconbridge advanced 1¼ to 88, Magna Electronics ⅜ to 20¼ and Hudson's Bay Co. ¾ to 20¾.

In western oils, Hudson's Bay Oil gained 1¼ to 46 and Scurry-Rainbow 1 point to 45. Canadian Gridoil fell 1¼ to 14.

In base metals, Highland-Bell declined ¼ to 14½.

In gold stocks, Dome Mines gained 2⅛ points to 58¼.

AT NEW YORK trading was active and at one point during the morning the new ticker tape trailed by one minute in reporting floor transactions.

Declines among individual issues topped advances by less than 100 issues in a reversal of an earlier trend.

The market failed to respond to what was considered by brokers to be favorable business news during the weekend. This included a report that manufacturers expect a sales increase of 3.5 per cent this quarter and of another three per cent next quarter.

On a delayed opening of 44,000 shares, Bunker Hill spurted 7⅞ to 54¾. C. E. Schwab, Bunker Hill president, had advised stockholders to reject an offer by Gulf Resources to acquire 700,000 Bunker Hill shares at $56 a share.

AT MONTREAL Fraser Co. dropped more than three points, while CIL, International Nickel and Union Carbide were each off one point in early afternoon trading.

Fraser tumbled 3¾ points to 18¾ on volume of 1,980 shares, as investor's hopes for a takeover offer melted.

Union Carbide dropped 1¾ points to 16, CIL 1⅜ to 13½, and International Nickel 1¼ to 125¼.

Speculative mines and oils were mixed on the Canadian Stock Exchange. United Asbestos jumped 20 cents to $7,80, while United Obalski slid 18 cents to $1.28.

AT LONDON firm equities and renewed weakness in gilt-edged securities was the stock market picture today.

A further fall in sterling at first induced some small selling in the gilt-edged market. Selling dried up later, however, and losses were reduced to show maximum falls of 3s 8d.

Dollar stocks raced ahead helped by a strong dollar premium. ITT rose 16 points. International Nickel was strong at 313 and other Canadians also advanced, with the exception of Dome and Hudsons Bay, both a shade off.

VANCOUVER — Brenda and Dynasty both added .25 from Friday's close. Brenda climbed to $7.85 and Dynasity to $7.60. Northlode, the mining board's most active issue, rose .10 to 97 as 169,000 shares changed hands by 11 a.m. Utica rose .10 to $4.45 on a volume of 124,000 shares.

On the industrial board, Cominco declined .62 to $25.87, while Neon Products rose .50 to $10.87.

In oils, Merit was the most active issue climbing three to .26½ on a volume of 37,000 shares.

'U.S. Firm Trying To Break Strike'

VANCOUVER—The Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union charged today the strike-bound Canada Rice Mills and Martin and Robertson Limited with using Americans in Arkansas to break a legal strike in British Columbia.

Union international representative John Squire of Vancouver said in a statement the company has closed its business in suburban Richmond and "is attempting to operate through numerous addresses in the city of Vancouver."

He likened it to a "floating crap game."

Mr. Squire said rice from Arkansas has arrived in Vancouver via Fort William on the Canadian National Railways.

If the operation succeeds it will destroy the legal strike and cause loss of employment for more than 100 workers, he said.

"This will not happen as our union intends to picket the employer's place of business regardless of what address or name the company attempts to operate from," he said.

The strike is over the union's request for a 50 cents an hour wage increase, he added. Present rates range from $1.65 to $2.56.

just one darn minute!

That's the most an Accutron® timepiece will gain or lose in one month's time. And we'll put it in writing.†

Accutron looks like a watch. But it isn't. It doesn't have a mainspring, a hairspring, or a balance wheel.

These parts make a watch run fast or slow. Accutron has replaced them with an electronic-powered tuning fork. It splits each second into 360 equal parts. And makes the Accutron timepiece so precise, it won't gain or lose an average of more than two seconds a day. In fact, we guarantee accuracy to within 60 seconds a month.† Just one darn minute.

The old-fashioned balance wheel principle is used in all watches; not the Accutron movement. The Accutron tuning fork makes possible the first guarantee of accuracy ever given.

CABBAGE NO. 1

'Memorable' Performance

NEW YORK (CP) — Genevieve Bujold, pretty daughter of a Montreal bus driver and acclaimed as an actress in both Canada and France, has added the U.S television audience to her growing list of credits.

GENEVIEVE
. . . lots of praise

The authoritative TV Guide, a widely circulated U.S. television weekly magazine, calls the 25-year-old bilingual Canadian "Cabbage No. 1" of Canada and France.

Miss Bujold, wife of CBC producer Paul Almond, received handsome praise for her star performance in the two-hour production of George Bernard Shaw's Saint Joan Monday night on NBC's Hallmark of Fame.

Robert Hartung's adaptation of the satire, which Shaw developed around the well-known legend of the 15th Century Maid of Orleans, was skilful. The production, like all Hall of Fame dramas was rich and handsome. But most important, it was beautifully and effectively cast.

PRAISES DEBUT

Cynthia Lowry, Associated Press television-radio columnist, writes:

"Genevieve Bujold, a newcomer to television in the United States, gave a truly memorable performance as Joan, first as an eager country girl with a God-given mission to lead an army and save France, and, finally, as a mature and sophisticated ghost returning to hear her friends and enemies justify and defend the actions that carried her to the burning— and to sainthood."

Amid the fine performances of such theatrical giants as Maurice Evans as the fanatic heretic hunter, Toronto-born Raymond Massey as the urbane inquisitor and Roddy McDowell as the silly dauphin, Miss Bujold was "vividly effective," Miss Lowry says.

The playwright's purpose was to examine, within the discipline of the Joan of Arc legend, the lengths to which men can be led by expediency, superstitution and stubbornness. The movement of the drama from stage to tube lost none of Shaw's bite and cynicism. It was a fine two hours.

FINDS APPEALING

TV Guide, in a full-length feature on the child-like Miss Bujold says her looks are as internationally appealing as sex and French-fried potatoes.

Now living in Toronto, Miss Bujold started her career in Montreal as part of the great flowering of French-Canadian culture that resulted in among things, Montreal's Expo 67. In Montreal she worked in as many as four media—radio, television film and the stage in a single day.

In Toronto, she appeared in some CBC English-language roles and she honed her talent by performing in French and English in Moliere, Shakespeare Ibsen and Anouilh.

She toured France and Russia in 1965 with a Montreal repertory company. Her picture in the Paris newspaper France Soir caught the eye of the New Wave director Alain Resnais (Hiroshima, Mon Amour) and she was given a screen test and hired for the part of Nadine, the young revolutionary, in his movie La Guerre Est Finis.

Miss Bujold made several more movies in France and Canada most notably The Thief of Paris

Her latest, Isabel, is directed by her husband.

Jon Ruddy, writing in TV Guide, says: "Fans in France declared that she was their chouchou numero un, which loses something in tranlsation She remained, of course, Cabbage No. 1 in Montreal, too."

Maneater Kills Six in a Week

NEW DELHI (UPI) — A man-eating tiger has killed six persons in less than a week in the village of Kurundi in dense jungle in central India, district officials said.

Many of the inhabitants of the remote area, called "The Paradise of Tigers," believe that man-eaters are not beasts but restless human souls which have entered the bodies of tigers.

Local authorities were reported to have offered rewards for the destruction of the marauder and asked professional hunters to try to kill it.

SURGEON APPLAUDS COURAGE OF PATIENT

Heart Transplant Miracle Described

The following article was written for The Associated Press by Professor Christian Barnard of Groote Schuur Hospital, Cape Town, who on Dec. 3 led a team of surgeons performing the world's first human heart transplant. He describes the operation and talks about the future of heart transplants.

By CHRISTIAN N. BARNARD

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—At the beginning of November, 1967, following a successful kidney transplant operation some weeks earlier at Groote Schuur Hospital, a decision was taken to attempt a human heart transplant operation.

Ten years of experience in open heart surgery and a four-year research program on organ transplantation had given us the background for confidence of a successful outcome to this undertaking.

It did not take long to find a patient suitable for cardiac transplant. Louis Washkansky was considered to have heart disease incurable by any known treatment other than cardiac transplantation.

He also had the correct mental approach and moral courage to submit himself to this new operation.

COMPARE ANTIGENS

His blood was examined to determine the pattern of antigens on his red cells and white cells, as this would help us to select a suitable cardiac donor. . . .

A suitable donor would be a young person with an inevitably fatal disease or injury but having an undamaged heart.

Twelve units of fresh blood were drawn from 12 fresh volunteers and cross-matched daily in case they should be needed.

Saturday, Dec. 2, a young lady—Miss Denise Ann Darvall—was admitted to Groote Schuur Hospital having suffered severe injuries in an auto accident.

Intensive resuscitation was commenced immediately after she was admitted. But when seen shortly afterwards by a neurosurgeon she was declared to have inevitably-fatal brain damage.

Intensive resuscitation was continued and permission was obtained from the girl's father to remove her heart and kidneys after death for use in transplant operations.

The team was alerted, and the injured girl and Mr. Washkansky were taken to adjoining operating theatres where preparations were continued for two simultaneous open-heart operations.

TYPES COMPATIBLE

The blood tests of the injured girl showed both the red cells and the white cells to be almost perfectly compatible with those of Mr. Washkansky.

Mr. Washkansky was anesthetized about 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

The operation commenced. Within half an hour of the commencement of the open-heart operation . . . the injured girl died.

The heart of the girl was exposed, connected to a heart-lung machine, and cardio-pulmonary bypass was commenced with cooling of the blood in the bypass heart-lung machine.

Her heart cooled, it was removed by dividing the major veins and arteries and disconnected from the heart-lung machine in the first operating theatre.

Her heart was transferred to the second operating theatre, where it was reconnected within minutes to the second-heart-lung machine and perfused—fed—with cold blood.

The perfusion continued during implantation of the heart.

Mr. Washkansky's aorta was clamped to isolate his heart from the blood circulating in the body and his severely damaged heart was excised—cut out, leaving portions of both atrial chambers to serve as the stem on to which the new heart would be grafed.

While the rest of Mr. Washkansky's body continued to be perfused from the heart-lung machine, the donor heart was sutured in position, using fine silk sutures to join the atria and main arteries of the new heart to those of Mr. Washkansky.

JOIN NERVE CENTRES

Firstly, the left atria of the patient and the new heart were joined to each other, and following this the right atria were similarly united. Next, the divided ends of the pulmonary arteries were sutured together, and lastly the two aortas were joined, the cannula—tube—which perfused the grafted heart being removed during the final stages of the suturing of the aorta.

The clamp of Mr. Washkansky's aorta was released, and the new heart was perfused by blood pumped into the aorta from the heart-lung machine.

Air was excluded from all chambers of the heart, and the rewarming of the blood in the heart-lung machine was commenced.

When the correct temperature had been reached, the new heart was given an electric shock through paddles placed on either side, and about 2¼ hours after it had stopped it started beating once more.

The rewarming of Mr. Washkansky's body continued, and about 20 minutes later the flow from the heart-lung machine was reduced, and little by little the heart took over the circulation.

Ten minutes later the heart-lung machine was switched off finally, and the new heart was beating strongly and supporting abundant life in its new body.

The tubes connecting the patient to the heart-lung machine were removed, and his chest was closed.

An x-ray picture of his chest showed all to be functioning well, and the electrocardiogram was satisfactory.

He was allowed to recover consciousness and returned to the sterile post-operative intensive-care room 6½ hours after the operation commenced.

He was still on assisted mechanical ventilation, largely as a preventive measure, and his progress continued to be satisfactory during the rest of Sunday.

POST OPERATIVE SUCCESS

Artificial ventilation was stopped the following morning, and since this time he has continued to breathe satisfactorily, his heart has functioned well, and his post-operative progress has been eminently satisfactory in every way.

Plans are under way for a second heart transplant operation within the next few weeks.

The difficulties are not only those associated with the organization of a large and highly skilled team but are most particularly concerned with the supply of suitable hearts for transplantation.

The development of new techniques in suppressing the rejection of foreign tissue implanted into the body may allow a more indiscriminate choice of donor hearts on the ground of immunological compatibility—less tendency for the body to reject a grafted heart—and may even allow the transplantation of organs from one species to another, for instance, animals to man.

EXCEEDS DEMAND

Research work in the field of organ preservation may advance sufficiently to allow the establishment of organ banks, but despite all these possible future expansions of the technique the demand for new hearts is very likely always to exceed the supply.

Artificial hearts are the logical alternative, and even though these are more likely to be freely available in the future, their development and perfection are still many years ahead.

The vast majority of human hearts function perfectly for up to 80 years, and few if any machines can match this continuous performance.

Consideration must also be given to the criteria used in determining suitable patients for heart replacement, and it seems likely that this is a problem that will assume great importance in the very near future.

Factors such as age, the existence of other diseases and the importance to society of the individual involved may have to be taken into account.
